MEMBER OF HIGHLANDERS OF TORONTO WRITES INTERESTING LETTER TO HIS AUNT

Lowell friends of Earle J. Wilson of Torby, N. B., are in receipt of a very interesting letter which he wrote to his aunt. Mr. Wilson joined the 48th Highlanders of Toronto, and was sent to the front with the first Canadian contingent. He was wounded in the battle of Langemarck and was sent to hospital in Stamford, England. The letter reads as follows:

Burgley House, Stamford, Eng. May 15, 1915.

Dear Aunt:

I sent you a post card from France saying that I would write at the first opportunity but failed to do so. However, this will pass probably. You will notice in the box that I am in England being fostered by the benevolent generosity of the Marchioness of Exeter, who has graciously bestowed on us almost all the conveniences and luxuries within her power. The Marchioness, I understand, is in the R. F. A. The little goes back to London and you will find in Tennyson a description of one Lord Burghley's marriage to the daughter of a farmer and of her subsequent early death. Our particular abode is in Orange Court, of which I may send you a post-card later. Outside our door is an exceptionally pretty and well-kept flower garden with a fountain lazily playing in the center. With all due regard for the rest of the garden—which of course is a spacious one—I think we are engaged in the prettiest corner. Of the Marchioness, I will say that she is all that the real world lady implies. To say more would be superfluous. Of the Marchioness I can say nothing, but his is a volunteer and to our left the same infernal vapor hung heavily to the ground and drifted toward us. The occasional artillery fire had been to put us off our guard being the usual daily compliment awarded us. But on the same instant along a front of possibly 12 miles a vicious inferno of artillery fire broke loose comprising everything from 10 pounders to 17 in. howitzers. The French Colonial Algerian between and the Fifth Royal (a Montreal Highland regiment), showed up their yellow streak in an instantaneous mobbish retreat. A French officer who got probably 50 of them together and made them stand not as a gracious reward a copper pellet from the French Lebel rifle, through the back. And here before going further, it's well to remark that these troops were advertised through every paper I have seen as absolutely without the knowledge

DETERMINED STAND TO HOLD LEMBERG

Russians Make Supreme Effort to Check Onrushing Austro-German Armies—Italians Now Occupy Twice as Much Territory as Was Offered as the Price of Italy's Neutrality

In Galicia the Russians are making a determined stand to hold Lemberg, the capital from the onrushing Austro-German armies. It is admitted in Petrograd that the Russians have retired beyond the line of lakes near Grodek 15 miles west of the city. A German correspondent, however, sends word that the Russians are fortifying heavily a line ten miles west of Lemberg.

Italian Advance

The Italian invasion of Austria, which is being pushed all along the frontier, is said by newspapers of Rome to have resulted thus far in the occupation of more than twice as much territory as was offered by Austria as the price of Italy's neutrality. A communication from the Italian general staff states that the Austrian fortress of Malbork is being demolished. Malbork is about 20 miles from Villach. This city, Trent and Trieste constitute the three recent objective points of the Italians.

POLICE COURT CASES

MAN FINED FOR CARRYING BRASS KNUCKLES—CHAUFFEUR WITHOUT LICENSE

Mohammed Ali, the man arrested in the local court room yesterday afternoon by Sgt. Petrie for having in his possession of a concealed weapon, was fined $50 by Judge Enright in police court this forenoon. He was represented by Daniel J. Donahue.

The implement alleged to have been carried by the defendant, a vicious looking set of brass knuckles with sharp points, was shown to His Honor by Sgt. Petrie, the only witness for the government. He told of Ali interfering with the interpreter during a hearing in the court room yesterday afternoon. Ali was placed in the dock at the request of the court and later was seen by Sgt. Petrie putting something in his trousers' pocket. The police officer searched him and extracted the brass knuckles. It is claimed that Ali told the police that someone had attempted to break into his house and he carried the weapon for protection.

Testifying in his own defence, Ali said that he found the knuckles near the entrance to the Booth mills early last Thursday morning and carried them until the time of his arrest. He claimed that he did not know for what purpose the weapon was used. Relative to the incident in the court room yesterday, defendant said he wanted the interpreter to understand something about a witness who was testifying. He denied that he ever told a witness for the defence in the larceny case that he intended to use the instrument. His Honor found the man guilty of the offence and imposed the minimum fine.

Chauffeur's License

Wilfred P. Vayo was accused by a patrolman on Middlesex street for driving his machine at an exceedingly fast speed. It was charged. When questioned he could not display his operator's license and was summoned into court today. His attorney, Geo. F. Toye, explained to the court that Vayo recently applied to the Mass. Highway commission for a chauffeur's license and was returned a permit to drive until the license arrived. By mistake he left the permit at home yesterday and hence his appearance in court. At the recommendation of Lawyer Toye, the case was placed on file.

Charles H. Frost, accused of a statutory offence, waived examination in the local court and was held in the sum of $5000 for the superior court, probable cause being found. He was represented by D. J. Donahue.

The case of Tony Silva, charged with drunkenness, was continued until next Tuesday. Deputy Downey stating that the government wanted time to prefer another charge against the defendant. There were a few intoxication cases disposed of by fines.

A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

TWO MEN THROWN FROM WAGON WERE REMOVED TO THE LOWELL HOSPITAL

Howard D. Smith and E. J. Lutien, both of 30 Hawthorne street, were injured shortly before noon today in a runaway accident on Merrimack street, near the corner of James street. It is claimed that the men were driving along the street in a light wagon when the horse became frightened of a passing motorcycle. The horse dashed ahead, throwing both men to the street when a wheel of the wagon caught in a rail. The ambulance was called and both were taken to the Lowell hospital suffering from scalp wounds. The horse was stopped by a pedestrian a short distance down the street. The injured men said they did not see the motorcycle after it passed the wagon.

OLD PAPER MILL BURNED

Some valuable mill property was endangered last evening when a spectacular two-alarm fire occurred in a brick building at the blind end of Howe street, owned by John A. Simpson of 57 Methuen street and occupied by T. E. Chase & Son, dealers in paper. It was estimated this forenoon that the loss to both building and contents would exceed $7000, mostly covered by insurance.

Handicapped by the difficult location of the property, the firemen found the blaze one of the hardest to get under control that they have battled with for several years. The building is a large brick structure situated at the further end of Howe street in a very dark spot and surrounded by factories and tenement property.

The first alarm was sounded by Officer John Sullivan at 8.30 o'clock from box 81, corner of Andover and Fayette streets, several hundred yards away from the scene of the fire. This fact brought the department out of the way and by the time the apparatus had turned around and made a trip through East Merrimack and Howe streets, the fire had gained a good headway and was raging furiously.

Realizing the danger of a serious conflagration, Chief Saunders immediately ordered another alarm sounded from box 5, Howe and East Merrimack streets. The fire worked upward quite rapidly and soon broke through the roof, making a spectacular blaze. For some time the fire-fighters played several streams onto the top or over the building, but the blaze continued to eat its way along the roof and sides and it was not until the roof was reduced to a skeleton that the fire was brought under control. After the roof was laid open tons of water were poured into the building from either side and the flames were checked, though the fire smouldered in the building until after 2 o'clock this morning, when the "all out" signal was sounded.

The dense smoke which arose from the fire and circled round the building made the work of fighting the fire much harder. The large quantity of thick, heavy smoke was due to the contents of the building, mostly heavy baled paper, which smouldered and burned slowly.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Chief Saunders decided that the danger of a more serious fire was over and ordered part of the apparatus to return to its quarters.

The damaged building was valued at about $8000 and was partly insured. Arthur A. Chase of the Chase & Sons Co. states that although he estimates the value of the contents from $5000 to $7000, it would be impossible to estimate the loss until after an inventory had been taken.

During the height of the fire a gas explosion occurred in the cellar of the building, making a loud report. There were no firemen near the section at the time, however, and fortunately no one was injured.

Fred C. Church carried insurance on the building and contents burned on Howe street last night.

WHITE WAY EXTENSION

Celebration Planned for Upper Merrimack Street on Monday Evening

Plans are all in readiness for the second white way celebration to be held by the business men of upper Merrimack street Monday evening, and unless something out of the ordinary happens, such as a severe storm, the event will be conducted as arranged.

The promoters of the extension of the white way in Merrimack street, or, in other words, the officials of the Merrimack Business Men's Association, were notified by Supt. Hunnewell of the Lowell Electric Light corporation this morning that the lights will be turned on at the appointed time, and that he and other officials of the corporation were trying to devise some feature to enter in the big parade. Four of the most energetic workers of the district have interviewed all merchants along the new route, and sufficient money has been obtained to make the celebration a memorable one. These men are Thomas J. Fitzgerald, E. Peiliter, J. C. Manseau and John A. Osgood. This morning the district will offer special inducements in their respective lines in order to demonstrate to the citizens in general that the district is composed of "live wires."

The celebration will consist of a concert by the Sixth Regiment band, parade and fireworks, while it is understood that all business men of the district will offer special inducements in their respective lines in order to demonstrate to the citizens in general that the district is composed of "live wires."

The Sixth Regiment band will report at 6:30 o'clock and will give concert numbers in various parts of the district until 9:30, after which closing time. Red fire will be burned throughout the evening and a fine display of fireworks will add to the splendor. The parade will be participated in by nearly everyone in the district, and it promises to be very nearly on a par with the big parade held when the lights were first turned on for the main celebration. The lights will be turned on at 7:35 o'clock.

The business men of the district wish it understood that despite the fact that special bargains will be offered, car fares will be refunded to

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
One gets into the spirit of "The Cowboy and the Lady" which is being shown at the B. F. Keith theatre, its two final times today. The story is easily followed, splendidly acted and the scenic background is of the sort that gives the proper atmosphere. The scenery is that of California, out on the mountain ranges, where an easterner has a big cattle farm. Into this little place there comes the woman whom the easterner had loved years before. But she is married, and is in the mountains with her dissipated husband, who has been ordered west to regain his health. The husband in the case is brutal and unfaithful. He encourages a scheme to run away with the proprietress of a dance hall, but is punished by her lover. However, the easterner aforementioned is charged with the crime, and is about to be executed when the woman he had loved years before by a long ride brought evidence in time to save his life. There are thrills aplenty in the picture, which is in five parts. The show men are also shown. Tomorrow afternoon and evening five brand new pictures will be shown, and beginning Monday and continuing the next day, the week, "The Three of Us" with Mabel Taliaferro in the leading part, will be shown.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
This is the very last day of "Double Paramount week" at the Merrimack Square theatre. This is the first time such a gala event ever occurred in this city and it has been patronized by capacity crowds at every performance. Today is, accordingly, the last day on which Mary Pickford will appear in her inimitable characterization of little Lulu Plink in the five-act Paramount feature, "Behind the Scenes." It is a dramatic story of the ups and downs of theatrical life with growing success at last, but access to be enjoyed for a short time. For her husband who is the owner of a large wheat farm in the west moves her to give up the triumphs for which she strove and to live in the quietude and persistently, "Little Mary" acting is superb throughout the entire play and she is supported by a very strong cast. "The Arab," the other five-act picture which is also being shown today for the last time, has created much favorable comment among theatre-goers because of the unusual splendor of every scene, most of which are taken in the heart of the desert. It is an absorbing play concerning the massacre planned by the Turks against the Christians and how the influence of the little lady who is a teacher of the mission prevails upon the Arab who is the only one who can avert this horrible crime, to oppose and ward off this impending wholesale slaughter of the little Christian children and their parents. This picture, not the other exceptionally fine reels of pleasing pictures. A long and interesting Sunday concert will be given at the Merrimack Square theatre tomorrow. The program includes several triple reel features which are very enjoyable.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC
Don't miss the biggest show ever at the Academy of Music today, final showing of Marie Doré in "The Morals of Marcus," brilliant five reel feature. Mary Pickford in "Love's Redemption" is also on the bill, together with William Clifford and Marie Walcamp in "The Mysterious Contrabass." Ben Wilson in "The Actor of the Theatre," and others including a screaming Billy Ritchie comedy, "Hearts and Flames," Continuous today.

LAKEVIEW PARK
A sensational high diving act will be one of the special attractions at Lakeview Park next week. Bigney, known the world over for his dare devil and sensational feats is the diver in question. Bigney holds the world's record for high diving having plunged headlong from a height of 134 feet into a small tank of water four feet in depth and the announcement of his appearance is usually sufficient to attract large crowds. He carries a handsome apparatus that is studded with electric lights making a very attractive appearance at night when lighted. Bigney gives exhibitions both afternoons and evenings and will be seen at Lakeview Park all next week beginning Monday, June 21st. At the theatre the usual fine moving picture program is given twice daily with a complete change of program every Monday, Thursday and Sunday. Sunday afternoon concert by Taber's Sixth Regiment band is given both afternoon and evening. Dancing, bowling, roller coaster and merry go rounds and other amusements to be found at Lakeview are now in full swing as well as the restaurant which has been thoroughly renovated and is this year under the management of George Kenney, who is serving an excellent menu.

CANOBIE LAKE PARK
Winning such fulsome plaudits that his re-appearance was demanded by the public, Thaddeus de Wronski, Boston Opera company baritone, will be at Canobie Lake park theatre again next Sunday. He will sing those two classic pretty songs in which he swung to popular favor here two weeks ago and others will be added. "The Call of Gold" from Faust and the Toreador's Song from Carmen are the two which he has chosen to again please the capacity audience which will undoubtedly pack the park theatre. Both are of the type which win popular favor and arrangements are being made to handle a large crowd. Mr. de Wronski will be accompanied by the Haverhill Military band and a special program has been arranged for the occasion by the leader, Herbert W. W. Downes. The full-toned voice which fills the theatre and pleases everybody will be heard in songs suited both to the voice and popular fancy and the band numbers will, of themselves, be worthy the attendance. Mr. de Wronski has sung both in this country and Europe and his rendition is perfect. A student and a musician, an accomplished grand opera performer, he comes to Canobie lake with an international reputation and people hereabouts are favored by his presence. Owing to the splendid manner in which he has been received and because of the strength of the man as an attraction, he has been again engaged for next Sunday. The concert will be given from 3 to 5 Sunday afternoon and the program is:

TWO DROWNED

Boston Man and Woman
Lost Lives at Lake
Cobbosseecontee

WINTHROP, Me., June 19.—Thomas O'Neil of Jamaica Plain, Mass., and Mrs. Ella McKenna of Boston were drowned last night in Lake Cobbosseecontee.

A third occupant of the boat, Miss May Bradley, a sister of Mrs. McKenna, while clinging to the overturned craft, was rescued by George Murch of Wintthrop Center, assisted by Eugene Cole.

O'Neil was gotten ashore before life was extinct and was worked on for a long time without avail. The body of Mrs. McKenna has not been recovered. The three were on a party occupying the Harold Williams cottage on the west shore of the lake and had started out in the boat to fish. The proper place for fishing being reached, Mr. O'Neil in throwing the anchor overboard slipped and fell over the side, upsetting the craft.

Mrs. McKenna had just arrived yesterday to begin her vacation. The others have been here a week or two. Miss Bradley is prostrated over the accident.

ANOTHER PAWTUCKET BRIDGE CONFERENCE

Engineer Denman's Ultimatum—Believes Bridge Can be Built for Less Than $75,000

Engineer Walter W. Denman says to concrete bridges there is no greater that unless authorization is granted authority in the world than Mr. Luten, him to begin work on the proposed bridge at Pawtucket falls company. The conference was attended by all hands of all responsibility as to the members of the municipal council, off cost and time of completion. Unless, and on but no action was taken and the work is started right away, he the bridge question remains today would cancel his guarantee to do the work within the estimate, if done on the basis of city work which means the employment of "citizens only." A statement to this effect was made by Mr. Denman at a conference held in the mayor's reception room at city hall yesterday. Engineer Denman represents the Luten Engineering company of Springfield, and Mr. Denman allows that when it comes gineer stated, would not affect the size of the water way. It was decided, however, that there should be an agreement in writing between the Locks & Canals and the city Engineer Kearney was instructed to look after the matter. Engineer Denman said it had been made to appear that he had been granted the contract for the building of the bridge and he said he would like to see the can applied to that impression. The Luten Engineering company, whose representative Mr. Denman is, will supply the reinforced steel and will supervise the construction—perhaps. But just how Mr. Denman got it into his wise little head that his company had been granted the contract for the construction of the bridge was at a loss to know. It has been stated in The Sun, time and time again, that if the Luten Engineering company is let in on the job, Mr. Denman will be the supervising engineer; that all help shall be hired by Commissioner Morse and fired by him on recommendation of Mr. Denman; and that Mr. Denman shall supply two foremen or overseers over whom Mr. Morse will have no control. Mr. Denman stated today that he was taking a chance on the estimate and guarantee, but he believed, he said, if allowed to start at once he could build the bridge for less than $75,000, though $50,000 is the estimate. City Engineer's Office. Mayor Murphy insisted that the engineer's office was responsible for the delay in bridge proceedings. He had understood that the Locks & Canals had thought all details should be attended by the engineer's office. "Lowell," said Mr. Morse, "never had an engineer who would be capable of building this bridge." "As a rule," said Commissioner Duncan, "outside engineers are called in on all big jobs like this. The practice isn't peculiar to Lowell." "That is just what I say," Lowell never had an engineer who could do this work," said Mr. Morse. "Have you had any agreement with the Locks & Canals company in this matter?" asked the mayor, addressing City Engineer Kearney. "I was not asked to get an agreement," Mr. Morse—"Were you told to go and see Engineer Mills?" Mr. Kearney—"Yes, I saw him and talked with him, but I did not ask for any signed agreement. We spoke about the water area and he said all his company would ask was that the water area remain the same." Mayor Murphy—"It is the duty of the engineer's office to get the details. What is the office for, if not for work of this kind?" Mr. Kearney—"I would have been glad to get the agreement, had I been asked to get it." Mayor Murphy—"You ought not to wait to be asked. You knew the work belonged to your office, and you should have gone ahead with it." Mr. Kearney—"I am not a mind reader and do not profess to be. Had I known you gentlemen wanted me to get an agreement with the Locks & Canals I would have done so. All I was told to do was to see Mr. Mills and I saw him."

Duncan to the Rescue. The Mayor—"The municipal council has been given to understand right along that the Locks & Canals had approved the plans and that everything was O. K." and just at this juncture Commissioner Duncan came to the rescue. He said that Engineer Kearney was not told to get an agreement with the Locks & Canals; that he had been told to see Mr. Mills and ascertain if the company would have any objections to offer. He said the city should have a written agreement with the Locks & Canals company, but as yet, he said, the Locks & Canals people had not seen the revised plans. It was finally decided to have the plans submitted to the Locks & Canals in order that some definite action may be taken by the council at its meeting on Tuesday next. Engineer Denman said today that when the bridge matter was first broached, he thought work would begin about June 1. "Unless I am authorized to go ahead within one week," said Mr. Denman, "I would be unable to handle the job with city labor."

SUSPEND SHIP CAPTAIN

HALIFAX, N. S., June 18.—The court of inquiry that has investigated the stranding and subsequent sinking of the Plant line steamer, A. W. Perry off Chebucto Head on June 2, ruled today that the certificate of Capt. Alfred Ellis, commander of the steamer, be suspended for six months. The other officers of the steamer were relieved of all responsibility. The Perry, bound from Boston for this port, with 42 passengers and a cargo of perishable freight, struck on the ledge off Chebucto Head during a heavy fog. All of the passengers and crew were removed in safety. The steamer was on her last trip before being turned over to agents of the Mexican constitutionalist party for use as a military transport.

TAKEN AFTER BATTLE

GALVESTON, TEXAS, June 18.—Gen. Pablo Gonzales yesterday expected to occupy the city of Mexico in a few hours, following the capture of Texcoco, 15 miles from the capital, according to despatches received today by the constitutionalist consulate here from Vera Cruz. The messages added that Gen. Chagon's force had moved forward from Lagos and was beginning the investment of Aguas Calientes, Texcoco. It was said, was taken after a sharp engagement with Zapata forces.

Court of Appeals Upholds Order Directing Trial to Test Sanity

ALBANY, N. Y., June 18.—The court of appeals today upheld the order of Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Hendrick directing a jury trial to test the sanity of Harry K. Thaw. The court of appeals was unanimous in its decision which held that Justice Hendrick did not attempt to evade any responsibility in directing a jury trial, but merely wished to obtain the advice of a jury. The decision holds that Thaw has no mandatory right to a jury trial, but that it was in the discretion of the trial judge to decide whether or not such a request should be granted.

FIFTY WITNESSES MAY TESTIFY. NEW YORK, June 18.—Thaw's trial had been set for Tuesday next pending the decision of the court of appeals. His counsel have some 50 witnesses ready to testify in the case.

PITCHERS HOUSER AND GREEN EASY HARRY AUBREY NOW AN UMPIRE COBB HOLDS LEAD

Lewiston Gets to Both
Lowell Pitchers While
Schwartz Is StrongErrors Helped Lose 7-1 Contest—Team
Played Listless Ball

Hits, errors, free trips to first and all around listless baseball allowed Lewiston to triumph over the local club by a 7-1 score at Spaulding park yesterday afternoon. After the splendid performance the day before, Lewiston appeared to have fallen into its old slump again.

Joe Houser, the diminutive southpaw who broke Lowell's losing streak by pitching a week or so ago essayed to repeat the maneuver yesterday. But he couldn't do it. Perhaps the anniversary of Napoleon's Waterloo a century ago had something to do with it. Whatever it was, a very prompt demonstration of Joseph's inability to cope with the situation was shown in the second session.

Houser had his curve ball with him but nobody, himself least of all, seemed to know where the twisting sphere was bound for. The second inning saw him headed for the sliver bath.

In the fatal sixth the local slasher was very, very wild in fact untamable. McCarthy scratched an infield hit and went to second when Houser made a bad throw to McGuinn. Phillips tried to steal but McCarthy was nipped at third.

Then came Ritter with a bang to left for a couple of sacks and Houser straightaway filled the bases by walking Prysock. The port side was given one more chance to show effectiveness but wasn't in him. He passed Schwartz forcing in the first run of the game and then walked the plank himself.

Faddy Green was the next victim and the pitcher with the best steppe promptly to the rubber. Moloney just as promptly snatched out another infield hit and one more tally came over. Becker's long single center drove in a brace of Lewiston base runners. Foster and Donovan were generous and fled out to Stimpson and Barrows respectively. And the old ball game was a goner.

The one bright shining light that produced the only scored run in the sixth inning Snubner went in to catch while Albern took Louie's place at the first corner. Snubner signalled his return to diamond activity by hitting out a long triple and then bounding one to left field where he caught a double. Snubner, by the way, scored Lowell's only run.

Harry Aubrey, captain of Lowell's championship club of 1912, umpired the first game of the season in this city. He umpired a good game, too, although Arthur Irwin, manager of the Lewiston team, won't say so in all probability.

You see there is a reason why Arthur won't speak well of Aubrey. In the first inning he pitched off the lead with the leadoff man at bat Irwin began to say things about the umpire. He intimated in quite broad terms that an optician would be a fitting party for Aubrey to call upon. When Moloney was called out on strikes Irwin was inept and Aubrey was right in what he said was so much as Irwin said "Get out of the park," bawled dictator Aubrey and Irwin slowly made his non-smiling exit.

Catcher Albern of the Lowell club also came in for a lively little talking to by the umpire when he tried to tell him something or other about running a ball game. We must say that Harry bossed that ball game yesterday and no mistake and we'll further state that we liked his attitude. There's been altogether too much talking by players and managers in the circuit this season.

Lowell had only one opportunity in the contest of getting the armor of Schwartz, the Lewiston twirler. In the sixth session two singles and a base on ball filled the bases but there were two men out and nothing materialized in the seventh also the local club

CATCHER GREENHALGE

Former Lowell Player
Makes Good Indicator-holderHas Lost a Degree of Popularity Among
the Players

Harry Aubrey, now an umpire in the New England league circuit and a good one by the way, is well remembered here in Lowell as the leader of the 1913 Lowell team which swept everything before winning the league flag by a wide margin and afterwards cleaning up the post season series with Hartford, the champions of the Eastern association.

Aubrey played last year with the Lawrence team, filling in at the initial sack for Pieper's club when Louis was in a bad way for a first baseman. It was the second championship club for Aubrey as the down-river aggregation won over New London series after taking over the New England token of supremacy.

He has played ball in one league and another for a period covering a dozen years or so and has always been hailed as a popular ball player. Well liked by players and managers alike Aubrey

has seldom been obliged to hunt for a job.

As an umpire this season the former player has proved himself fitted for the job. He isn't as popular with the players or managers as he was when in uniform but then that can't be expected. Aubrey is a good judge or plays, is eminently fair-minded in his decisions and is boss of the ball game from start to finish.

In American League—
Daubert in National—
Other Averages

CHICAGO, June 19.—While Ty Cobb holds the lead in the American league and has the only batting average in the majors better than .300, most leaders have appeared in the National league according to figures published here today. Jake Daubert is ahead in the National. The leading batters of the National league, who have played in at least half of the games, including those of last Wednesday, are: Daubert, Brooklyn, .375; Ludegus, Philadelphia, .364; Plunk, Chicago, .347; Boyle, New York, .335; Fletcher, New York, .327; Gosh, Cincinnati, .318; Sauer, Chicago, .315; Connolly, Boston, .314.

Sauer leads in total bases, 108. He and Robert of New York are tied in runs scored with 55 and Robertson, New York, Johnston, Pittsburgh, and Sauer are tied in stolen bases with 13 each. Cravath, Philadelphia, leads the home run hitters with nine. New York is first in club batting with .296, and St. Louis is next with .264.

mechanical fault for he has worked hard since joining the local club. But the other pitcher we speak of doesn't appear to care whether Lowell wins or not.

Snubner Greenhalge was surely on the job with his war club yesterday. His two clips were beauties. That triple of his would have gone for a homer in the stocky little catcher leg was in shape for fast base running.

Greenhalge will drive many a pitcher into hysterics before the season starts. He is with team and the way he steps into the puch brings his whole body behind the blow. Snubner has never been a welcome sight to the opposing pitchers and his long rest has probably made him more ferocious than ever.

Lewiston has two veritable speed merchants in Becker and Moloney. Becker is the faster of the two, but Moloney isn't a snail by any means. There isn't much danger of a fly ball dropping safe between left and center fields.

The Red Fox are steadily climbing. If Currier's team can go along and break even or a little better on their next trip away from home the White Sox are pitchers will have a difficult time to hold them down. Barring accidents the Boston club's looks like at least a high bidder for the top.

RIVER CARNIVAL

Motor Boat Club Con-

The Merrimack river, just above Pawucket Falls, presented a very fascinating scene last night when beautiful, bedecked and brilliantly lighted motor boats were shown in carnival parade. It was the second annual carnival of the Lowell Motor Boat club and it was a great big success from start to finish. There was music by a section of the Lowell Cadet band and hundreds of interested spectators lined both banks of the river.

The boats left the clubhouse wharf at 8:30 o'clock and went around the course twice. The first line drew away when Commodore James H. Walker gave the signal and the procession was over at 9:15. Many of the boats burned red fire as they made the turn at a point across from Dunbar avenue and the effect was quite pretty.

In the first line the "Ara" drew the "Perceval," the boat of Vice Commodore William B. Adams, the "Rivadian," owned by C. A. Smith, and the "Nemo," owned by Eli Brooks. At the head of the second line was Eugene Dunbar's "Wiona," in the bow of which the band was seated. Likewise Joe Haggerty, who favored occasionally with the whistle. Other boats towed were the "Maria," owned by R. B. Hill; the "Alice," the property of William Mooney, and the "Sparrows" owned by William Mitchell.

Collins and Page's "Pussycat" headed the third line and the boats drawn by her were the "Milewid," owned by Wallace Shannahan, and the "Foho," owned by A. Upton. "Zip," Ed Jones' patrol boat, brought up the rear with Fred Holmes' big flyer in tow. There were a few unattached boats flitting back and forth. They did not interfere in any way with the parade, however, and their presence added to the gaiety of the scene.

After the parade was over refreshments were served to all invited guests and friends. The officers of the club, in charge, were as follows: Commodore James H. Walker; vice commodore, W. R. Adams; secretary, F. C. Nichols; treasurer, C. A. Smith, and custodian, L. C. Prouty.

FIVE MILE RACE
At a meeting of the republican city committee held last night at their rooms on Central street it was decided to make the five mile race at the outing at Bunting park on Saturday, July 10, an open event, so that runners from the surrounding cities and towns could compete. George Emsley will receive all entries and blanks can be had at any time at the Bunting Cricket club. All runners must be amateurs and members of the A. A. U. The C. M. A. C. will be the opponents of the Kimball System ball team and as there is considerable rivalry between the two teams a hot game can be expected.

Charles A. Walton of ward three was appointed chief marshal of the parade. He invites all republicans who have automobiles to join in the parade with the republican city committee. Automobiles will take the members of the city committee to grounds preceded by a band of music, and each ward will carry with them a banner designating the ward they represent. Valuable prizes will be given to the winners of the five mile race, baseball game and wrestling tournament.

EX-PRES. TAFT'S PEACE PLANS

There is nothing inconsistent in the fact that in the midst of the greatest war in history, some of the most notable men in this nation, headed by ex-President Taft, are banded together in what is meant to be a practical plan for permanent peace. The great war is in fact the reason for the proposal to end wars, and even though many do not believe that the effort of the peace propagandists will succeed, all who have realized in any degree the terrible struggle of the present will approve of their principles.

It is noteworthy that the new league of peace which has been born in Independence hall, Philadelphia, concerns itself with future wars without directly striving to end the world war of today. Evidently the wise statesmen, scholars and thinkers who are responsible for the movement have no hope that the present misunderstandings of nations will be settled by any other agency except that of war. They hope to extend the operations of universal law to the nations as to individuals, but they do not expect any law to settle the national quarrels of today except the law of force or of might. Probably the skeptic may say that as it is today, so it will be always, but so far as it is possible to prepare for a different epoch, the new peace league has anticipated every eventuality.

The aim of the new body, officially known as the "League to Enforce Peace, American Branch," is to make it impossible for any individual nation to be otherwise than peaceful in dealing with another nation. This would be brought about, in the view of Mr. Taft and his supporters, by the formation of a league among the nations or a "working union of sovereign nations to establish peace among themselves and to guarantee it by all known and available sanctions at their command, to the end that civilization may be conserved and the progress of mankind in comfort, enlightenment and happiness may continue."

The league has not been content with the uttering of some general peace platitudes such as recently emanated from high places, but has gone ahead in framing definite rules. It is proposed that all nations joining this new league of peace—and whatever governments may think, the people of all nations will be ready for such a world policy when the war is ended—to submit any questions of dispute to an international tribunal with judicial powers. Any question not settled by negotiation is to be settled before an international council of conciliation. Should every effort to avoid war fail, all the nations of the league should band themselves together to "jointly use forthwith both their economic and military forces against any one of their number that goes to war or commits acts of hostility against another of the signatories before any question arising shall be submitted as provided in the foregoing." It is also intended that conferences between the signatory powers should be held from time to time to formulate and codify rules of international law.

In many ways this seems a workable international scheme which would make future wars impossible, but can it be effective at this age? Undoubtedly if all of the great powers joined such a league, and did so sincerely, there would be hope for an era of international law to follow an era of barbarism. Yet, how recently the world saw treaties disregarded and laws thrown to the winds. Diplomacy is a selfish game, and even the most ideal of nations in the present war has some deeply sordid motive behind it. Face to face with such facts, one cannot get up any great enthusiasm over the splendid peace plans of ex-President Taft, President Lowell, Congressman Lewis, Professor John Bassett Moore, Victor C. Berger, John Wamaker, and the rest. The world may brand all such peace plans as idle dreams, but none will mock them, for all who believe in the future development of man as a rational being must hope and believe that some day the moral force of law will take the place of the brutal force of battle.

What though the peace propaganda may fail, is it not better that our leading men should be striving to heal the wounds of the world than that they should be spurring us on to join in the inferno? The men most prominent in the new peace league are also the foremost in declaring for an efficient army and navy. Their dream of a United States of the world is patterned after the United States of America.

A WAR OF SHELLS

Whatever the war set out to be and whatever the plans formulated in the war offices of the respective governments, it has developed into a war of munitions. This week saw the anniversary of Waterloo, and not so far from Waterloo engagements are being fought that in no wise resemble the engagements of the mighty Napoleon. War has changed entirely, and now victory is with those who have the best and greatest number of aeroplanes, the largest supply of rifles, cartridges and shells. Where, formerly, every strategic move was preceded by the sending of a few score shells over the enemy's lines, today shells are sent in a continuous screaming rain, by the thousands and hundreds of thousands.

This is the story of all recent engagements, and it will be still more the story of the morrow. Give either side shells enough, and they will win. This accounts for the frantic appeals which Lloyd George and other British leaders have been making to the workers of England, and for the attempts Germany has made and is making to stop the shipment of munitions of war from here to the allies. To break the deadlock in the west or to win a decided advantage in the east, steel will have to fall like hail, and wherever an attempt is made to pierce the enemy's lines or get hold of a trench in the shell and shrapnel and every species of ammunition are showered on the defenseless ranks of the enemy. Of late the story of partial success never varies much, on one side or the other. The same is made after the ground is ploughed with ammunition. In a slight attack near Neville a day or so ago, the British fired 200,000 shells, and the reply of the Germans against the frontiers in the area was a series of shells and gas. As warfare has not hitherto known, it was recently stated in the Daily Express that in one very heavy engagement, the British fired more ammunition than was used in the entire war through the entire 1914.

In the matter of ammunition, Germany has the initial advantage, for many of the British munitions may be England is now ready for a new campaign. The fall of Constantinople and the loss of Russia, which would mean the lack of shells. The allies are ready to exert all efforts, and the next few months will see a use of ammunition which the imagination cannot grasp.

ENGLAND AND THE UNIONS

The labor unions have England by the throat. While Lloyd George, commissioner of munitions, is appealing and begging for continuous work to turn out munitions sufficient to meet the needs of the army and navy, the unions are continually making trouble by demands for increased pay, by threatening strikes and by protecting men who remain idle a good part of the time.

So acute has this trouble become in England that it is the opinion of her statesmen and the conviction of outsiders that unless the difficulty be overcome, she cannot triumph in the war. Were the labor men of Germany to interfere with the work of the army to such an extent, they would be shot by the score. But England has not yet adopted the militaristic regime of Germany, yet if she does not do something to overcome present obstructions, the prospect is that she will be "beaten on a frazzle."

Even the most extreme socialists and agitators of France and Germany sank their differences and came out loyally in support of their nation's policy when put to the test. The English worker, or more properly the members of some English unions, were not openly inimical, but so unsatisfactory was their attitude that for a time the government considered conscription and compulsory service.

Recent London despatches state that after a conference with the leaders of the labor unions, Lloyd George has decided on a bill, to be introduced in the house next week, which will give the government power to prohibit strikes and lockouts and which will prevent the operation of the union schedules in government factories for a period of six months. This may do as a temporary expedient, but when the war is over there will be an issue between the English government and some branches of English labor which must be settled once for all, unless the nation is to invite serious danger from within.

STILL NEUTRAL

Last there should be any doubt that this government is honestly neutral in its policies during the war, one should turn occasionally to the comments made on the American attitude in all belligerent circles. We are told that many of the leading French papers are disappointed at the tone of President Wilson's notes to Germany, and England too is finding fault with our insistence on the rights of international law regarding neutral commerce. Germany we know to be anything but pleased, so on the whole we must decide that we are not playing the game of any nation. Even the spectacular retirement of Mr. Bryan from the political arena did not change the American attitude, which is the attitude of a vigilant and intelligent non-alignment. Americans individually may incline one way or the other, the American people may have a preference, but the American government is sincerely neutral.

That after the country had been given a pair of disgusting evidence relative to the conduct of affairs at the Pawtucket tuberculosis hospital, the afternoon who brought the charges and stirred up the mess suddenly withdrew for charges and the case came to an end. Why didn't he do it before the hearing started?

That the city hall man had the night down when he predicted that when the show-down came the mayor and Commissioner Morse would be the only members of the municipal council to stick to Mr. Deenan.

That the members of the municipal council should give up all thoughts of exceeding bumper street, building a hospital or a high school until they have set themselves right with the public on that large matter.

That judging from the unbusinesslike manner in which the municipal council has handled a comparatively small proposition involving only $56,000, what may we not expect when it comes to handle a $500,000 high school matter?

MR. CATES' COMPLAINT

He Says Park Dept. Does Him Great Injustice in Refusing to Remove an Old Tree

Alfred Cates, who is known very well throughout the city on account of having built many new and remodeled many old houses, is now building three additional houses on his land at 984 Middlesex street.

When he purchased the land, there was one old house numbered 984. He has rebuilt that and made it better than new and it is now owned by his daughter. The frontage is 15 feet. On lot of equal frontage he built a new house and sold it to a family named Lambert. The remaining 24 feet 3 in. he had laid out for a street leading to three houses he is building in the rear of his lot. The width of each of these three rear lots is 38 feet and the length 150.50 feet. He has planned a very neat single dwelling on each of these lots and has one of them completed.

The new street he has laid out and named Maud street after his daughter, Mrs. Heaps.

On the sidewalk in front of the new street is a large elm tree not in any too good condition as the roots have risen above the sidewalk and some decaying boughs had to be cut down about six months ago. He petitioned the park department to remove the tree and although a majority of the board expressed themselves in favor of its removal, the tree committee, it is believed, through a complete misunderstanding, refused to sanction the removal of the tree. This stand, it persisted in, will injure the property by several thousand dollars. Mr. Cates is increasing the taxable property on the street and he considers it a great injustice to be prevented from using his new street for a public way to the three new houses he is building in the rear. He says he has been opposed by people, mostly women who think Middlesex street should remain in the same condition it was in fifty years ago, but the park board should not be misled by such unprogressive people. By his individual efforts, he claims to have added to the city as much in the taxable property of the city as did the whole lot of people who signed the petition against the removal of the tree, yet the park board that is howling for money stands in the way of more revenue by refusing to grant a request that has been readily granted to others on that and many other streets throughout the city.

The house has six rooms, it occupies a lot approximately 4000 sq. feet, assessed at the rate of four cents per foot. The house has eight rooms and bath and occupies a lot of 5750 sq. feet assessed at the rate of seven cents per foot, the assessment totalling on land and buildings $2200. The sale is negotiated on behalf of Mrs. Laura E. Richardson, the grantee being Mr. F. Allard. Mr. Allard purchases for purposes of personal occupancy.

Sales by Hyman Bros.

Hyman Bros., real estate brokers with offices at 97 Central street, report the following sales for the week ending June 18, 1915:

Papers have been passed transferring title to a two apartment house in the Highlands. This is situated at 171-173 B street. The property was sold for James Dow, the well known builder, to the purchaser, a local party who intends to hold the property for investment purposes as it has been in the past. Several important construction and sale contracts have been closed and full details will be given later.

LOG SCHOOL HOUSES

In a certain school district of Montana, the trustees decided that they would build a log school house, and this is the way the specifications read, says a recent issue of the Improvement Bulletin:

One log house, 20x30 ft. inside (the logs are on the ground). Height from floor to ceiling, 10 ft.; the logs must be hewn on the inside; cement foundation 12 in. thick, 2x8 joists, 18 in. apart, double bridged; double floor, rough lumber with building paper between, with hard yellow pine matched floor, wainscoting 4 ft. high from floor; 6 windows, 2 on each side, size of window glass, 14x30. One door in end of room, 2 ft. 8 in. by 6 ft. 8 in., 2 in. thick, with 12-in. transom. Ceiling joists 2x6 inches, 2 ft. apart. Ship-lap must be put on ceiling, with beaver board on top and walls must be beaver board to meet wainscoting. Rafters, 2x6 in. ft. apart, sheathing solid with building paper between sheathing and shingles. Shingles must be laid 4 in. to weather; gable ends, shingled with building paper between. One brick chimney, height 4 ft. from top of roof. Put in middle of room. Shutters on outside of windows. One shed or entrance, 8 ft. long and 10 ft. wide, to be put in main building; walls from floor, 4 ft. high from floor; must be same high as main building, with paper and shingles; also gable end must be same as main building. Rough lumber on wall with paper and siding on outside. One window, 12x24 glass. Beltry put on top for school bell. One door, 2 ft. 8 in. by 6 ft. 8 in., 2 in. thick, with mortised lock.

THATCHED ROOFS

More or less comment is appearing in the foreign building and architectural journals regarding thatched roofs and a correspondent in London paper expresses great regret that on many rural cottages and farm houses thatch has been replaced by corrugated iron; that is to say, "One of the most beautiful of roof coverings has been substituted for the most hideous." Continuing he says:

"Perhaps those who live in towns are more susceptible to the beauty of thatch than are those who live in rural surroundings, are more accustomed to it, for to us the countryside would lose half its charm and individuality if the thatched roof were to disappear. There are few, if any, lovelier artificial things than a thatched English cottage or farmhouse, and none that have become more completely a part of the tradition and the spirit of the English landscape, and of the rural scenery which has for centuries inspired the work of the greatest hands in poetry and art. To those—and it is to be hoped they are many—by whom the unspoiled charm of the country is regarded as a real and valued inheritance, the loss of so time-honored a rural grace must be a matter of serious concern."

"Not only on the ground of beauty may the use of thatch be advocated, it is also a very good non-conductor of heat, consequently it is warm in winter and cool in summer. A well-thatched roof should remain snug and weatherproof with but little repair for from twenty to thirty years, and need not be placed on rafters which would be too light for other materials."

"Again looking at the subject from the farmer's or breeder's point of view, experts tell us that stock never do so well as when brought up under the thatch roof. In most places there are still good thatchers, and an increased demand would doubtless cause more men to learn the work."

"Apart from the question of cost, there are two objections generally raised against the employment of thatch; first, that it harbors vermin, and secondly that it is inflammable. As regards vermin, a dressing of corrosive sublimate is stated on high authority to be a protection against fleas, etc."

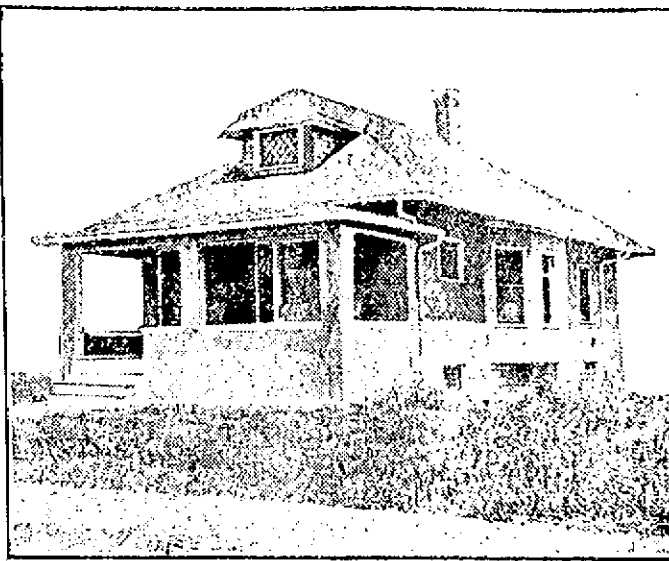

There are several effective methods of fireproofing thatch, one of which consists of sulphate ammonia 25 lb., carbonate ammonia 11 lb., borax lump 1 lb., boracic acid 7 lb., alum lump 14 lb., water 500 lb. The reeds may be dipped into this or sprayed, or it can be put on with a garden hose after the reeds are fixed."

NATIONAL FOREST RULES

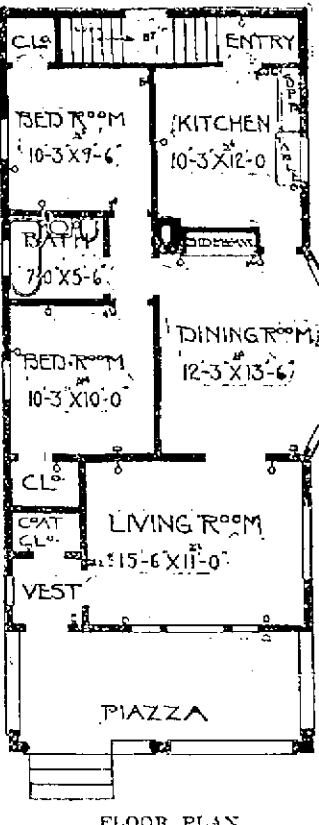

The secretary of agriculture has promulgated a set of regulations for administering the new law which provides that national forest land may be leased for summer home sites and other recreational purposes in tracts of five acres or less for periods not to exceed thirty years. This law supplements the revocable permit system under which recreational use of the forests already had developed considerably. Many users have been unwilling to make substantial improvements because of the uncertainty of tenure involved in the old form of permit, which, however, is still expected to meet the requirements of persons who are not likely to occupy the land for more than a few years, or to make elaborate improvements.

The primary object of the "term permits," as the leases are called, is not to obtain revenue but to promote the use of national forest land for recreational purposes, say the regulations. At the same time, since permittees receive special benefits, it is regarded as only fair that they should reimburse the government for

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

This bungalow plan has been built in a number of places and has proved very popular, being well arranged and economical to build. There is a full basement under entire house. First story is 9 feet high. The dormer on the exterior is for ventilation of the attic and may be opened during hot summer weather. Finish throughout first story is of red oak or birch, with birch or maple floors. Size, 22 feet wide by 42 feet deep. Can be built, exclusive of heating and plumbing, for $2250.

the expenditure incurred in administering the forests. The rates range from $5.00 a year up, in accordance with the location of the land, the demand for it, and the use to which it will be put. The district foresters are authorized to grant permits to applicants who intend to make improvements costing less than $1000 and to use the land for a period not longer than fifteen years. All other permits will be approved by the forester at Washington.

Applications must be filed with the superior court of the forest affected, designating the location of the land desired, the use to be made of it, and the approximate cost of contemplated improvements. Examination and survey of the land will be made by the forest service free of charge. An application for a hotel or summer resort site must be accompanied by plans and specifications of proposed structures and a statement as to their probable cost. The law stipulates five acres as the maximum, and it is believed that much less than this will suffice for most persons, but permittees will not be placed close together except when it is necessitated by heavy demand for land in a particular locality.

The regulations provided among other things that permittees shall comply with state laws and the rules of the department of agriculture; that premises be kept neat and sanitary; that all reasonable precautions be taken to prevent forest fires; and that in the case of a hotel or resort the permittee shall conduct his business in a legal and orderly manner.

STEEL "FORMS" AND WOOD
The appearance of a steel "form" job is much better than that obtained with wood. The lines are true; the surfaces are smooth, with none of the irregular corners one gets with boards when they shrink, or where, if a little weak, they spring. It is much easier to finish the surface after the steel forms are stripped.

But the small wedges and keys which are used are a nuisance. They are so small that they are easily lost. On one job we provided three times as many as were needed to set up all the forms, says Leonard C. Wason, president of the Aberthaw

Construction Co., Boston. After the forms had been used four times there were hardly enough keys and wedges left for the fifth. We trust to solve them by putting a man with a pail at the special task of picking them up as soon as they were removed, but had to buy more. The bonding together and wedging of panels is something which will have to be studied out by the makers, so that the keys will stay with the plates and not be lost by falling to the ground.

CHILDREN AND GOSSIP
PESTILENT AND NOXIOUS WEED IS GOSSIP—WARPS NATURAL INNOCENCE
One of the most pestilent and noxious little weeds that mar the beauty of life's garden is gossip. Wherever civilized man is found, there it thrives. It grows rankest in the least cultivated nooks of the human mind, from where its garbled roots spread out and absorb the sane, reasonable, kindlier growths of reason. No soil is too sterile or too rich for its successful incubation.

The most blighting effect of the poison this uncanny growth entails is in warping the natural innocence of the child-thought. The little one though apparently absorbed in his own affairs, when he hears his neighbor make a mental note of the unguarded utterance, and thereafter the person maligned, or ribaldized, bears in that plastic little mind a brand of unworthiness that lowers the child's respect for not only that individual but to a greater or less extent for everybody outside of his immediate family circle.

The gossip habit in the home robs childhood of that sweet confidence in man's honor and trustworthiness that follows innocent youth. If the sussip habit could be eliminated from every home in the land a higher type of citizenship would surely follow this happy consummation.

The idealist's dream of a millennium age will never be realized until mankind and womanhood shall have developed to a stage where only that which is worthy in human nature will be mentioned in the presence of children. Perchance the time will come when we shall have learned to remove the "beam" from our own eye, before naming the "mote" we discover in the eye of our brothers or sisters.

THE AURORA BOREALIS

IT IS SAID TO HAVE AFFECTED THE TELEGRAPH SERVICE IN PAST FEW DAYS

There were electrical disturbances on Thursday of this week caused by the aurora borealis and it had a serious effect on cable and telegraph lines in this and other cities in this section. For a half hour or more during the early afternoon or about noon The Sun's Associated Press operator had to sit back and take it easy. There was nothing doing on the wires that were under the spell of the aurora borealis. The disturbance was not unprecedented, the telegraph officials said, but nothing so severe has occurred in eleven years. For several hours during the early morning communication via the Newfoundland cables of the Western Union was all but paralyzed. A peculiar feature noted was that only east and west wires were affected. Interruption in land line service was frequent, the electric current being apparently subject to an induction influence of wave like effect that acts upon its intensity or that in plain terms draws it off intermittently so that the current changes from full force to a feebleness that is insufficient to operate the ticker. It is a strange phenomenon that scientists have not yet fully explained.

STREET DEPT. CRITICIZED

By Auditor in Case of Rafferty vs. City of Lowell—Award Plaintiffs $1253 for Paving Blocks

James J. Kerwin, auditor, before whom was heard the evidence in the case of Thomas Rafferty et al. vs. City of Lowell, one of several of the city's paving block discrepancies, has made a finding in the case, in which he awards the plaintiffs the sum of $1253.42, with interest from January 1, 1915, to the date of the writ.

In making his finding Mr. Kerwin awards the city's lack of system in keeping count of the paving blocks consigned to it.

The case grew out of the refusal of the present administration to pay a bill for paving blocks ordered under the former administration. The paving blocks were delivered as called for and the last consignment was made during the latter part of the year. The final bill was not presented until after the new administration came into office, and the latter disputed it and refused to honor it.

Legal proceedings were then instituted by Edward J. Tierney, on behalf of Mr. Rafferty and at the hearing the city was represented by City Solicitor Hennessy.

Auditor Kerwin's finding, in part, is as follows:

It appeared in the evidence and I find that the plaintiffs had granite quarries in Graniteville, Mass., and that commencing on June 15th, 1913, and ending September 15th, 1913, they did, in pursuance of this contract, ship to the defendant via Boston & Maine railroad several cars of granite block paving, and that said cars containing said block paving were delivered by said Boston & Maine to said defendant.

Seven thousand nine hundred and fifty-one and 84-100ths (7561.84) square yards, but no measurement of the same was made by either of the plaintiffs or any of their agents of the block paving furnished by them.

Evidence was offered by both the plaintiffs and the defendant as to the number of blocks furnished under the terms of this contract which would make a square yard of granite block paving when laid. Upon all the evidence I find that twenty-seven and one-half (27 1/2) average blocks of the paving furnished by the plaintiffs to the defendant under the terms of this contract would make a square yard of block paving when laid. Upon all the evidence I find that under the contract the plaintiffs did deliver to the defendant, and the defendant did accept nine thousand forty-eight (948) square yards of granite block paving, and as per the terms of the contract the defendant was to pay the plaintiffs the sum of one dollar and nineteen cents ($1.19) for each square yard of granite block paving. I find that the total amount due the plaintiffs from the defendant for said granite block paving was ten thousand seven hundred sixteen and 12-100ths dollars ($10,716.12). The defendant has already paid the plaintiffs the sum of nine thousand and sixty-eight dollars ($9,068).

As per the terms of the contract the plaintiffs were to deliver the paving blocks to the defendant in Lowell, and upon all the evidence I find that the defendant did pay the freight charges on certain cars containing said granite block paving, and it has been agreed by counsel that the amount so paid by the defendant, was three hundred and ninety-four and 89-100ths dollars ($394.89). Therefore, upon all the evidence I find that the total amount due the plaintiffs for granite block paving furnished and delivered to the defendant by them was ten thousand seven hundred sixteen and 12-100ths dollars ($10,716.12). From this sum should be deducted the amount already paid the plaintiffs by said defendant, namely: Nine thousand and sixty-eight dollars ($9,068), and in addition the sum of three hundred ninety-four and 89-100ths dollars ($394.89) paid by the defendant for freight, making a total of nine thousand four hundred sixty-two and 69-100ths dollars ($9,462.69) to be deducted, leaving a balance due to the plaintiffs from the defendant of one thousand two hundred fifty-three dollars and forty-three cents ($1,253.43) with interest from Jan. 1, 1915, to date of the writ.

No evidence was offered that the purchasing agent and commissioner of streets and highways of the city of Lowell, inspected said paving blocks, and no evidence was offered that any of said paving blocks were rejected because they did not conform to the specifications contained in said contract. In fact, the evidence of Harry H. Sprague, a civil engineer in the employ of the defendant city of Lowell, and attached to the city engineer's office as an engineer, who had charge of measuring pavements, showed that the blocks furnished according to specifications varied from eight (8) to twelve (12) inches in length, and that the average width of same was four and a quarter (4 1/4) inches.

Upon all the evidence I find that the defendant, through the office of the city engineer, did measure the block paving furnished and delivered by the plaintiffs to the defendant when the same was laid on Bridge street and on Gotham street, but no measurement was made of the paving which was laid in other places. The number of square yards of block paving furnished by said plaintiffs and laid on said Bridge street and Gotham street, according to the measurement made by the city engineer's department, was

EXERCISES AT KETTS THEATRE
NEXT WEDNESDAY EVENING

The commencement exercises of the Lowell high school will take place at the K. E. Keith theatre on Wednesday evening, June 23, and according to the plans the event will be one of the largest in the history of the school. Although the K. E. Keith theatre is the largest meeting place in the city, it is feared the hall will be inadequate for the large gathering that will seek admission on that evening.

The exercises will begin sharply at 8 o'clock and Principal Fish wishes it known that no one will be allowed to present any graduates any flowers over the footlights. The class will assemble at the theatre at 7:30 o'clock in order to be seated on the stage and on the scheduled time the curtain will rise.

The salutatorian will be Miss Bessie L. Quinn, a graduate of the High School, while the valedictorian will be James P. Sullivan, a graduate of St. Patrick's parochial school for boys. The ode is written by Harold Nichols, and a very unusual event in the annals of the school is the fact that Mr. Nichols also composed the music for the ode. The young man is a talented musician, having acted as Mr. Blinn's assistant in preparing operettas by the pupils of the school.

The speaker of the evening will be Hon. Robert E. Luce, former lieutenant governor of the commonwealth. The class gift will be presented the school by Martin Connors, president of the class 1915, and the acceptance will be by a member of the school committee. Hubbard's orchestra will be in attendance and Hon. Solon W. Stevens will award the historical society prizes.

The number of tickets for admission on that night is limited to four to each pupil and they will draw lots as to the location of the tickets. The list of graduates will not be announced until next week.

THE SPELLBINDER

In the beautiful art of poetry, one is permitted, when necessity requires, to depart from the strict rules of grammar, pronunciation, etc., in the interest of rhythm or rhyme, and may write with impunity lines that would be condemned as grossly inaccurate in prose-writing. Such permission is known as poetic license.

In politics, of late, there appears to have sprung into popularity, a sort of political license, under which a public official or a candidate for office considers himself privileged to make statements not strictly in accordance with facts, and to make promises, not strictly in accordance with intentions.

Mayor Murphy, it would appear, furnished a striking example of this political license by his address at the convention of the Massachusetts League for League held in this city recently. His Honor, in the course of his remarks spoke as follows:

"I received a letter today from a man who asked me not to attend this meeting. He said he was going to attend and address a meeting of the rum interests. He hoped that I would not attend the meeting of the people who,"

he said, were hostile to law and order. He said it would be a disgrace to the city for the mayor to address you."

The mayor's remarks permit the inference that some rabid prohibitionist had written the letter and that His Honor was appearing before the liquor men after a sort of warning that his presence would lose him the votes of the temperance people.

The Spellbinder, on Thursday, asked His Honor to make public the identity of the correspondent and as up to this writing His Honor has not replied the Spellbinder will supply the name of a man who wrote to the mayor, and his letter.

The mayor's correspondent in this case was not a rabid prohibitionist who thought it a disgrace for the city's chief executive to appear before the "rum-element," but rather a rabid socialist who mentions the occasion simply as an evidence of the mayor's inconsistency. The mayor's correspondence did not ask His Honor to remain away from the meeting, as the latter stated, nor did he state that his appearance there would be a disgrace to the city. But the letter sent to

Mayor Murphy speaks for itself and in part reads as follows:

Lowell, June 15th, 1915.

Hon. Dennis J. Murphy, Mayor of Lowell.

Your Honor, the Lowell Socialist club, American branch, objects to your unjust remarks against socialism, which appeared in part in the Lowell Courier-Citizen of June 11, 1915, also your unjust treatment of former occasions, and I demand to know that a communication be sent to you by our organization.

The letter then dwells on the aims and purposes of socialism, and the existing conditions that socialism in the opinion of the writer, would remedy, after which it continues as follows:

"Your political attitude has led you to believe that will be best served by slandering and misrepresenting millions of men who are making an honest and intelligent effort to better conditions; they are not five-keepers or criminals; that class belong to your party and in many instances they control it. This is in accord with none of your own statements made during your street-corner speeches.

"You denounce the street-corner agitator, William F. Sproule, within your past, Dennis J. Murphy, Esq., descended to that level, always repeating a protest against existing conditions in our city and making promises if elected mayor that your conduct would be justice to all, regardless of political affiliation, color, or whatever shade they might choose to wear. I am sure you are not a five-keeper or criminal; that class belong to your party and in many instances they control it. This is in accord with none of your own statements made during your street-corner speeches.

Yours respectfully,
William F. Sproule,
Lowell, Mass.

Republican City Committee

July 19 will be "Come Back" day for the republican city committee when it will hold its grand revival services in the shape of an outing at the hunting grounds with a bunch of big guns present.

If the outing proves a success and a spirit of enthusiasm is shown, the "machine" will proceed to oil up, and if it doesn't become disrupted during the state campaign it will be on hand with a republican candidate for mayor. Perhaps instead of saying state campaign, for the committee appears to be more deeply interested in the election of a sheriff and other county officers than in the matter of electing a governor, probably assuming that Governor Walsh will succeed himself, in any event.

The news of the coming outing has gone abroad and this week's issue of Practical Politics contains the following boost:

"If present plans carry the republicans of Lowell will be given an opportunity in that city on Saturday afternoon, July 19, to hear both Samuel W. McCall and Lieut. Gov. Cushing vividly explain their positions in their contest for the republican gubernatorial nomination. While some of the committee in charge of the outing would enjoy nothing better than arranging for a joint debate between the rival candidates, the more conservative committee members refused to stand for anything that would cause either candidate any embarrassment or anything that would tend in any way to show that the outing was anything but neutral in all the party nominations.

"The outing was to have been held earlier in the season, but former Senator Horton H. Hillen, chairman of the republican city committee, felt that the party's leaders could Congressmen John Fawcett Rogers of that city a reception upon his return from Honolulu and believed that nothing would be more appropriate than a grand get-together of the republicans from Greater Lowell to celebrate the occasion.

"While Congressman Rogers will be the guest of the occasion, Mr. McCall and Mr. Cushing will be the stellar attractions and both will be given all the lowly they desire to explain their positions in the contest. There will also be others at the outing, including Guy Han and any opponents he may have for the second place on the ticket. All the other candidates for state offices will be given an opportunity to partake of the hospitality of the Lowell republicans and incidentally deliver an address during the afternoon after the principal speakers have spoken. According to indications, the outing promises to be one of the most largely attended in that city for years."

Ward One Rep. Field

The published list of the roll calls in the house of representatives shows that Rep. Colburn of ward one and present consistently opposed the different labor measures submitted during the year, which is particularly interesting when one recalls how he came to be elected. Rep. John W. Brennan was the democratic nominee for a second term, while Mr. Colburn received the republican nomination. Michael A. Lee, the well known labor man, entered the contest as the progressive candidate and received just democratic votes enough to elect Mr. Colburn and defeat Rep. Brennan, who during his first term had voted favorably on all labor measures. Now Rep. Colburn is recorded as opposed to the interests of the men who were responsible for his election. The contest will be waged all over again this fall, though whether or not there will be a labor man as the third candidate this time is not known. Rep. Colburn will probably run again, although there is said to be some dissatisfaction in Ward One, as it is claimed that while at the legislature he has neglected his other job, that of tax collector for the town, and the town needs the money. Former Rep. Brennan will be a candidate.

The Contagious Disease Hospital

Now that the municipal council has taken on tremendous activity in the line of promoting public improvements, why doesn't it come out and make known the oldest plan of all, the fact that it is going to locate the new contagious disease hospital in Pawtucketville, where it has had a seemingly unnecessary sewer built, to accommodate it. The plan has been kept under cover for over a year, but now that the sewer has been completed and the time is drawing near when the truth will have to be known, why not come out boldly now and tell the public about it? When the new administration came into power a year ago one of its earliest acts was to abandon the contagious hospital matter by rescinding what had been done by the preceding government. Immediately afterward it voted money for a sewer in a certain part of Pawtucketville, which would benefit but few people, the necessity of which could not be seen, and although the proposition was strenuously objected to by residents of Pawtucketville and others, the money was voted and the work begun on the sewer. Everybody wondered why this needless sewer was being built when other and more necessary improvements were not considered. There was a reason, however, and it will become apparent to all as soon as the municipal council announces the site on which it proposes to build its contagious disease hospital. It may explain also the solicitude of the municipal council, particularly the members who were in office last year, for the people of Pawtucketville relative to the building of the new bridge, and the construction of it before the hospital site is announced. Up to this year certain sites for a hospital that were mentioned in Pawtucketville, were out of the question because there were no immediate sewer connections. The building of this seemingly unnecessary sewer in that section removes that objection and the hospital can now be built there if it is so desired. The matter had to be kept quiet to permit the excitement over the previous agitation to die out and also to permit the building of the sewer. The sewer has now been completed and all that is needed is something to keep the people of Pawtucketville feeling good natured when the announcement shall be made, and that something is the new bridge start within "the next four weeks," as having been given a new $100,000 bridge. It would be rank ingratitude for the residents of Pawtucketville to complain about the location of a contagious hospital at their back doors.

The Campaign Opens Early

Yesterday's Courier-Citizen in his headlines had the following: "Clean-Up Campaign Started by Police."

This was followed by an account of the arrest of several young women charged with being lewd and lascivious persons.

Now, isn't he going to run for a second term?

From now until after the municipal primaries it will be necessary for such young women to follow the straight and narrow path or leave town, while the hotel chefs must no longer cut a "step-mother's slice" in making the Sunday sandwiches, for the campaign is on.

There's nothing like making an early start.

How to Get Redress

Lowell, June 17, 1915.

Editor Sun: Will you kindly enlighten me as to how I can get redress from the Gas Light company, for an exorbitant gas bill. I think there are hundreds in Lowell who would like to have this question answered.

An Overcharged Gas User.

You win!

It is popularly supposed that there is no question under the sun that a newspaper can't answer, but our correspondent appears to have put one over.

I would suggest that an effective way would be instead of using the company's product externally, to take it internally, and thus forget this and all other troubles.

From personal experience I think you've got to grin and bear it or else use electricity. They will offer to test your meter, and probably it will stand the test, but as long as they don't test the man who reads the meter you'll have to put up with what they hand you. It is certainly annoying when, for a whole month you have partially discontinued the use of gas at your home, to get a bill a dollar or more greater than that for the preceding month during which time you know positively that you burned more of the precious fluid. That has happened time and again and the consumer always gets the worst of it. There can be but three causes. Either the pipes leak or there has been a mistake in the reading of the meter or in making out the bill.

The White Way

A correspondent desires to complain that while going down Merrimack street the other night, shortly after 11 o'clock, he was surprised to find the street in a state of semi-darkness, only one white way light in six, being lighted. He states that under the old system the street was better lighted late at night than it is at present. I'm afraid we'll have to dismiss the complaint despite its truth. The city pays men to look up the town and there's no need for private citizens attending to that work. The corporations, without cost to the city, provide a curfew that rings at 9 o'clock each evening to tip off the wayfarer that it is only two hours from closing time, thus giving him ample opportunity to get his night-cap and go home in decent season.

Evidently the municipal council figures that when the bar-rooms close it is time for everybody to go home, for the white way lights and bars become dark simultaneously, except on Mondays and Saturdays, when the white way gives the men who remain after to sweep out, an opportunity to find their way home along well lighted paths.

Haveville's Married Teacher

The city of Haverhill manages to keep in the limelight one way or another and if it isn't the nasty mess stirred up by its contagious hospital investigation that attracts public attention it's the discussion over the recent appointment of a married woman as a teacher in the public schools of that city. The Haverhill Gazette of recent date printed an interview with Supt. Dyer of the Boston schools on the matter. Says the Gazette:

When asked for a statement regarding the Haverhill case, Supt. Dyer refused to pronounce judgment on that individual case. He said:

"From my years of experience I have always found that when a teacher married and was reluctant about handling her home duties do not permit her either the time or inclination for further carrying on the school work."

"I can truthfully say that in the 30 years I have been identified with school work I have never known but one instance when a teacher married and was reluctant about handling her home duties. That case, though I would not state positively, was due to what I would call a convenience marriage. The woman had been on the teaching staff for several years."

"In regard to teachers being reinstated after their marriage, if the woman has been efficient and has been widowed, there is hardly ever any question; she is taken back immediately. In cases where the woman is not being supported by her husband and she has been efficient, she is usually taken back. I have always noticed particularly in these cases that the woman who has been forced back through misfortune is more keen to her sense of responsibility and generally, if she has been an efficient teacher before her experience, she is more efficient and a better one on her reinstatement."

The city of Lowell had a married school teacher about three weeks a few years ago, the schoolmaster, it is said, having kept her marriage a secret. When the school committee became aware of the fact the lady relieved the members of any embarrassment by resigning and "was happy ever after."

A couple of Lowell's most successful and most talented teachers at the present time, are widows. Of the remainder, some fondly anticipate early resignations while let me say most of the others are wedded to their profession and will remain on the job until the coming of the pension will relieve the pain of parting therefrom. But then, if a teacher "has the goods" what has her previous condition of servitude got to do with it? The voice is probably as competent as the other kind of widow and the latter as capable as the unmarried sister.

BET FRANK WILL ESCAPE

CASUALTIES ARE BETTING 3 TO 1 THAT HE WILL NOT BE EXECUTED

ATLANTA, Ga., June 19.—Bets of 3 to 1 that Leo M. Frank would receive a commutation of sentence from death to life imprisonment were freely made on the streets of Atlanta yesterday and around the city hall. It seems to be the unanimous opinion that the governor will grant clemency.

Another evidence of this came last night when rumors all over town were to the effect that the sentence had already been commuted and that Frank was on his way to Milledgeville, the state prison farm. These reports the governor denied.

Frank himself wears an air of assurance. Friends of the prisoner, jail keepers and the special turnkey assigned to his cell say that Frank is more cheerful now than ever. And that he constantly assures visitors that he is confident of commutation. Through-out yesterday he received friends, of long standing, and early in the afternoon his wife came for luncheon which they ate alone. His mother also came during the afternoon.

GERMANS CAPTURE FORTIFIED VILLAGE

Arrival of the Austro-German Forces
West of Lemberg Has Brought Galician Campaign to Definite Crisis—
Italians Advance—British Ship Sunk

The German war office announced today that the village of Emmerthal, about 20 miles east of Nancy, had been captured by the Germans. The French had fortified the village.

After the French defenses had been destroyed the Germans returned to their former positions.

Galician Campaign
The arrival of the assembled Austro-German armies before the Grodek positions to the west of Lemberg and along the river Tanew, which runs easterly across the southern part of the province of Lublin, has brought the Galician campaign to a definite crisis.

The Russian ability to retain Lemberg and eastern Galicia depends, it is generally agreed in Petrograd, upon this last strong line of defense, which now alone protects Lemberg from the onward rush of the Germanic armies.

British Steamer Sunk
The 2000-ton British steamer Dulcie was sunk today off Suffolk, England, by a German submarine. All the members of the crew but one were saved.

Determined Stand
In Galicia the Russians are making a determined stand to hold Lemberg, the capital from the onrushing Austro-German armies. It is admitted in Petrograd that the Russians have retired beyond the line of lakes near Grodek 16 miles west of the city. A German correspondent, however, sends word that the Russians are fortifying heavily a line ten miles west of Lemberg.

Italians Advance
The Italian invasion of Austria, which is being pushed all along the frontier, is said by newspapers of Rome to have resulted thus far in the occupation of more than twice as much territory as was offered by Austria as the price of Italy's neutrality. A communication from the Italian general staff states that the Austrian fortress of Malborgeth is being demolished. Malborgeth is about 20 miles from Villach. This city, Trent and Trieste constitute the three recent objective points of the Italians.

Italian Hold Successful
Along the Isonzo front the battle on which hinges the fate of Trieste is assuming larger proportions. Austria has sent in reinforcements of her finest troops. A raid by Italian sea-planes and dirigibles inflicted considerable damage on Austrian fortifications and railway stations on the Isonzo front.

2000 TON BRITISH STEAMER TORPEDOED AND SUNK BY GERMANS

LONDON, June 19, 1.15 p. m.—The 2000 ton British steamer Dulcie was torpedoed and sunk off Suffolk today. The members of the crew with one exception, were saved.

The Dulcie was 275 feet long, was built in 1908 and owned in Hartlepool, England. She was last reported as arriving May 21 at the Tyne from Rouen, France.

TO RESIST LANDING OF AMERICAN MARINES

NOGALES, Sonora, June 19.—Governor Jose Maytorena authorized the statement today that the entire forces under his command would be used, if necessary, to resist the landing of American marines on the west coast to protect foreign settlers of the Yaqui valley from Indians now at war.

A detachment of nearly 1000 troops sent to the Yaqui valley yesterday, he said, was despatched primarily to protect settlers and their crops from the Indians, but they had orders to resist any landing of American military forces.

FIREMEN ARE DRILLED

SOME NEW WRINKLES BROUGHT TO ATTENTION OF LOCAL FIREMEN BY DRILL MASTERS

Fire drills for the local firemen are being conducted under the supervision of Capt. Timothy Brown and Lieut. R. E. Burns. Important features of the drills have to do with hose clamps, hose jackets and the Bresnan nozzle. The latter is new in these parts and is said to be very effective for inside fire fighting. The nozzle, when placed in the center of a room where fire is raging, will flood it in a fifty foot circle. The nozzle sends out several streams an inch or more in diameter, and when connected with an engine is some fire fighter.

DENMAN'S ULTIMATUM ON BRIDGE QUESTION

He Will Quit if Not Ordered to Start Within a Week—Good Time to Drop Springfield Outfit

Engineer Denman has given the municipal council a sort of ultimatum on the bridge question.

Unless he is authorized to go ahead with the work within a week, he states that he will not guarantee to do the work within the estimate or finish it within the required time, assuming that he would have to depend on city help—or Lowell citizens.

He also states that if allowed to build the bridge and start at once he could build it for less than $50,000 or less even than $75,000. He is coming down. Some days ago he said he would not enter into competition on the bridge job. Why so?

Mr. Denman is hedging on his own statements. It appears that this would be a good time to call a halt on the Springfield combination and the rather mysterious manner in which it came into prominence in the bridge matter. If the municipal council wishes to put itself in the right light before the public, it will drop negotiations with Denman, call for plans, specifications and bids in the usual way; and out definitely what kind of a bridge is to be built and then what the city will have to pay. There are New England firms in the bridge building business that would construct a modern, respectable, up-to-date and durable bridge at Pawtucket falls for less than $75,000, less than $50,000 and also build it on time without any haggling. They are, moreover, responsible companies; that will give a bond to guarantee good work. Has the Springfield outfit offered any bond or guarantee of any kind as assurance that the work would be satisfactory, according to the arrangement?

Mr. Denman would supervise the work for the city and also for the company of Springfield by which he is employed. The arrangement in reality would be to have the Luton company furnish the steel and also furnish the engineer to supervise the work. Is such an engineer likely to find any fault with the material furnished by the Luton company? Not much. Yet there has been no word of holding anybody responsible to the city for defective work on the bridge.

If the bridge should collapse three weeks after Mr. Denman completed it the city would apparently have no redress under the proposed arrangements. Is that a safe method of doing city work? Is it right to entrust an $50,000 job to a man who is responsible to no local authority?

Commissioner Morse says the city never had an engineer fit to supervise the work of constructing a bridge. If that statement be true the city should make a change without delay; but it is not true and Mr. Morse is not a reliable authority on the ability of engineers. We believe that Engineer Kearney is quite competent to supervise the work; we believe he has other engineers in his department who could supervise it and we believe that ex-Engineer Bowley could also direct it properly and see that the job was done right.

The city engineer is the man who should supervise any such undertaking; but thus far the municipal council has ignored the engineer's department and gone ahead blindly, as it were. The only proper thing to do is to back out as gracefully as possible and that is what Commissioner Carmichael, Putnam and Duncan evidently intend to do. Judging from their vote to rescind the action taken to build the bridge.

Pawtucket Folks Stirred

The people of Pawtucketville are up in arms today and Monday morning they will march on city hall and demand definite action as to the bridge. They do not care, they say, if it is built by Denman, Gow, Smith or Jones. They want a new bridge and they threaten to raise the very dickens with the municipal council unless that body takes definite action at a meeting on Tuesday. They will ask for a conference on Monday and at that conference they will demand to know from the city fathers what they intend to do about it.

HELD SUMMER OUTING CAUGHT BETWEEN CARS

SUNDAY SCHOOL AND OTHER EXCURSIONS HELD TODAY—TWO PARTIES TO BEACH

About 30 employees of the Bay State Cotton Co., including heads of departments and office force, entertained at the Middlesex street station about 8 o'clock this morning for Salem Willows on their annual outing. The party was headed by the agent of the company, Charles W. Dearborn, and each member was attired in a blazer coat and white trousers. On their arrival at the well known resort a baseball game was played between the married men and single men, and the benedictus went out by a close score. Following the game a list of sports was run off, after which an appetizing shore dinner was served.

In the afternoon a sail in the harbor was enjoyed, the scenery and picturesque of the handsome summer homes of prominent New England citizens, situated on rocky cliffs on either side, delighting the party. The return home will be made late this evening.

Methodist Sunday Schools

Four big cars loaded down with children of the Methodist Sunday schools of this city left Merrimack square early this morning en route for Pinehurst park, the scene of their annual outing. The laughter and singing of the children attracted considerable attention in the square.

On arrival at the park a program of sports was run off and a dinner was served, which, needless to say, was the high feature of the day. The return home was made late in the afternoon.

Highland M. E. Church

The children of the Sunday school of the Highland Methodist Episcopal church also enjoyed their annual outing today, two specials being used to transport the party to Nabessee grove where a day full of pleasure was spent. The start for the grove was made about 8.30 this morning, the children being in charge of parents and supervisors of the Sunday school.

St. John's Church

Two Jumbo electric cars carried the children of St. John's Episcopal church to Mountain Rock this afternoon, where their annual outing was held.

Scott Mill Party

One car was chartered by about 90 employees of the Scott mills, who enjoyed the afternoon visiting the sights at Revere beach.

D. & M. CONDUCTOR SERIOUSLY INJURED THIS AFTERNOON—TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Daniel J. Crowe, a yard conductor on the Boston & Maine railroad, is in a serious condition at St. John's hospital as a result of being caught between an engine and freight car in the rear of the Salem Willows shops this afternoon. The man was badly crushed and the hospital physicians are unable to state whether or not he was injured internally.

The accident occurred about 2 o'clock while a crew was shifting near the Dutton street tracks. Crowe, it is said, was acting as brakeman and in some way fell between the locomotive and first car. Medical aid was rushed to his side and it was advised that he be taken to the hospital at once.

PARIS, June 19, 4.55 p. m.—The following official account of an engagement between a French and a German aeroplane was given out in Paris this afternoon:

"An enemy aeroplane having been observed over our lines at Asbach, near Thann, in Upper Alsace, one of our aviator sergeants took to the air and mounted in thirty minutes to a height of 10,500 feet. At this altitude he engaged his enemy with a machine gun.

"To this the German replied with his machine gun and one of the bullets struck the motor of the French machine. The sergeant again ascended to a position above his adversary and fired three bands of cartridges. During the third round the German aviator was seen by the Frenchman to throw up his arms. His machine then began to fall, and it came down like a stone inside our line.

CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL

LOWELL CITY FATHERS VIEW HOSPITALS IN OTHER CITIES—HOSPITAL WOULD COST $50,000

Lowell will have at least to break ground for a new isolation hospital on or before the first day of September of the present year. The city fathers are of the opinion that breaking ground will not fill the bill, but that the state board of health will insist upon an exacting standard toward the erection of a hospital that will carry the proposition a little farther along than the mere breaking of ground.

WHITE WAY EXTENSION

Celebration Planned for Upper Merrimack Street on Monday Evening

Plans are all in readiness for the second white way celebration to be held by the business men of upper Merrimack street Monday evening, and unless something out of the ordinary happens, such as a severe storm, the event will be conducted as arranged.

The promoters of the extension of the white way in Merrimack street, or, in other words, the officials of the Merrimack Business Men's association, were notified by Supt. J. H. Bennett of the Lowell Electric Light corporation this morning that the lights will be turned on at the appointed time, and that he and other officials of the corporation were trying to devise some feature to enter in the big parade. Four of the most energetic workers of the district have interviewed all merchants along the new route, and sufficient money has been obtained to make the celebration a memorable one. These men are Thomas J. Fitzgerald, E. Pellitter, J. C. Manseau and John A. Osgood. This morning they were out again, and they accomplished satisfactory results in furthering the plans.

The celebration will consist of a concert by the Sixth Regiment band, parade and fireworks, while it is understood that all business men of the district will offer special inducements in their respective lines in order to demonstrate to the citizens in general that the district is composed of "live wires."

The Sixth Regiment band will report at 6.30 o'clock and will give concert numbers in various parts of the district until 9.30, the store closing time. Red fire will be burned throughout the evening and a fine display of fireworks will add to the splendor. The parade will be participated in by nearly everyone in the district, and it promises to be very nearly on a par with the big parade held when the lights were first turned on for the main celebration. The lights will be turned on at 7.35 o'clock.

The business men of the district wish it understood that despite the fact that special bargains will be offered, car fares will be refunded to

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

One gets into the spirit of "The Cowboy and the Lady," which is being shown at the B. F. Keith theatre, its two final times today. The story is easily followed, splendidly acted and the scenic background is of the sort that gives the proper atmosphere. The scenery is that of California, out on the mountain ranges, where an easterner has a big cattle farm. Into this little place there comes the woman whom the easterner had loved years before. But she is married, and is in the mountains with her dissipated husband, who has been ordered west to regain his health. The husband in the case is brutal and unfaithful. He engineers a scheme to run away with the proprietress of a dance hall, but is plucked by her lover. However, the easterner, aforementioned, is charged with the crime, and is about to be executed when the woman he had loved years before by a long ride brought evidence in time to save his life. There are thrills galore in the picture, which is in five parts. Five shorter pictures are also shown. Tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday, the theatre will show the evening five brand new pictures. The first, "The Cowboy and the Lady," will be shown, and beginning Monday and Tuesday, the first half of the week of "The Three Musketeers" and Tallero in the leading part, will be shown.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

This is the very last day of "Double Paramount" week at the Merrimack Square theatre. This is the first time such a gala event ever occurred in this city and it has been patronized by capacity crowds at every performance. Today is accordingly the last day on which Mary Pickford will appear in her inimitable characterization of little Dolly Lane in the five-act Paramount feature, "Behind the Scenes." It is a dramatic story of the ups and downs of theatrical life with crowning success at last; but success to be enjoyed for a short time. Love for her in the heart of the desert. It is an absorbing play concerning the masses.

LAKEVIEW PARK
A sensational high diving act will be one of the special attractions at Lakeview Park next week. Bigney, known the world over for his dare devil and sensational feats is the high diver in question. Bigney holds the world's record for high diving having plunged headlong from a height of 131 feet into a small tank of water four feet in depth and the announcement of his appearance is usually sufficient to attract large crowds. He carries a handsome apparatus that is studied with electric lights making a very attractive appearance at night when lighted. Bigney gives exhibitions both afternoons and evenings and will be seen at Lakeview Park all next week beginning Monday, June 21. At the theatre the usual fine moving picture program is given twice daily with a complete change of program every Monday, Thursday and Sunday. Sunday afternoon concert by Taber's Sixth Regiment band is given both afternoon and evening. Dancing, bowling, roller skating and merry go rounds and other amusements to be found at Lakeview are now in full swing as well as the restaurant which has been thoroughly renovated and is this year under the management of George Kenney, who is serving an excellent menu.

CANOBIE LAKE PARK

Winning such fulsome plaudits that his reappearance was demanded by the public, Thaddeus de Wronski, Boston Opera company, baritone, will be at Canobie Lake park theatre again next Sunday. He will sing those two classic pieces, "The Song of the Swallow" and "The Song of the Dove," which he sang to popular favor here two weeks ago and others will be added. The "Calf of Gold" from Faust and the "Song of the Swallow" are the two which he has chosen to again please the capacity audience which will undoubtedly pack the park theatre. Both are of the type which win popular favor and arrangements are being made to handle a large crowd. Mr. de Wronski will be accompanied by the Haverhill Military band and a special program has been arranged for the occasion by the leader, Herbert W. Downes, the full-toned voice which fills the theatre and pleases everybody will be heard in songs suited both to the voice and popular fancy and the band numbers will of themselves be worthy the attendance. Mr. de Wronski has sung both in this country and Europe and his rendition is perfect. TWO DROWNED

Boston Man and Woman
Lost Lives at Lake
Cobbosseecontee

WINTHROP, Me., June 19.—Thomas O'Neil of Jamaica Plain, Mass., and Mrs. Ella McKenna of Boston were drowned last night in Lake Cobbosseecontee.

A third occupant of the boat, Miss May Bradley, a sister of Mrs. McKenna, while clinging to the upturned craft, was rescued by George March of Winthrop Center, assisted by Eugene Cote.

O'Neil was gotten ashore before life was extinct and was worked on for a long time without avail. The body of Mrs. McKenna has not been recovered. The three were of a party occupying the Harold Williams cottage on the west shore of the lake and had started out in the boat to fish. The proper place for fishing being reached, Mr. O'Neil in throwing the anchor overboard slipped and fell over the side, upsetting the craft.

Mrs. McKenna had just arrived yesterday to begin her vacation. The others have been here a week or two. Miss Bradley is prostrated over the accident.

PITCHERS HOUSER AND GREEN EASY HARRY AUBREY NOW AN UMPIRE COBB HOLDS LEAD

Lewiston Gets to Both
Lowell Pitchers While
Schwartz Is StrongErrors Helped Lose 7-1
Contest — Team
Played Listless Ball

Hits, errors, free trips to first and all around listless baseball allowed Lewiston to triumph over the local club by a 7-1 score in a game played yesterday afternoon. After the splendid performance the day before, Lewiston appeared to have fallen into its old slump again.

Joe Houser, the diminutive south-paw who broke Lowell's losing streak by pitching a wonderful ball against Lewiston a week or so ago, seemed to repeat the maneuver yesterday. But he couldn't do it. Perhaps the anniversary of Napoleon's Waterloo, a century ago, had something to do with it. Whatever it was, a very potent demonstration of Joseph's inability to cope with the situation was shown in the second session.

Houser had his curve ball with him but nobody knew where the twisting sphere was bound for. The second inning saw him headed for the shower bath.

In the faithful second the local pitcher was very, very wild in fact unmanageable. McCarthy scratched an infield hit and went to second when Houser made a bad throw to McGuinn. Phillips tried to sacrifice, but McCarthy was nipped at third.

Then came Ritter with a bang to left for a couple of sacks and Houser straightaway filled the bases by walking Prysock. The next batter was given one more chance to show effectiveness, but it wasn't in him. He passed Schwartz forcing in the first run of the game and then walked the plank himself.

Paddy Green was the next victim and the pitcher with the best stepped up promptly to the rubber. Moloney just as promptly smacked out another infield hit and one more tally came when Becker also singled to center.

Then came the pitcher's turn. He drove in a brace of Lewiston base runners. Foster and Donovan were generous and fled out to Stimpson and Barrows respectively. And the old ball game was a goer.

The one bright shining light that prejudiced Lowell eyes could discover was Snubber Greenhalge, the sixth inning Snubber went in to catch when Ahearn took Moloney's place at the first corner. Snubber signaled his return to diamond duty by hitting a long triple and then bounding one off the left field fence for a double. Snubber, by the way, scored Lowell's only run.

Harry Aubrey, captain of Lowell's championship club of 1913, umpired his first game of the season in this city. He umpired a good game, too, although Arthur Irwin, manager of the Lewiston team, won't say so in all probability.

You see there is a reason why Arthur won't speak of Aubrey. In the first inning right off the reel with the lead on his side but Irwin began to say things about the umpire. He intimated in quite broad terms that an official would be a fitting party for Aubrey to call upon. When Moloney was called out on strikes Irwin was indignant, and said so.

Aubrey did not say so much as Irwin but what he said was right to the point. "Get out of the park," bawled Gleason, Aubrey and Irwin slowly made his head exit.

Catcher Ahearn of the Lowell club also came in for a lively little talking to by the umpire when he tried to tell him something about the other pitcher. A ball game we must say that Harry batted that ball game yesterday and no mistake, and will further state that we liked his attitude. There's been altogether too much talking by players and managers in the circuit this season.

Lowell had only one opportunity in the contest of getting the armor of Schwartz, the Lewiston twirler. In the sixth session two singles and a base on ball filled the bases but there were two men out and nothing materialized. In the seventh also the local club looked like scoring when Fahey was hit and Bowcock singled but again the rooters were doomed to disappointment. The lone local run came as the result of Greenhalge's triple in the seventh and a slow infield out.

Becker, the visitors' center fielder, played gilt edge ball for the Lowell tribe. He doubled once, singled twice and drew a pass on another trip to the plate. Becker also stole two bases and stole 'em by so wide a margin that there wasn't even a question about the decision.

Stimpson and Moloney also unseated their war clubs to good advantage. Swayne made a wonderful running catch of Phillips fly in short right in the ninth inning. The score:

Former Lowell Player
Makes Good Indicator-holderHas Lost a Degree of Popularity Among
the Players

Harry Aubrey, now an umpire in the New England league circuit and a good one by the way, is well remembered here in Lowell as the leader of the 1913 Lowell team which swept every thing before winning the league flag by a wide margin and afterwards cleaning up the post season series with Hartford, the champions of the Eastern association.

Aubrey played last year with the Lawrence team, filling in at the initial sack for Peeper's club when Louis was in a bad way for a first baseman. It was the second championship club for Aubrey as the down-river aggregation won the New London series after taking over the New England token of supremacy.

He has played ball in one league and another for a period covering a dozen years or so and has always been hailed as a popular ball player. Well liked by players and managers alike Aubrey of a long drawn out dispute as the winner will be recognized as the logical successor to the former holder of the title. Few will deny that Mike Glover and Jack Britton appear in a class by themselves when welterweight issue is at stake.

No boxers in the division they represent can hardly boast of as clean and consistent record which they have ascribed aside of their record. Britton is almost as big a favorite here as Glover himself. This every appearance in Boston has been crowned with success. Whether he will be able to annex another win to his long list of victims is a question that can be decided only after next Tuesday night's encounter.

The friends of each fighter will point out the why and wherefore in their effort to show reason why their favorite will win. This only serves to show the interest that the match is creating and it is certain that there will be one of the greatest gatherings in the history of welterweight battles on hand when the welterweight contender, Glover, opens up their campaign in the fight for championship.

Glover was hardly satisfied with his battle against Matt Wells even though he won beyond a shadow of a doubt. But the South Boston man carried out his plans laid out before the contest. With Britton it will be an altogether different campaign. The Chicago fighter allows little time to waste for plans and he behooves Glover to get busy from the second round rings and nouncing the first round fight out to the finish of the contest.

There is not the slightest doubt in the minds of the sports but what the contest will be a real one of the cleanest and sharpest hitting bout decided at the club between 113 pound fighters. Knockouts have terminated the last few fights decided at the club. A organization and those results appear to please the fans about as well as anything that could happen. Clean cut victories are enjoyed by the sports of every branch of athletics and there is no exception to boxing.

There is a general feeling that next Tuesday night's battle will terminate before the time limit expires and right now it is hard to find any one who will hazard a guess which of the two will score the win. Regardless of which man wins the fans are certain of witnessing the kind of boxing entertainment they enjoy the best and this applies to every bout on the program.

Young Jasper of the North End and Eddie (Belgian) Brown, another welterweight team, will meet in a semi-final bout of eight rounds. They have already fought a 15-round draw which makes their dispute one of an unsettled variety. Two arch rivals in the amateur ranks, Johnny Murphy of So. Boston and Johnny Noonan of Dorchester will meet in a six-round bout. Both have come along with uncommonly rapid strides and it is going to be a superb struggle between them before a winner will be decided.

Jack Mansfield of Lawrence who recently held Patsey Green of Cambridge to an eight-round draw will meet Johnny Emery of Somerville in the opening six-round bout.

As both are game, willing little fellows, there is every reason to feel that their bout will prove a fine appetizer for the big events which will follow.

has seldom been obliged to hunt for a job.

As an umpire this season the former player has proved himself fitted for the job. He isn't as popular with the players or managers as he was when in uniform but then that can't be expected. Aubrey is a good judge of plays, is eminently fair-minded in his decisions and is boss of the ball game from start to finish.

RIVER CARNIVAL

Motor Boat Club Conducted Annual Event Above the Falls

The Merrimack river, just above Pawtucket Falls, presented a very fascinating scene last night when beautifully bedecked and brilliantly lighted motor boats were shown in carnival parade. It was the second annual carnival of the Lowell Motor Boat Club and it was a great big success from start to finish. There was music by a section of the Lowell Cadet band and hundreds of interested spectators lined both banks of the river.

The boats left the clubhouse wharf at 8:30 o'clock and went around the course twice. The first line drew away when Commodore James H. Walker gave the signal and the procession was over at 9:15. Many of the boats burned red fire as they made the turn at a point across from Dunbar avenue and the effect was quite pretty.

In the first line the "Ace" drew the Commodore William B. Adams, the "Riverdawn," owned by C. A. Smith, and the "Nemo," owned by Eli Brooks. At the head of the second line was Eugene Dunbar's "Wiconia." In the bow of which the band was seated. Likewise Joe Haggerty, who favored occasionally with the whistle solos. Other boats lower were the "Marla," owned by R. E. Hill; the "Alma," the property of William Mooney and the "Sparrows" owned by William Mitchell.

Collins and Page's "Pussycat" headed the third line and the boats drawn by her were the "Idlewild," owned by Wallace Shanahan, and the "Echo," owned by A. Upton. "Zip," Ed. Jones' patrol boat, brought up the rear with Fred Holmes' big float. There were a few unattached boats floating back and forth. They did not interfere in any way with the parade, however, and their presence added to the gaiety of the scene.

After the parade was over refreshments were served to all invited guests and friends. The officers of the club, in charge, were as follows: Commodore James H. Walker, vice commodore, W. B. Adams, secretary, F. C. Nichols, treasurer, C. A. Smith, and custodian, L. C. Prouty.

FIVE MILE RACE

At a meeting of the republican city committee held last night at their rooms on Central street it was decided to make the five mile race at the outing at Bunting park on Saturday, July 10, an open event, so that runners from the surrounding cities and towns could compete. George Easley will receive all entries and blanks can be had at any time at the Bunting Cricket club. All runners must be amateurs and members of the A. A. C. The C. M. A. C. will be the opponents of the Kimball System ball team and as there is considerable rivalry between the two teams a hot game can be expected.

Charles A. Wotton of ward three was appointed chief marshal of the parade. He'll invite all republicans who have automobiles to join in the parade with the republican city committee. Automobiles will take the members of the city committee to grounds preceded by a band of music, and each ward will carry with them a banner designating the ward they represent. Valuable prizes will be given to the winners of the five mile race, baseball game and wrestling tournament.

In American League—
Daubert in National—
Other Averages

CHICAGO, June 19.—White Ty Cobb holds the lead in the American league and has the only batting average in the majors better than .400, new leaders have appeared in the National league according to figures published here today. Jake Daubert is ahead in the National. The leading batters of the National in the games played in at least half of the games, including those of last Wednesday, are:

Daubert, Brooklyn, .370; Ludlum, Philadelphia, .364; Good, Chicago, .347; Doyle, New York, .345; Fletcher, New York, .327; Groh, Cincinnati, .315; Sater, Chicago, .314; Connolly, Boston, .315.

Sater leads in total bases, 135. He and Robert of New York are tied in runs scored with 35 and Robertson, New York, Johnston, Pittsburgh, and Sater are tied in stolen bases with 13 each. Gavath, Philadelphia, leads the home run hitters with nine. New York is first in club batting with .266, and St. Louis is next with .260.

Pitchers of the National league who have taken part in ten or more games and whose winning average is better than .700 are: Meadows, St. Louis, won 6, lost 1; Mayer, Philadelphia, 11 and 2; Ragun, Boston, 5 and 1; Pierce, Chicago, 3 and 1; Manau, Pittsburgh, 8 and 2; Schneider, Cincinnati, 1 and 1; Alexander, Philadelphia, 11 and 3.

Batting leaders in the American league who have played in at least half of the games are: Cobb, Detroit, .401; Jackson, Cleveland, .364; Four-nier, Chicago, .357; Veach, Detroit, .332; Lajoie, Philadelphia, .315; Grant, Detroit, .314; Malsel, New York, .312; Kavanagh, Detroit, .301.

With 61 runs to his credit in 56 games, 109 total bases and 25 stolen bases, Cobb remains in front in most departments of the game. Caldwell, New York, batted himself into a tie with O'Brien, Philadelphia, for home runs honors at four each.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

It was just the reverse of the play-out we saw Thursday. A fair sized crowd turned up after reading the account of the team's fine showing against Fitchburg but were disappointed. It wasn't so much the defeat as it was the listless sort of ball played by the local club.

Paddy Green didn't seem to care whether he got 'em out or not. He just served them up there and the plate wasn't big enough by a wide margin on some occasions.

The shift in the lineup made in the sixth inning may mean a permanent change at the initial sack. McGowan went to the bench while Ahearn took his place and Greenhalge went behind the bat.

Another infield position as well as first base is in grave danger of a change of guardianship. Indifferent clients, who were laid at McGowan's door for the youngster is at ways in there trying his best on everything. If he won't do it's simply 3.

mechanical fault for he has worked hard since joining the local club. But the other infielder we speak of doesn't appear to care whether Lowell wins or not.

Snubber Greenhalge was surely on the job with his war club yesterday. His two clips were beauties. That triple of his would have gone for a homer if the stocky little catcher isn't was in shape for fast base running.

Greenhalge will drive many a pitcher into hysterics before the season wanes. He's as dangerous with two strikes as he is with none and the way he steps into the pitch brings his whole body behind the blow. Snubber has never been a welcome sight to the opposing pitchers and his long leg has probably made him more ferocious than ever.

Lowell has two veritable speed merchants in Becker and Moloney. Becker is the faster of the two but Moloney isn't a snail by any means. They don't much danger of a fly ball dropping rare between left and center fields.

The Red Sox are steadily climbing. If Carrigan's team can go along and break even or a little better on their next trip away from home the White Sox and Tigers will have a difficult time to hold them down. Barring accidents, the Boston club's looks like at least a high bidder for the top.

MANAGER OF NEWARK CLUB
NEWARK, N. J., June 19.—Bill McKeehan, third baseman of the Newark club, was today appointed manager, temporarily, to succeed Bill Phillips, whose resignation was accepted by P. T. Powers and Harry Sinclair, owners of the local franchise.

EX-PRES. TAFT'S PEACE PLANS

There is nothing inconsistent in the fact that in the midst of the greatest war in history, some of the most notable men in this nation, headed by ex-President Taft, are banded together in what is meant to be a practical plan for permanent peace. The great war is in fact the reason for the proposal to end wars, and even though many do not believe that the effort of the peace propagandists will succeed, all who have realized in any degree the terrible struggle of the present will approve of their principles.

It is noteworthy that the new league of peace which has been born in Independence hall, Philadelphia, concerns itself with future wars without directly striving to end the world war of today. Evidently the wise statesmen, scholars and thinkers who are responsible for the movement have no hope that the present misunderstandings of nations will be settled by any other agency except that of war. They hope to extend the operations of universal law to the nations as to individuals, but they do not expect any law to settle the national quarrels of today except the law of force or of might. Probably the skeptic may say that as it is today, so it will be always, but so far as it is possible to prepare for a different epoch, the new peace league has anticipated every eventuality.

The aim of the new body, officially known as the "League to Enforce Peace, American Branch," is to make it impossible for any individual nation to be otherwise than peaceful in dealing with another nation. This would be brought about, in the view of Mr. Taft and his supporters, by the formation of a league among the nations or a "working union of sovereign nations to establish peace among themselves and to guarantee it by all known and available sanctions at their command, to the end that civilization may be conserved and the progress of mankind in comfort, enlightenment and happiness may continue."

The league has not been content with the uttering of some general peace platitudes such as recently emanated from high places, but has gone ahead in framing definite rules. It is proposed that all nations joining this new league of peace—and whatever governments may think, the people of all nations will be ready for such a world policy when the war is ended—to submit any questions of dispute to an international tribunal with judicial powers. Any question not settled by negotiation is to be settled before an international council of conciliation. Should every effort to avoid war fail, all the nations of the league should band themselves together to "jointly use forthwith both their economic and military forces against any one of their number that goes to war or commits acts of hostility against another of the signatories before any question arising shall be submitted as provided in the foregoing." It is also intended that conferences between the signatory powers should be held from time to time to formulate and codify rules of international law.

In many ways this seems a workable international scheme which would make future wars impossible, but can it be effective at this age? Undoubtedly if all of the great powers joined such a league, and did so sincerely, there would be hope for an era of international law to follow an era of barbarism. Yet, how recently the world saw treaties disregarded and laws thrown to the winds. Diplomacy is a selfish game, and even the most ideal of nations in the present war has some deeply sordid motive behind it. Face to face with such facts, one cannot get up any great enthusiasm over the splendid peace plans of ex-President Taft, President Lowell, Congressman Lewis, Professor John Bassett Moore, Victor C. Berger, John Wanamaker, and the rest. The world may brand all such peace plans as idle dreams, but none will mock them, for all who believe in the future development of man as a rational being must hope and believe that some day the moral force of law will take the place of the brutal force of battle.

What though the peace propaganda may fail, is it not better that our leading men should be striving to heal the wounds of the world than that they should be spurring us on to join in the inferno? The men most prominent in the new peace league are also the foremost in declaring for an efficient army and navy. Their dream of a United States of the world is patterned after the United States of America.

A WAR OF SHELLS

Whatever the war set out to be and whatever the plans formulated in the war offices of the respective governments, it has developed into a war of munitions. This week saw the anniversary of Waterloo, and not so far from Waterloo engagements are being fought that in nowise resemble the engagements of the mighty Napoleon. War has changed entirely, and now victory is with those who have the best and greatest number of aeroplanes, the largest supply of rifles, cartridges and shells. Where, formerly, every strategic move was preceded by the sending of a few score shells over the enemy's lines, today shells are sent in a continuous screaming rain, by the thousands and hundreds of thousands.

This is the story of all recent engagements, and it will be still more the story of the morrow. Give either side shells enough, and they will win. This accounts for the frantic appeals which Lloyd George and other English leaders have been making to the workers of England, and for the attempts Germany has made and is making to stop the shipment of munitions of war from here to the allies. To break the deadlock in the west or to gain a decided advantage in the east, steel will have to fall like hail, and wherever an attempt is made to pierce the enemy's lines or get hold of a trench, the shells, shrapnel and every species of ammunition are showered on the doomed ranks of the enemy. Of late the story of partial success never varies, whether on one side or the other. The same is made after the ground is ploughed in ammunition. In a slight attack near Neuville a day or so ago, the French fired 300,000 shells, and the gain of the Germans against the British in Gallipoli was due to a torrent of shells such as warfare has not hitherto known. It was recently stated in the British press that in one very unimportant engagement, the English forces used more ammunition than was used through the entire Boer war.

In the matter of ammunition, Germany had the initial advantage, but England is now ready for any contest. The fall of Constantinople would relieve Russia, which suffers most for lack of shells. The allies are ready to exert all efforts, and the next few months will see a use of ammunition which the imagination cannot grasp.

Charlestown saw an exhibition of downright rowdiness for which any community well might blush. As the carriage conveying Governor Walsh, Mayor Curley, Adjutant-General Cole and other officials passed, some toughs on the roof of a three-flat house raised a disturbance by hisses and jeers and then to cap the climax threw a whisky bottle, a glass and several handfuls of gravel at the dignitaries below. Three young men arrested for the outrage are aged respectively 17, 21 and 21. They cannot, therefore, be excused on the ground of youth or on any ground, and one can only wonder why all our cities are so infested of late years with the rampart hoodlums who make life so uncomfortable for decent citizens.

One who comes in touch with many phases of juvenile delinquency and common hoodlums cannot but decide that a great deal of crime is committed today merely for the sake of committing it. One can understand why orchards are robbed, why storekeepers are held up and why lead pipe is stolen from empty apartments, but it is hard to understand the crime that gives no satisfaction to the criminal, only the perpetual satisfaction of having done something wrong. Lowell, luckily, does not suffer from such things to the same extent as other cities, but from time to time parks and other public property bears the marks of wanton destruction. In large organized bands of boys, deliberately set out a short time ago to do a grove of young trees, vines, shrubs and other plants and to break their hand should be about the worst thing that can be done.

Everywhere about such as the reported case of a young man who was reported to have been shot in the back by a police officer of New England to effect a surrender of the police. The hoodlums are the most dangerous of the police, and the police should be ever alert to watch the formation of these gangs and to break them up before they become a menace to the peace of the city.

ENGLAND AND THE UNIONS

The labor unions have England by the throat. While Lloyd George, commissioner of munitions, is appealing and begging for continuous work to turn out munitions sufficient to meet the needs of the army and navy, the unions are continually making trouble by demands for increased pay, by threatening strikes and by protecting men who remain idle a good part of the time.

So acute has this trouble become in England that it is the opinion of her statesmen and the conviction of outsiders that unless the difficulty be overcome, she cannot triumph in the war. Were the labor men of Germany to interfere with the work of the army to such an extent, they would be shot by the score. But England has not yet adopted the militarist regime of Germany, yet if she does not do something to overcome present obstructions, the prospect is that she will be "beaten to a frazzle."

Even the most extreme socialists and agitators of France and Germany sink their differences and came out loyally in support of their nation's policy when put to the test. The English worker, or more properly the members of some English unions, were not openly inimical, but so unsatisfactory was their attitude that for a time the government considered conscription and compulsory service.

Recent London despatches state that after a conference with the leaders of the labor unions, Lloyd George has decided on a bill, to be introduced in the house next week, which will give the government power to prohibit strikes and lockouts and which will prevent the operation of the union schedules in government factories for a period of six months. This may do as a temporary expedient, but when the war is over there will be no issue between the English government and some branches of English labor which must be settled once for all, unless the nation is to invite serious danger from within.

STILL NEUTRAL

Least there should be any doubt that this government is honestly neutral in its policies during the war, one should turn occasionally to the comments made on the American attitude in all belligerent circles. We are told that many of the leading French papers are disappointed at the tone of President Wilson's notes to Germany, and England too is finding fault with our insistence on the rights of intergovernmental law regarding neutral commerce. Germany we know to be anything but pleased, so on the whole we must decide that we are not playing the game of any nation. Even the spectacular retirement of Mr. Bryan from the political arena did not change the American attitude, which is the attitude of a vigilant and intelligent neutrality. Americans individually may incline one way or the other, the American press may have a preference, but the American government is sincerely neutral.

SUMMER BATHING MISTAKES

At no season of the year is the bathing custom abused as in summer. The woman who is perfectly rational about baths the rest of the year plunges into excesses directly after warm weather sets in. Why she imagines she has greater endurance and can take greater chances in summer than in winter no physician or beauty specialist has ever been able to understand. Baths with reason in summer as well as in winter. Do not drop your warm baths and indulge only in cold plunges. You will be more comfortable for an occasional cold bath. And remember that a very cold bath, either in the ocean, still water or the tub, can bring on cramps of the stomach and serious intestinal troubles if taken too soon after a hearty meal.

Another folly which most women indulge in when at the shore is to think that after a sea bath she is physically clean. Sea bathing is merely a sport and the body should be cleaned with fresh water after.

TO SAVE AMERICANS

AMERICAN SQUADRON UNDER THE COMMAND OF ADMIRAL HOWARD RUSHED TO MEXICO

ADMIRAL HOWARD

An American Squadron, under the command of Admiral Howard, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, has been ordered to Mexico at once. Another "peaceful invasion" of Mexican territory by a force of 300 United States marines and an equal number of bluejackets is promised if the renegade Yaqui Indians now rampaging over the Sierras and threatening death to American colonists in the Yaqui valley do not retire at once and cease their hostile demonstration. The American colony occupies the Yaqui valley beyond the town of Esparanza, Tabasco, where it is planned to land the expeditionary force, should Governor Madero and the Villista government fail to protect the colonists, is south of Guaymas. Entire discretion has been given Admiral Howard in the handling of the situation. His instructions from Washington provide for every eventuality.

In the summer folder that is soon to be published by the Bay State Street Railway company will be the pictures of the oldest man on each division. Patrick Hammerley, a motorist of this city, who is the oldest Lowell employee in point of service will have his picture among 12 others.

MR. CATES' COMPLAINT

He Says Park Dept. Does Him Great Injustice in Refusing to Remove an Old Tree

Alfred Cates, who is known very well throughout the city on account of having built many new and remodelled many old houses, is now building three additional houses on his land at 381 Middlesex street.

When he purchased the land, there was one old house numbered 384. He has rebuilt that and made it better than new and it is now owned by his daughter. The frontage is 15 feet. On a lot of equal frontage he built a new house and sold it to a family named Lamborn. The remaining 24 feet, 0 in. he had laid out for a street leading to three houses he is building in the rear of his lot. The width of each of these three rear lots is 25 feet and the length 150.80 feet. He has planned a very neat single dwelling on each of these lots and has one of them completed.

The new street he has laid out and named Main street after his daughter, Mrs. Hoags.

On the sidewalk in front of the new street is a large elm tree not in any too good condition as the roots have risen above the sidewalk and some decaying boughs had to be cut down about six months ago. He petitioned the park department to remove the tree and although a majority of the board expressed themselves in favor of its removal, the tree committee, it is believed, through a complete misunderstanding, refused to sanction the removal of the tree. This stand, if persisted in, will injure the property by several thousand dollars. Mr. Cates is increasing the taxable property on the street and he considers it a great injustice to be prevented from using his new street for a public way to the three new houses he is building in the rear. He says he has been opposed by people, mostly women who think Middlesex street should remain in the same condition it was in fifty years ago, but the park board should not be misled by such unprogressive people. By his individual efforts, he claims to have added ten times as much to the whole list of people who signed the petition against the removal of the tree, yet the park board that is howling for money stands in the way of more revenue by refusing to grant a request that has been readily granted to others on that and many other streets throughout the city.

LOG SCHOOL HOUSES

In a certain school district of Montana, the trustees decided that they would build a log school house, and this is the way the specifications read, says a recent issue of the Improvement Bulletin:

One log house, 30x30 ft. inside (the logs are on the ground). Height from floor to ceiling, 10 ft.; the logs must be bawn on the inside; cement foundation 12 in. thick, 2x8 joists, 15 in. apart, double bridged; double floor, rough lumber with building paper between, with hard yellow pine matched floor, wainscoting 4 ft. high from floor, 6 windows, 3 on each side, size of window glass, 1x30. One door in end of room, 2 ft. 8 in. by 6 ft. 8 in., 2 in. thick, with 12 in. transom. Ceiling joists 2x6 inches, 2 ft. apart. Shipap must be put on ceiling, with beaver board on top and walls must be beaver board to meet wainscoting. Rafters, 2x6 in., 2 ft. apart; sheathing solid with building paper between sheathing and shingles. Shingles must be 4 in. to eaves, cut to gable ends, shingled with building paper between. One brick chimney, height 4 ft. from top of roof. Put in middle of room. Shutters on outside of windows. One shed or entrance, 8 ft. long and 10 ft. wide, to be put in main building; walls from floor, 10 ft. high. Roof must be same height as main building, with paper and shingles; no eaves and must be same as main building. Rough lumber on wall with paper and siding on outside. One window, 12x24 glass. Belfry put on top for school bell. One door, 2 ft. 8 in. by 6 ft. 8 in., 2 in. thick, with mortised lock.

THATCHED ROOFS

More or less comment is appearing in the foreign building and architectural journals regarding thatched roofs and a correspondent in a London paper expresses great regret that on many rural cottages and farm houses thatch has been replaced by corrugated iron; that is to say, "One of the most beautiful of roof coverings has substituted for it the most hideous." Continuing he says:

"Perhaps those who live in towns are more susceptible to the beauty of thatch than are those who, living in rural surroundings, are more accustomed to it. For to the country dweller the loss of half its charm and individuality if the thatched roof were to disappear. There are few, if any, lovelier artificial things than a thatched English cottage or farmstead, and none that have become more completely a part of the tradition and the spirit of English landscape, and of that rural scenery which has for centuries inspired the work of the greatest hands in poetry and art. To those—and it is to be hoped they are many—by whom the unsightly charm of the country is regarded as a real and valued inheritance, the loss of so time-honored a rural grace must be a matter of serious concern."

"Not only on the ground of beauty must the use of thatch be advocated, it is also a very good non-conductor of heat, consequently it is warm in winter and cool in summer. A well-thatched roof should remain sagging and weatherproof with but little repair for from twenty to thirty years, and need can be placed on rafters which would be too light for other materials."

"Again looking at the subject from the farmer's or breeder's point of view, experts tell us that stock never do so well as when brought up under the thatch roof. In most places there are still good thatchers, and an increased demand would doubtless cause more men to learn the work."

"Apart from the question of cost, there are two objections generally raised against the use of thatch: first, that it harbors vermin, and secondly that it is inflammable. As regards vermin, a dressing of corrosive sublimate is stated on high authority to be a protection against fleas, etc."

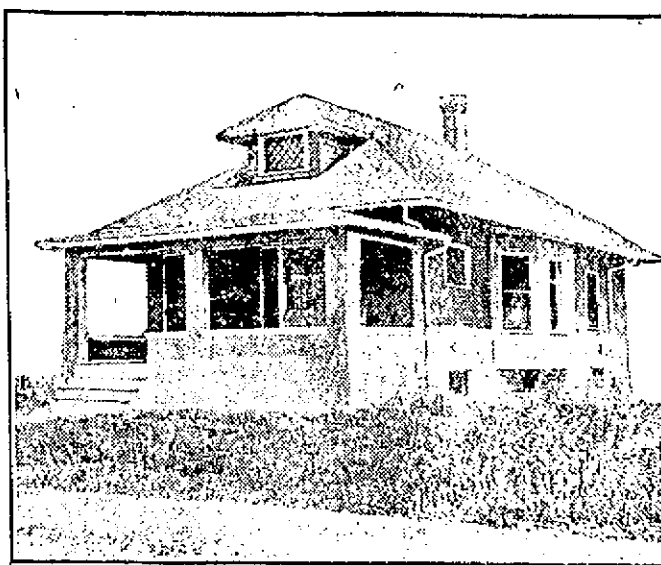

"There are several effective methods of fireproofing thatch, one of which consists of sulphate ammonia, 25 lb. carbonate ammonia, 1 lb. borax, 1 lb. lime, 1 lb. boracic acid, 1 lb. alum lump, 1 lb. water 50 lb. The reeds may be dipped into this or sprayed, or it can be put on with a garden hose after the reeds are fixed."

NATIONAL FOREST RULES

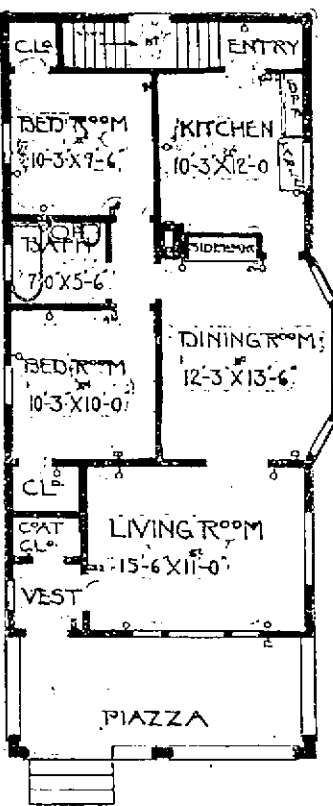

The secretary of agriculture has promulgated a set of regulations for administering the new law which provides that national forest land may be leased for summer home sites and other recreational purposes. In tracts of five acres or less for periods not to exceed thirty years. This law supplements the revocable permit system under which recreational use of the forests already had developed considerably. Many users have been unwilling to make substantial improvements because of the uncertainty of tenure involved in the old form of permit, which, however, is still expected to meet the requirements of persons who are not likely to occupy the land for more than a few years, or to make elaborate improvements.

The primary object of the "term" permits, the leases are called, is not to obtain revenue but to promote the use of national forest land for recreational purposes. The regulations. At the same time, since permittees receive special benefits, it is regarded as only fair that they should reimburse the government for

FLOOR PLAN

This bungalow plan has been built in a number of places and has proved very popular, being well arranged and economical to build. There is a full basement under entire house. First story is 9 feet high. The dormer on the exterior is for ventilation of the attic and may be opened during hot summer weather. Finish throughout first story is of red oak or birch, with birch or maple floors. Size, 22 feet wide by 42 feet deep. Can be built, exclusive of heating and plumbing, for $2,250.

the expenditure incurred in administering the forests. The rates range from $5.00 a year up, in accordance with the location of the land, the demand for it, and the use to which it will be put. The district foresters are authorized to grant permits to applicants who intend to make improvements costing less than $1000 and to use the land for a period not longer than fifteen years. All other permits will be approved by the forester at Washington.

Applications must be filed with the supervisor of the forest affected, designating the location of the land desired, the use to be made of it, and the approximate cost of contemplated improvements. Examination and survey of the land will be made by the forest service free of charge. An application for a hotel or summer resort site must be accompanied by plans and specifications of proposed structures and a statement as to their probable cost. The law stipulates five acres as the maximum, and it is believed that applicants less than this will suffice for most persons, but permittees will not be placed close together except when it is necessitated by heavy demand for land in a particular locality.

The regulations provided among other things that permittees shall comply with state laws and the rules of the department of agriculture; that premises be kept neat and sanitary; that all reasonable precautions be taken to prevent forest fires; and that in the case of a hotel or resort the permittees shall conduct his business in a legal and orderly manner.

STEEL "FORMS" AND WOOD

The appearance of a steel "form" job is much better than that obtained with wood. The lines are true; the surfaces are smooth, with none of the irregular corners, or where, if a little weak, they spring. It is much easier to finish the surface after the steel forms are stripped.

But the small wedges and keys which are used are a nuisance. They are so small that they are easily lost. On one job we provided three times as many as were needed to set up all the forms, says Leonard C. Wason, president of the Aberthaw

Construction Co., Boston. After the forms had been used four times there were hardly enough keys and wedges left for the fifth. We trust to save them by putting a man with a pail at the special task of picking them up as soon as they were removed, but had to buy more. The bonding together and weighing of panels is something which will have to be studied out by the makers, so that the keys will stay with the plates and not be lost by falling to the ground.

One of the most pestilent and noxious little weeds that mar the beauty of life's garden is gossip. Wherever civilized man is found, there it thrives. It grows rankest in the least cultivated nooks of the human mind, from where its gnarled roots spread out and absorb the sustenance kindlier growths require. No soil is too sterile or too rich for its successful incubation.

The most blighting effect of the poison this uncanny growth emits is warping the natural innocence of the child-thought. The little one, though apparently absorbed in his own affairs, when he hears his parents speak slightly of a neighbor, makes a mental note of the unguarded utterance, and thenceforth the person maligne, or ridiculed, bears in that plastic little mind a brand, unworthiness that lowers the child's respect for not only that individual but to a greater or less extent for everybody outside of his immediate family circle.

The gossip habit in the home robs childhood of that sweet confidence in man's honor and rightness that hallows innocent youth. If the gossip habit could be eliminated from every home in the land a higher type of citizenship would surely follow this happy consumption.

The idealist's dream of a millennial age will never be realized until manhood and womanhood shall have developed to a stage where only that which is worthy in human nature will be mentioned in the presence of children. Perchance the time will come when we shall have learned to remove the "beams" from our own eyes, before naming the "mote" we discover in the eye of our brothers or sisters.

There were electrical disturbances on Thursday of this week caused by the aurora borealis and it had a serious effect on cable and telegraph lines in this and other cities in this section. For a half hour or more during the early afternoon or about noon The Sun's Associated Press operator had to sit back and take it easy. There was nothing doing on the wires that were under the spell of the aurora borealis. The disturbance was not unprecedented, the telegraph officials said, but nothing so severe has occurred in eleven years. For several hours during the early morning communication via the Newfoundland cables of the Western Union was all but paralyzed. A peculiar feature noted was that only east and west wires were affected. Interruption in land line service was frequent, the electric current being apparently subject to an induction influence of wave like effect that acts upon its intensity or that in plain terms draws it off intermittently so that the current changes from full force to a feebleness that is insufficient to operate the ticker. It is a strange phenomenon that scientists have not yet fully explained.

Some valuable mill property was endangered last evening when a spectacular two-alarm fire occurred in a brick building at the blind end of Howe street, owned by John A. Simpson of 61 Methuen street and occupied by T. E. Chase & Son, dealers in paper. It was estimated this forenoon that the loss to both building and contents would exceed $7000, mostly covered by insurance.

Handicapped by the difficult location of the property, the firemen found the blaze one of the hardest to get under control that they have battled with for several years. The building is a large brick structure situated at the further end of Howe street in a very dark spot and surrounded by factories and tenement property.

The first alarm was sounded by Officer John Sullivan at 8.30 o'clock from box 51, corner of Andover and Fayette streets. Several hundred yards away from the scene of the fire, this fact brought the department out of the way and by the time the apparatus had turned around and made a trip through East Merrimack and Howe streets, the fire had gained a good headway and was raging furiously.

Realizing the danger of a serious conflagration, Chief Saunders immediately ordered another alarm sounded from box 5, Howe and East Merrimack streets. The fire worked upward quite rapidly and soon broke through the roof, making a spectacular blaze. For some time the fire-fighters played several streams onto the top or over the building, but the blaze continued to eat its way along the roof and sides and it was not until the roof was reduced to a skeleton that the fire was brought under control. After the roof was laid open tons of water were poured into the building from either side and the flames were checked, though the fire smoldered in the building until after 2 o'clock this morning, when the "all out" signal was sounded.

The dense smoke which arose from the fire and circled round the building made the work of fighting the fire much harder. The large quantity of thick, heavy smoke was due to the contents of the building, mostly heavy baled paper, which smoldered and burned slowly.

Before 10 o'clock Chief Saunders decided that the danger of a more serious fire was over and ordered part of the apparatus to return to its quarters.

The damaged building was valued at about $6000 and was partly insured. Arthur A. Chase of the Chase & Son Co. states that although he estimates the value of the contents from $5000 to $7000, it would be impossible to estimate the loss until after an inventory had been taken.

During the height of the fire a gas explosion occurred in the cellar of the building, making a loud report. There were no firemen near the section at the time, however, and fortunately no one was injured.

Fred C. Church carried insurance on the building and contents burned on Howe street last night.

Gov. Slaton Continues His Exhaustive Study of Evidence

ATLANTA, Ga., June 19.—Gov. Slaton, at his country home, continuing his exhaustive study of the case of Leo M. Frank, under sentence to be hanged next Tuesday for the murder of Mary Phagan, said today he probably would not be prepared to announce his decision on Frank's application for commutation of his sentence until Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning.

Gov. Slaton said positively there would be no respite but that by Tuesday he will decide either to commute the sentence or to decline to interfere.

FIREMEN WERE OVERCOME

TWO ALARMS. SOUNDED FOR $30,000 FIRE IN CONGRESS ST., BOSTON

BOSTON, June 19.—Seven firemen were overcome by smoke about 10 o'clock last night while fighting a fire which started on the fourth floor of the building at 224-226 Congress street. In the business district, occupied by Kenney Brothers & Wolkins, shoe supplies, and caused a damage of between $25,000 and $30,000. Two alarms were sounded for the fire.

Acting Deputy Chief Stephen J. Ryder, Acting District Chief Allen MacDonald, Edward J. Coveney, John F. Hardy, Michael J. Griffin and Arthur L. Johnson, all members of Engine 25, quartered in Fort Hill square, were overcome by smoke.

After receiving first aid treatment at a scene from Dr. John A. Foley of the Relief station, the firemen were taken to that institution, the automobiles of the fire department being pressed into service. All will be discharged from the hospital today. Griffin was also treated for a cut on his right hand, caused by falling glass.

TO SUBDU THE YACQUIS

GOV. MAYTORENA HAS REFUSED OFFER MADE BY GENERAL URBULEJO

DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 19.—Gov. Jose Maytorena, Villa commander of Sonora, has refused an offer of his services made by Gen. Urbulejo, a Yaqui chief commanding the Villa forces encamped 14 miles west of Agua Prieta, to subdue the Yaquis now on the warpath in the southern part of the state, according to a statement made here today by A. G. Aguayo, Villa consul. Aguayo said Gov. Maytorena had declined the offer on the ground that he had plenty of soldiers in that part of the state to cope with the Indians.

Despatches received at Agua Prieta from the south say the Carranza garrison at Bispepe, after a conquest of San Miguel, a neighboring town because the residents declared for Villa, have marched against the Villa towns of Bacadehuichi and Nacori, with the intention of forcing the inhabitants to embrace the Carranza cause.

PROLONG THE WAR

BERLIN, June 19, via London, 12.20 p. m.—The Morgen Post, commenting on a despatch from Washington to the Cologne Gazette, setting forth that the question of peace is being discussed, says that Americans know full well that the self-constituted peace-makers never is welcome; consequently, he is not likely to force his advice where it is not wanted.

Dr. Ignaz Jastrow, professor of political economy in the University of Berlin, discusses in the Tageblatt the impossibility of accepting the United States as an arbiter so long as Americans deliver weapons to the opponents of Germany. "In as much as every state can forbid the export of arms," the doctor says, "we wonder how Americans can fall to see that this is prolonging the war, and how they can believe it is possible for them to act as peace mediators."

DROWNED IN CANAL

CHILD ROLLED DOWN EMBANKMENT INTO THE WATER—HELP ARRIVED TOO LATE

Peter Kulaga, aged eight years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kulaga of 8 Garret street, was drowned last evening in the canal near the railroad tracks on Jackson street. His body was recovered a short time afterward and though everything possible was done to save him, life was extinct.

When he rolled down the side and into the water. Two youngsters, William and George Lowe of 31 King street, discovered the little fellow in the water and after a struggle brought him to shore. Special Officer Clark and Patrolman Cullen were called and they sent for City Physician Tighe and a policeman. For nearly an hour the doctor worked over the boy but to no avail. The body was removed to the rooms of Undertaker McDonough.

TAFT CAUSES OVERFLOW

CLIMBED INTO HOTEL BATH TUB AND THE WATER OVERFLOWED AND TRICKLED DOWN ON GUESTS

CAPE MAY, N. J., June 19.—Former President Taft came here as the guest of the Pennsylvania Bankers' association, and among other things took a bath in his apartment in the palatial Hotel Cape May. He failed properly to consider the size of the average size of the seashore bathtub, however, with the result that when he climbed into the tub the water overflowed and trickled down upon the heads of the guests in the dining room.

The entire resort, including Mr. Taft, is laughing at the incident.

The former president arrived Thursday afternoon, coming to address the bankers' banquet in the evening. He was completely fagged out after attending the sessions of the Peace league in Philadelphia and immediately went to his room, which the hotel manager had chosen especially for him on account of the good-sized bathtub to rest and bathe. The Bankers' association assembled in the dining room waited patiently for Mr. Taft to appear, and they began to grow restive when he failed to appear. Suddenly their attention was attracted to a little round spot in the ceiling, which gradually grew and grew until water came trickling down on their heads. The management was called upon to ascertain the cause of the leak and stop it, and the hotel plumber, who led the investigation, went straight to Mr. Taft's room. There it was found that the portly ex-president had got into the tub without realizing the consequence of the sudden rise in the tide and stepped out again without noticing the resulting deluge on the floor. He was napping when the plumber knocked at his door.

As Mr. Taft boarded his train he glanced at the ocean and said "I'll get a piece of that fence in some day and then when I venture there won't be any overflow."

Sing on! The spirit falls,
The stars grow dim, the light pales,
The depths are hushed, and oh! the heart that wakes, the hopes that glow!

Play on!
And this from Del Riego:
O dry those tears
And calm those fears
Life is not made for sorrow;
'Twill come, alas!
But soon 'twill pass,
Clouds will be sunshine tomorrow.
O lift thine eyes
To the blue skies
See how the clouds do borrow
Brightness, each one,
Straight from the sun;
So is it ever with sorrow.

Chauffeur's License
Wilfred P. Vayo was accused by a patrolman on Middlesex street for driving his machine at an exceedingly fast speed. It was charged. When questioned he could not display his operator's license and was summoned into court today. His attorney, Geo. F. Tovey, explained to the court that Vayo recently applied to the Mass. Highway commission for a chauffeur's license and was returned a permit to drive until the license arrived. By mistake he left the permit at home yesterday and hence his appearance in court. At the recommendation of Lawyer Tovey, the case was placed on file.

Charles H. Froel, accused of a statutory offense, waived examination in the local court and was held in the sum of $3000 for the superior court, probable cause being found. He was represented by D. J. Donahue.

SLEEPYTIME TALES

BY VIRGINIA VALE

FOR THE LITTLE READERS OF THE SUN

GRACE AND THE FAIRIES

Once upon a time there was a little girl named Grace. One very rainy afternoon she was sitting at the window with her book of fairy tales in her lap. She was a very cross looking little girl and her lips were pushed out in a big pout. She wanted to go out to play and her mother had told her it was too wet and she must stay in the house and play with her books or dolls.

As she sat thinking cross thoughts, all at once she heard a queer rustling. She looked down at her book and there, right on the edge of the page, stood one of the tiny fairies she had so often seen the pictures of in her book. Poor Grace was just a little frightened but she tried not to look so. Then the fairy began to dance. First she hopped on one foot and then on the other and her lovely wings glistened like the sun. "Why," said Grace, "it almost seems as though the sun were shining."

"Yes," said the fairy, "my name is Sunbeam, and I came to dance for you so you would not be cross anymore." Just then there was another rustle, and as Grace looked up she saw another fairy all dressed in green. "Who are you?" asked Grace. "I am Happiness," she replied, "and I came to tell you to try hard to be happy for it won't rain all the time and besides you have a lot of lovely things to play with here."

So the two fairies and Grace danced together and Grace showed all of her toys and dolls and they had a very happy time. At last they said they must fly back into the book but they would come again and play with her if she would be a cheerful little girl and make the best of things.

Then they disappeared and Grace very carefully put the book away, just as her mother came in and said: "Grace dear, wake up. It is almost dark and you must put away your toys and get ready for supper."

"Oh mother, I haven't been asleep," she said, "I have been dancing and playing with my fairy friends and they are coming to see me again."

Her mother just smiled and then Grace rubbed her sleepy eyes and smiled too.

BRIDGE ACROSS ATLANTIC

GATHERING OF FURTHER EVIDENCE TO SUPPORT THEORY THAT ONE ONCE EXISTED

ST. JOHN, N. F., June 18.—The gathering of further evidence to support the theory that there was once a land bridge stretching across the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Great Britain and thence to Scandinavia is one of the purposes of a geological expedition from Princeton university which will visit Newfoundland this summer. Similar parties from Princeton have conducted investigations along the southern bays of the island during the past three years and besides obtaining valuable collections of rocks, minerals and fossils, have made discoveries tending to solve various geological puzzles.

Prof. Gilbert Van Ingen, who has been here with two of the expeditions (and fossils bearing marked resemblance to those unearthed in Wales and Sweden. This led him to formulate the theory that in pre-historic times it may have been possible for animals to travel on dry land across what is now the Atlantic ocean. He considered that this idea was supported by the fact that an under-water shield of rock upon which many telegraph cables have been laid in recent years, extends across the Atlantic.

TO HOLD OUTING
Lowell lodge, No. 457, I. O. E. A., will hold a picnic and package party at Crystal lake, tomorrow, June 20. The event will include canoe and swimming races. The lodge has engaged a Haychill orchestra for the occasion.

AN ITALIAN RAID | AIRMEN KILLED IN FALL

Biplane Plunged to Ground—G. H. Hersey Lived But 5 Minutes, W. D. Ely Died in Ambulance

BOSTON, June 19.—A biplane driven by Harry M. Jones, the aviator who made the recent flight over Boston, and carrying two students of aeronautics, collapsed while flying 25 feet over the Lotta Crabtree estate at Squantum yesterday afternoon and dived sideways, eventually killing the two passengers. They	A week later Providence started for New York and made Providence on the first day. From there, it made most a series of mishaps and did not reach Gotham until March 5. He landed in the village of Rye, N. Y. Before returning to Boston he made a moonlight trip over New York city. On the way back to Boston his engine was wrecked at Narragansett Pier. where H. Hensley, Jr., 21 years of age, of 3 Waumbec street, Squantum, and William D. Ely, Jr., 19 years of age, of Providence.

James was cut and bruised and received concussion of the brain. He was taken to the Quincey hospital, where last night it was said that he would recover.

What caused the accident is a matter of conjecture, as James, the only survivor, was too dazed last night to give an explanation. It is believed, however, that the motor backfired and destroyed the equilibrium. The machine tilted to the left, and under the strain of the weight of three passengers, the struts broke and the left wing crumpled.

A week ago he circled the customhouse tower at 4 a. m., and after rising to a great height, glided across Dorchester bay onto to Squantum field. The day following he discovered that he had transgressed the law, and went to the state house to obtain a permit for flight over the city, which he failed to obtain. He was told that while the aviation law was on the statute book, no appropriation had been made to put it in operation.

Wednesday James intended to race the Merchants' limited from Boston to Providence, but was late in starting. He rose in the air to find the train had left Providence, so instead he flew to Providence and after circling the city landed on the baseball park at Cranston.

SULLIVAN IS MATCHED

HE WILL SWIM AGAINST RICH

One opinion as to the cause of the accident was that the passengers in some manner interfered with Jones' control of the machine, and still another was that the operator "dipped" the machine too sharply, and the extra weight of the third passenger caused it to shoot downward with a lapse. But these theories found few believers in view of the manner in which the machine fell.

Flew Over Quincey Hay

The three men ascended from the Squantum aviation field at 5.50, and after soaring to some height, flew over Quincey hay. There Jones circled a few times and took a westerly course toward the aviation field. The altitude was reduced somewhat on the return trip, and when over Miss Crabtree's estate on Ocean street, Jones attempted to soar that a knoll might be passed over safely. He started circling, but his motor suddenly went dead. Spectators heard a loud report, and then saw the machine fly over to the left, crumple and fall to earth.

Harry G. Pope and Edward Lowry, employees on the Crabtree estate, rushed to where the machine fell, about 50 yards in front of the mansion, and Mrs. John Jefferson, who lives nearby, called the police on the telephone.

In the meantime Dr. George H. Place of the Boston City hospital, Dr. A. L. Ripley of Brighton and Dr. D. A. Bruce of Quincy, who were motoring in the vicinity, saw the machine fall, hurried to give the assistance they knew would be needed, and the police also called Dr. George E. Conant and Dr. W. A. Bartlett.

Landry and Pope found the three men frightfully mangled and unconscious in the mass of wreckage. HERSHEY, lying at the bottom, was caught under the machine and the form of Ely.

match is pulled off he will tire out after having gone this distance. Sullivan is a remarkably fast swimmer considering the fact that he has a breast stroke almost entirely, and he possesses untold endurance. In his English channel swim he carried within a mile of reaching the French coast, despite the unfavorable conditions, and many think that he would have accomplished the task if he had not been dragged out of the water against his own wish. He reached Boston light on his first attempt.

If Richards agrees to abide by the proposal for the match Sullivan will go into training during his vacation period which will come within a

Jones was partly supported by the remnants of the left wing and was clutching a tangled wire.

Taken From Wreckage

The rescuers took the men from the debris and placed them on the grass before the first of the physicians arrived.

Only a glance was necessary to tell the doctors that Hersey's neck was broken and that his chest was severely crushed. It was evident that he was beyond all hope, and they gave their attention to Ely, whom they found suffering from a fracture of the skull and a fracture of the right leg.

Hersey lived but five minutes, and passed away before the arrival of the police ambulance with Acting Chief

Mickey and Patman Hollingsworth. Early during this time sank rapidly, and was treated with difficulty. Little hope was held by him, as he was lifted into the ambulance. Stimulants were given to him before the start of the trip to the hospital, but he was so far gone that they produced little effect, and he died before the institution was reached.

The cause of death was found on the face, caused by striking against wires as the machine hit the sack. His head was severely bruised and concussion of the brain was so severe that he returned only to semi-consciousness. He was taken to the hospital in a physician's automobile.

holding anybody responsible to the city for defective work.

If the bridge should collapse three weeks after Mr. Deming completed it, the city would apparently have no redress under the proposed arrangements. Is that a safe method of doing city work? Is it right to entrust a $30,000 job to a man who is responsible to no local authority?

Commissioner Morse says the city now has no one to supervise the work of constructing a bridge.

If that statement be true the city should make a change without delay. But it is not true and Mr. Morse is not a reliable authority on the abilities of engineers. We believe that Engineer Bowers is a competent man to supervise the work; we believe that other engineers in his department who could supervise it, and we believe that ex-Engineer Bowers, could also direct it properly and see that the job was done right.

It is not true, either, that the city should employ a city engineer is the man who should supervise the work of contracting; but thus far the municipal council has ignored the engineer's denials.

BATTLE IN AIR

German Craft Fell 10,000 Feet After Attack by French Aviator

PARIS, June 19, 4.55 p. m.—The following official account of an engagement between a French and a German aeroplane was given out in Paris this afternoon:

"An enemy aeroplane having been observed over Alençon, near Thann, in Upper Alsace, one of our aviator sergeants took wing and mounted in thirty minutes to a height of 10,500 feet. At this altitude he engaged his enemy with a machine gun.

"To this the German replied with his machine gun and one of his bullets struck the motor of the French machine. The sergeant again ascended to a position above his adversary and fired three bands of cartridges. During the third round the German aviator was seen by the Frenchman to throw up his arms. His machine then began to fall, and it came down like a stone inside our line.

"The French aviator came down under control. Once on the ground he examined his machine. He found that bullets fired by his antagonist had perforated his cylinder, penetrated the steel shield at the back of the motor and riddled his sails. The Frenchman himself was slightly wounded in the neck."

PAPERS FOR GOV. WALSH

O'LEARY GETS NOMINATION PAPERS FOR GOVERNOR—PEACE ISSUE

BOSTON, June 19.—As candidate for governor on the "Bryan-American-Democratic-Peace Party" ticket, Whitfield L. Tuck of Winchester has entered the campaign. He took out papers yesterday and is confident that he can get the required 10,000 signatures from four counties.

Mr. Tuck says, in announcing his candidacy, "The creator is greater than the created and Bryan created Wilson. Therefore, I propose to ascertain how many of those who upheld Mr. Bryan will stand together for his principles."

Among the interesting political gossip yesterday was the announcement that Chairman Michael A. O'Leary of the democratic state committee will start the circulation of 10,000 nomination papers for Gov. Walsh, although he has not received a statement from the governor that he will seek renomination. Mr. O'Leary is assuming to read the governor's mind and feels that if the governor doesn't tell him not to circulate the papers he must be a candidate.

Pres. Calvin Coolidge was silent yesterday as to his candidacy for the republican nomination for lieutenant-governor, but his friends said he would no doubt run and announce that fact in a few days.

Ex-Senator Roger Sherman Hoar, assistant attorney general last year under Atty General Boynton, will be a candidate for the democratic nomination for attorney-general.

Representative Harry C. Woodhill of Melrose has taken out nomination papers for the republican nomination in the 22d Middlesex district and Thomas F. Donovan of ward 9 has taken out papers for the democratic nomination for representative in the 9th Suffolk district.

Fire drills for the local firemen are being conducted under the supervision of Capt. Timothy Brown and Lieut. R. E. Burns. Important features of the drills have to do with hose clamps, hose jackets and the Bresnan nozzle. The latter is new in these parts and is said to be very effective for inside fire fighting. The nozzle, when placed in the center of a room where fire is raging, will flood it in a flash. The nozzle sends out several streams an inch or more in diameter, and when connected with a hose is some fire fighter.

BET FRANK WILL ESCAPE

GAMBLERS ARE BETTING 3 TO 1 THAT HE WILL NOT BE EXECUTED

ATLANTA, Ga., June 19.—Bets of 3 to 1 that Leo M. Frank would receive a commutation of sentence from death to life imprisonment were freely made on the streets of Atlanta yesterday and around the city hall. It seems to be the unanimous opinion that the governor will grant clemency.

Another evidence of this came last night when rumors all over town went to the effect that the sentence had already been commuted and that Frank was on his way to Milledgeville, the state prison farm. These reports the governor denied.

Frank himself wears an air of assurance. Friends of the prisoner, jail keepers and the special turnkey assigned to his cell say that Frank is more cheerful now than ever, and that he has recently visited his mother, who is confident of commutation. Throughout yesterday he received friends of long standing, and early in the afternoon his wife came for luncheon which they ate alone. His mother also came during the afternoon.

NEW YORK, June 19.—War shares were the only features of interest in today's very dull stock market. Bids for Locomotive made a new high record at 66 1/4 and a few other specialties of that class, including Bethlehem Steel, rose 1 to 2 points. Some measure of the market's general trend may be taken from the fact that dealings in Baldwin Locomotive and its securities were much larger than the turnover in U. S. Steel and other usual favorites. Distillers, a 28 1/2 made a high record price. There was scarcely any demand for the high class railway issues, some of which remained unquoted for the entire session. The closing was irregular. Bonds were steady.

BOSTON MARKET

BOSTON, June 19.—The weakness of zinc and lead stocks was the feature on the local exchange today. Copper shares were steady although neglected. The close was easy.

CAUGHT BETWEEN CARS

R. M. CONDUCTOR SERIOUSLY INJURED THIS AFTERNOON—TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Daniel J. Crowe, a yard conductor on the Boston & Maine railroad, is in a serious condition at St. John's hospital as a result of being caught between an engine and freight car in the rear of the Saco-Lowell machine shops this afternoon. The man was badly crushed and the hospital physicians are unable to state whether or not he was injured internally.

The accident occurred about 2 o'clock while a crew was shifting near the Dutton street tracks. Crowe, it is said, was acting as brakeman and in some way fell between the locomotive and first car. Medical aid was rushed to his side and it was advised that he be taken to the hospital at once.

THE "GOUGING" SCANDAL

FIRST DIRECT EVIDENCE OFFERED OF ACTUAL EXISTENCE GIVEN TODAY

ANAPOLIS, Md., June 19.—The first direct evidence offered to the public in an investigation of the "gouging" scandal at the Naval academy tending to show the actual existence of the much talked-of advance copy of questions for the Spanish examination, was given today.

Middleman, Edward T. Jones, when shown a copy of the examination papers similar to those alleged to have been received by Middleman James E. Moss and about which the whole scandal first revolved, said it was probably identical with a copy he had seen the night before the examination in Spanish in the room jointly occupied by himself and F. W. Harrison. Harrison and Moss are of the original seven middlemen recommended for dismissal by Supt. Fulton as a result of the investigation by an academy board.

Jones believed that Harrison had received the paper from Moss, as Moss, he said, had been getting things through the mail right along. Continuing his testimony, Jones said he had seen envelopes received by Moss with "dope" in them. He had no idea who could have sent the papers to Moss and that Moss did not seem to know their source himself.

Jones did not think that either of the defendants mentioned had the slightest idea the papers were really advance copies of the examination.

Gov. Dudley left a century and a half ago for the college. Among those who assisted in the dedication today were members of the Governor Thomas Dudley Family association who made a historical pilgrimage about Boston before the exercises.

HELD SUMMER OUTING

SUNDAY SCHOOL AND OTHER EXCURSIONS HELD TODAY—TWO PARTIES TO BEACH

About 30 employees of the Bay State Cotton Co., including heads of departments and office force, entrained at this morning for Salem Willows on their annual outing. The party was headed by the agent of the company, Charles W. Dearborn, and each member was attired in a blazer coat and white trousers. On their arrival at the well known resort a baseball game was played between the married men and single men, and the benedicts won out by a close score. Following the game a list of sports was run off, after which an appetizing shore dinner was served. In the afternoon a sail in the harbor was enjoyed, the scenery and picturesque of the handsome summer homes of prominent New England citizens, situated on rocky cliffs on either side, delighting the party. The return home will be made late this evening.

Four big cars loaded down with children of the Methodist Sunday schools of this city left Merrimack square early this morning en route for Pinehurst park, the scene of their annual outing. The laughter and singing of the children attracted considerable attention in the square.

On arrival at the park a program of sports was run off and a dinner was served, which needless to say, was the big feature of the day. The return home was made late in the afternoon.

HIGHLAND M. E. CHURCH

The children of the Sunday school of the Highland Methodist Episcopal church also enjoyed their annual outing today. Two specials being used to transport the party to Nabnesset grove where a day full of pleasure was spent. The start for the grove was made about 5:30 this morning, the children being in charge of parents and supervisors of the Sunday school.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Two jumbo electric cars carried the children of St. John's Episcopal church to Mountain Rock this afternoon, where their annual outing was held.

BOOTT MILL PARTY

One car was chartered by about 30 employees of the Boott mills, who enjoyed the afternoon visiting the sights at Revere beach.

ARREST MOUNTAINEERS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 19.—Three mountaineers are under arrest here today on a charge of murder following the alleged confession of two of them—Amos Smith and Archie Lee—the substance of which, according to the police, was that the Seaboard Air line's last New York express which was wrecked near Weems, Ala., on the night of June 10, was deliberately derailed as the outgrowth of a plot to loot the baggage car and hold up the passengers.

In the wreck three employees were killed and ten passengers injured. During the confession Smith and Lee implicated Shan Henry, the other mountaineer who, they claim, engineered the scheme to derailed the train. He also is locked up charged with murder.

Smith is said to have given a detailed statement describing the derailed train and the plan was to remove the rail and pillar the baggage car to the ground. The confession was given and then the three were taken to the jail. The three, he said, waited for the train to arrive and witnessed the wreck but the screams of the injured persons frightened them and they ran from the scene.

2 MURDERED, 2 DYING

RICH FARMER SHOT WIFE, KILLED DAUGHTER, WOUNDED SON AND THEN ENDED HIS LIFE

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., June 18.—Harvey O. Dinsinger, 40, a rich Hardin county farmer, today shot and fatally injured his wife, killed his daughter Esther, 15, wounded his son Herbert, 16, and committed suicide at his home, one mile north of Forest. No reason for his act is known. The only member of the family to escape was the youngest child, Kenneth, who was rescued by Herbert. The latter is not seriously hurt but Mrs. Dinsinger will die.

At 4:30 o'clock this morning, Dinsinger arose ostensibly to do his chores. Instead he seized a rifle and hatchet and slipping into the room where his wife lay asleep, shot her in the head. Then he went upstairs to the room of his daughter, whom he killed with a shot through the head. Herbert, in an adjoining room, was awakened by the shot and was getting out of bed when Dinsinger entered his room and fired at him. The bullet wounded him in the head. Herbert, though stunned and bleeding, grappled with his father and finally disarmed the crazed man and with his younger brother, Kenneth, hurried to the home of a neighbor for help. While he was gone Dinsinger obtained a revolver and, lying down on the bed beside his wife, shot himself through the heart.

When assistance arrived Mrs. Dinsinger was still alive but physicians hold out but little hope for her recovery.

B. & M. RATES SUSPENDED

PROPOSED INCREASE WOULD AFFECT TRAFFIC TO COMMONWEALTH PIER, BOSTON

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The interstate commerce commission yesterday suspended proposed increases in rates on import and export traffic to and from points on the Boston & Maine railroad originating at or destined to the Commonwealth Pier in Boston.

These rates were to have taken effect June 25. The Boston port directors protested against them, claiming that they imposed a switching charge contrary to an agreement made with the New Haven in 1912, and unless the rates were suspended, the directors were likely to drive business away from the costly Commonwealth pier.

THROWN FROM BIKE

A resident of Belvidere, whose name could not be learned, narrowly escaped serious injury this forenoon in Moody street when his bicycle was badly damaged in a collision with a motorcycle. THE MEXICAN SITUATION

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Differences between Gen. Carranza and General Oregon, his principal commander; discussions in the Carranza cabinet and Carranza's removal of his headquarters to the isolated safety of the fortress San Juan de Ula in the port of Vera Cruz—all reported to Washington today—brought the Mexican situation into a new focus.

Official despatches to the state department say these developments threaten the solidarity of the Carranza movement.

Occupation of Mexico City by General Pablo Gonzales and Carranza troops has been postponed pending the cabinet reorganization.

Officials here have no complete indication as yet as to the meaning of the

WHITE WAY EXTENSION

Celebration Planned for Upper Merrimack Street on Monday Evening

Plans are all in readiness for the second white way celebration to be held by the business men of upper Merrimack street Monday evening, and unless something out of the ordinary happens, such as a severe storm, the event will be conducted as arranged. The promoters of the extension of the white way in Merrimack street, or, in other words, the officials of the Merrimack Business Men's association, were notified by Supt. Hunnewell of the Lowell Electric Light corporation this morning that the lights will be turned on at the appointed time, and that he and other officials of the corporation were trying to devise some feature to enter in the big parade. Four of the most energetic workers of the district have interviewed all merchants along the new route, and sufficient money has been obtained to make the celebration a memorable one. These men are Thomas J. Fitzgerald, E. Pelletier, J. C. Manseau and John A. Osgood. This morning they were out again, and they accomplished satisfactory results in furthering the plans.

The celebration will consist of a concert by the Sixth Regiment band, parade, and fireworks, while it is understood that all business men of the district will offer special inducements in their respective lines in order to demonstrate to the citizens in general that the district is composed of "live wires". The Sixth Regiment band will report at 8:30 o'clock and will give concert numbers in various parts of the district until 9:30, the store closing time. Red fire will be burned throughout the evening and a fine display of fireworks will add to the splendor. The parade will be participated in by nearly everyone in the district, and it promises to be very noisy on a par with the big parade held when the lights were first turned on for the main celebration. The lights will be turned on at 7:35 o'clock.

customers purchasing one dollar's worth or more. The advertisements of the merchants who have contributed generously toward the celebration appear on this page.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
One gets into the spirit of "The Cowboy and the Lady," which is being shown at the B. F. Keith theatre, its two final times today. The story is easily followed, splendidly acted and the scenic background is of the sort that gives the proper atmosphere. The scenery is that of California, out on the mountain ranges, where an easterner has a big cattle farm. Into this little place there comes the woman whom the easterner had loved years before. But she he married, and is in the mountains with her dissipated husband, who has been ordered west to regain his health. The husband in the case is brutal and unfaithful. He engineers a scheme to run away with the proprietress of a dance hall, but is plunked by her lover. However, the easterner afterwards finds his way back with the crime, and is about to be executed when the woman he had loved years before by a long ride brought evidence in time to save his life. There is a thrilling picture in the picture, which is in five parts. Five shorter pictures are also shown. Tomorrow afternoon and evening five brand new pictures will be shown, and beginning Monday and continuing the first half of the week, "The Three of Us," with Mabel Taliaferro in the leading part, will be shown.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
This is the very last day of "Double Paramount week" at the Merrimack Square theatre. This is the first time such a gala event ever occurred in this city and it has been patronized by capacity crowds at every performance. Today is, accordingly, the last day of the double week. The picture is a very noisy one, and it promises to be very noisy on a par with the big parade held when the lights were first turned on for the main celebration. The lights will be turned on at 7:35 o'clock.

The business men of the district wish it understood that despite the fact that special bargains will be offered, car fares will be refunded to

LAKEVIEW PARK
A sensational high diving act will be one of the special attractions at Lakeview Park next week. Bigney, known the world over for his dare devil and sensational feats is the high diver in question. Bigney holds the world record for high diving, having plunged headlong from a height of 133 feet into a small tank of water four feet in depth and the announcement of his appearance is usually sufficient to attract large crowds. He carries a handsome apparatus that is studded with electric lights making a very attractive appearance at night. Bigney gives exhibitions both afternoons and evenings and will be seen at Lakeview Park all next week beginning Monday, June 21st. At the theatre the usual fine moving picture program is given twice daily with a complete change of program every Monday, Thursday and Sunday. Sunday afternoon concert by the Sixth Regiment band is given both afternoon and evening. Dancing, bowling, roller coaster and merry go rounds and other amusements to be found at Lakeview are now in full swing as well as the restaurant which has been thoroughly renovated and is this year under the management of George Kenney, who is serving an excellent menu.

CANOBIE LAKE PARK
Winning such fulsome plaudits that his re-appearance was demanded by the theatre, the popular baritone, will be at Canobie Lake park theatre again next Sunday. He will sing those two classic pretty songs in which he secured the popular favor here two weeks ago and others will be added. The "Call of Gold" from Faust and the Toreador's Song from Carmen are the two which he has chosen to again sing to the popular audience which will undoubtedly pack the park theatre. Both are of the type which win popular favor and arrangements are being made to handle a large crowd. Mr. deWronski will be accompanied by the Haverhill Military band and a special program has been arranged for the occasion by the leader, Herbert W. Downes, a full-toned voice, which fills the theatre and pleases everybody will be heard in songs suited both to the voice and popular fancy and the band numbers will, of themselves, be worthy the attendance. Mr. deWronski has sung both in this country and Europe and his rendition is perfect. A student and a musician, an accomplished grand opera performer, he comes to Canobie lake with an international reputation and people hereabouts are favored by his presence. Owing to the splendid manner in which he has been received and because of the strength of the man as an attraction, he has been again engaged for next Sunday.

Lost Lives at Lake
Cobbosseecontee

WINTHROP, Me., June 19.—Thomas O'Neil of Jamaica Plain, Mass., and Mrs. Ella McKenna of Boston were drowned last night in Lake Cobbosseecontee.

A third occupant of the boat, Miss May Bradley, a sister of Mrs. McKenna, while clinging to the upturned craft, was rescued by George Murch of Winthrop Center, assisted by Eugene Cote.

O'Neil was gotten ashore before life was extinct and was worked on for a long time without avail. The body of Mrs. McKenna has not been recovered. The three were of a party occupying the Harold Williams cottage on the west shore of the lake and had started out in the boat to fish. The proper place for fishing being reached, Mr. O'Neil in throwing the anchor overboard slipped and fell over the side, upsetting the craft.

Mrs. McKenna had just arrived yesterday to begin her vacation. The others have been here a week or two.

Coal will surely be higher in the near future, owing to the advance in tide-water freight and other reasons. I am now receiving shipments of freshly mined coal from the mines every week, which is bright, clean and shiny, and practically free from all impurities. I am prepared to guarantee this coal to the most exacting trade, as it will show as many heat units as any Anthracite Coal mined in this country.

Mail and telephone orders will receive immediate attention.

How to Get Redress

Lowell, June 17, 1915.

Editor Sun: Will you kindly enlighten me as to how I can get redress from the Gas Light Company, for an overcharged gas bill? I think there are hundreds at Lowell who would like to have this question answered.

An Overcharged Gas User.

You win!

It is popularly supposed that there is no question under the sun that a newspaper will answer, but our correspondent appears to have put one over.

I would suggest that an effective way would be instead of using the company's product externally, to take it internally, and thus forget this and all other troubles.

From personal experience I think you've got to grin and bear it or else use electricity. They will refuse to test your meter, and probably will stand the test, but as long as they don't test the man who reads the meter you'll have to put up with what they hand you. It is certainly annoying when, for a whole month you have partially discontinued the use of gas at your home, to get a

BIG TRACK MEET

NEW YORK, June 19.—Most of the prominent track and field athletes of this city and vicinity were gathered for the senior championship games at Travers island this afternoon. In contest was of unusual interest because the winners will qualify for the eastern tryouts to be held in Boston June 26 to select the athletes who will represent the east in the championships at the PANAMA-Pacific Exposition.

Homer Baker of the New York Athletic club, international half mile champion, who had been considered a sure bet to win the 1000 yard race, was not expected to start, owing to an injury to one of his toes in a recent accident.

Oler, the intercollegiate champion, was entered in the high jump; Platt Adams in the hop, step and jump, and Abel Kiviat and Mike Donovan in the mile run.

WOUNDED IN BATTLE

MEMBER OF HIGHLANDERS OF TORONTO WRITES INTERESTING LETTER TO HIS AUNT

Lowell friends of Earl J. Wilson, Derby, N. B., are in receipt of a very interesting letter which he wrote his aunt. Mr. Wilson joined the 45th Highlanders of Toronto, and was sent to the front with the first Canadian contingent. He was wounded in the Battle of Langemarck, and was sent to a hospital in Stamford, England. The letter reads as follows:

Bursley House, Stamford, Eng.
May 13, 1917.

Dear Aunt:

Sent you a post card from France

saying that I would write at the first opportunity but failed to do so. However, as will be seen probably, You will notice by the above that I am in England being fostered by the benevolent generosity of the Marchioness of Exeter, who has graciously bestowed on us almost all the conveniences and luxuries within her power. The marqu's I understand, is in the country and goes back to London on the 14th—and you will find in the following description of one Lord Burleigh's marriage to the daughter of a farmer and of her subsequent early death. Our particular abode is in Orange Court, of which I may send you a post-card later. Outside our door is an exceptional pretty and well-kept flower garden; the central hall is playing in the centre. With all due regard for the rest of the garden—which of course is a spacious one—I think we are ensconced in the practical corner. Of the marchioness, I will say that she is all that the real world lady implies. There would be superfluities. Of the marchioness, I will say that she is all that the real world lady implies. She has been proved to us by her act of volunteering has proven to us that he cannot be classed among the arm-chair strategists of nobility.

Now a few lines about Tyres. On Thursday, April 23, a fine, clear day with a faint breath of N. E. wind, we finished our supper, and were listening to the radio singing and perfectly remarking about their utter indifference to the whirr of broken German shrapnel. Our own indifference was somewhat akin to theirs for our growing familiarity was beginning to breed its consequent contempt. Suddenly—and to our left a thick sluggish yellow cloud billowed up, but for its diabolical interests, was not to be surprised. Then on our front and to our left the dense infernal vapor hung heavily to the ground and drifted toward us. The occasional artillery fire had been to put off our guard being the usual daily bombardment awarded us. But on the same day, the French sent of possibly 12 miles a vicious inferno of incendiary broke loose comprising everything from 10 pounders to 17 lb. howitzers. The French Colonials Algerian between us and the Fifth Royal (a Montreal Highland regiment), showed up their heads in streak in an instantaneous mobbish rush. A French officer who got probably 50 of them.

made them stand, got, as a gracious reward a copper pellet from the French Lebel rifle, through the' back. And here before going further, it's well to remark that those troops were advertised through every paper I have seen as absolutely without the knowledge as absolutely meant. My definition, and candidly I think the better one, is that they are a poor very poor lot on the human race. All the Zouaves and Algerians on the Fifth Royals' left for a front of ten miles took the fever for desertion as quickly and strongly as their worthy country men on our left. After the cloud had passed, and the battle ceased of course they had us in their minds—and came with a hurrying stampede towards us. They lay a heap of wiggling wigglers, a few seconds after the Ross rifles began to spit blood. Another battalion and still another followed in a vain endeavor to enlarge our little domain by 50 yards. Then their fruitless attempt was followed by another long explosive outburst of artillery and then again regiment after regiment of infantry. An official statement has it that the Canadian division held off 160,000 Germans, so I guess the exact number was much higher than 59,000 in English paper here. During the bombardment our Canadian artillery was plausibly speechless and kept so throughout our attack of Thursday night and Saturday morning, when somewhere near Gortén I got it in the arm, neck and hip, and cannot say what happened after that. But the greater part of the regiment was killed. Our machine gun section of 31 there are six left. Though they all did well, I think the Fifth Royals deserve special mention. At dark Thursday some Fifth Royals dropped back a little and charged and retook the deserted Algerian trench. I thought they had taken them higher in my opinion than they could possibly imagine, especially when they were supposed to be an unruly mob beyond control of their officers—they were only beyond control while treated as Sunday school children. They could, and did, deliver the goods. Remember me to all.

Sincerely,
Gordon

PITCHERS HOUSER AND GREEN EASY HARRY AUBREY NOW AN UMPIRE COBB HOLDS LEAD

Lewiston Gets to Both
Lowell Pitchers While
Schwartz Is StrongErrors Helped Lose 7-1
Contest — Team Played Listless BallHills, errors, free trips to first and all around listless baseball allowed Lewiston to triumph over the local club by a 7-1 score at Spaulding park yesterday afternoon. After the splendid performance the day before Lowell appeared to have fallen into its old slump again.Joe Houser, the diminutive southpaw who broke Lowell's losing streak by pitching wonderful ball against Lewiston a week or so ago essayed to repeat the maneuver yesterday. But he couldn't do it. Perhaps the anniversary of Napoleon's Waterloo, a century ago had something to do with it. Whatever it was a very potent demonstration of Houser's inability to cope with the situation was shown in the second session.Houser had his curve ball with him but nobody, himself least of all, seemed to know where the twisting sphere was bound for. The second inning saw him headed for the shower bath.In the fateful second the local slusher was very, very wild in fact unmanageable. McCarthy scratched an infield hit and went to second when Houser made a bad throw. McGuire, Phillips tried to sacrifice but Mc-Carthy was nipped at third.Then came Ritter with a bang to left for a couple of sacks and Houser straightaway filled the bases by walking Fryssack. The port slider was given just as promptly smacked out another but it wasn't in him. He passed Schwartz forcing in the first run of the game and then walked the plank himself.Paddy Green was the next victim and the pitcher with the beef stepped up promptly to the rubber. Moloney
just as promptly smacked out another infield hit and one more tally came over. Becker's long single to center drove in a brace of Lewiston base runners. Foster and DeNoville were generous and fled out to Stimpson and Harrows respectively. And the old ball game was a goner.The one bright shining light that prejudiced Lowell eyes could discover was Snubber Greenhalge. In the sixth inning Snubber went in to catch while Ahearn took Moloney's place at the first corner. Snubber signaled his return to diamond activity by blinding out a long triple and then bounding over the left field fence for a double.
Snubber, by the way, scored Lowell's only run.Harry Aubrey, captain of Lowell's championship club of 1913, umpired his first game of the season in this city.
He umpired good game, too, although Arthur Irwin, manager of the Lewiston team, won't say so in all probability.There is a reason why Arthur won't speak well of Aubrey. In the first inning right off the reel with the leadoff man at bat Irwin began to say things that were not intended in quite broad terms that an optician would be a fitting party for Aubrey to call upon. When Moloney was called out on strikes Irwin was indignant, and said so.Aubrey did not say so much as Irwin but what he said was right to the point. "Get out of the park," bawled Dictator Aubrey and Irwin slowly made his non-smiling exit.Catcher Ahearn of the Lowell club also came in for a lively little talking to by the ump when he tried to tell him something or other about running a ball game. We must say that Harry bossed that ball game yesterday, and no mistake, and we'll further state that we liked his attitude. There's been altogether too much talking by players and managers in the circuit this season.Lowell had only one opportunity in the contest of getting the armor of Schwartz. The Lewiston twirler. In the sixth session two singles and a base on ball filled the bases but there were no more out and nothing materialized in the seventh also the local club

CATCHER GREENHALGE

Former Lowell Player
Makes Good Indicator-holderHas Lost a Degree of Popularity Among
the PlayersHarry Aubrey, now an umpire in the New England league circuit and a good one by the way, is well remembered here in Lowell as the leader of the 1913 Lowell team which won everything before winning the league flag by a wide margin and afterwards cleaning up the post season series with Hartford, the champions of the Eastern association.Aubrey played last year with the Lawrence team, filling in at the initial sack for Pieper's club when Louis was in a bad way for a first baseman. It was the second championship club for Aubrey as the down-river aggregation won the New London series after taking over the New England token of supremacy.He has played ball in one league and another for a period covering a dozen years or so and has always been hailed as a popular ball player. Well liked by players and managers alike Aubrey

HARRY AUBREY

has seldom been obliged to hunt for a job.As an umpire this season the former player has proved himself fitted for the job. He isn't as popular with the players or managers as he was when in uniform but then that can't be expected. Aubrey is a good judge of plays, is eminently fair-minded in his decisions and is boss of the ball game from start to finish.In American League—
Daubert in National—
Other AveragesCHICAGO, June 19.—While Ty Cobb holds the lead in the American league and has the only batting average in the majors better than .400, new leaders have appeared in the National league averaging to figures published here today. Jake Daubert is ahead in the National. The leading batters of the National league, who have played in at least half of the games, including those of last Wednesday, are:Daubert, Brooklyn, .379; Luderus, Philadelphia, .364; Good, Chicago, .347;
Doyle, New York, .335; Fletcher, New York, .327; Groh, Cincinnati, .318; Sauer, Chicago, .310; Connolly, Boston, .315.Sauer leads in total bases, 103. He and Lohr of New York are tied in runs scored with 35 and Robertson,
New York, Johnston, Pittsburgh, and Sauer are tied in stolen bases with 13 each. Cravath, Philadelphia, leads the home run hitters with nine. New York is first in club batting with .266, and St. Louis is next with .260.Pitchers of the National league who have taken part in ten or more games and whose winning average is better than .700 are: Meadows, St. Louis, won 5, lost 1; Mayer, Philadelphia, 11 and 2; Ragan, Boston, 5 and 1; Pierce, Chicago, 5 and 1; Munson, Pittsburgh, 1 and 2; Schneider, Cincinnati, 1 and 1; Alexander, Philadelphia, 11 and 3.Batting leaders in the American league who have played in at leasthalf of the games are: Cobb, Detroit, .401; Jackson, Cleveland, .394; Fournier, Chicago, .387; Vesch, Detroit, .382; Lajoie, Philadelphia, .375; Crawford, Detroit, .374; Matsel, New York, .372; Kavanaugh, Detroit, .361.With 67 runs to his credit in 55 games, 113 total bases and 33 stolen bases, Cobb remains in front in those departments of the game. Caldwell,
New York, batted himself into a tie with Chilling, Philadelphia, for home run honors at four each.Chicago leaders in team hitting with 263; Detroit is second with 260. "Seven hundred" pitchers who have worked in ten or more games are: Faber, Chicago, won 10 and lost 2; Foster, Boston, 7 and 2; Coe, Cleveland, Detroit, 5 and 3; Fisher, New York, 5 and 3; Benz, Chicago, 5 and 2; Scott, Chicago, 7 and 3.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

It was just the reverse of the playing we saw Thursday. A fair sized crowd turned up after reading the account of the team's fine showing against Fitchburg but were disappointed. It wasn't so much the defeat as it was the listless sort of ball played by the local club.Paddy Green didn't seem to care whether he got 'em out or not. He just served them up there and the plate wasn't big enough by a wide margin on some occasions.The shift in the lineup made in the sixth inning may mean a permanent change. The initial shift, McGuire went to the bench while Ahearn took his place and Greenhalge went behind the bat.Another indelible position as well as first base is in grave danger of a change of guardianship. Indifferent baseball can never be laid at Mc-Guire's door for the youngster is always in there trying his best on everything. If he won't do it simply amechanical fault for he has worked hard since joining the local club. But the other infielder we speak of doesn't appear to care whether Lowell wins or not.Snubber Greenhalge was surely on the job with his war club yesterday.
He sent a snail by the bases. That triple of his would have gone for home if the stocky little catcher leg was in shape for fast base running.Greenhalge will drive many a pitcher into hysterics before the season wanes. He's as dangerous with two strikes as he is with none and the way he steps into the pitch brings his whole body behind the blow. Snubber has never been a welcome sight to the opposing pitchers and his long rest has probably made him more ferocious than ever.Lewiston has two veritable speed merchants in Becker and Moloney.
Becker is the faster of the two but Moloney isn't a snail by any means.
There isn't much danger of a fly ball dropping safe between left and center fields.The Red Sox are steadily climbing.
If Carrigan's team can go along and break even or a little better on their next trip away from home the White Sox and Tigers will have a difficult time to hold them down. Barring accidents, the Boston club looks like at least a high bidder for the top.MANAGER OF NEWARK CLUB NEWARK, N. J., June 19.—Bill Mc-Carthy, third baseman of the Newark Federal club, was today appointed manager, temporarily, to succeed Bill Phillips, whose resignation was accepted by F. T. Powers and Harry Sinclair, owners of the local franchise.If you want help at home or in your

RIVER CARNIVAL

Motor Boat Club Conducted Annual Event
Above the FallsThe Merrimack river, just above Pawtucket Falls, presented a very fa-inating scene last night when beautifully decked and brilliantly lighted motor boats were shown in carnival parade. It was the second annual carnival of the Lowell Motor Boat club and it was a great big success from start to finish. There was music by a society of the Lowell Cadet band and hundreds of interested spectators lined both banks of the river.The boats left the clubhouse wharf at 8.30 o'clock and went around the course twice. The first line drew away when Commodore James H. Walker gave the signal and the procession was over at 9.15. Many of the boats burned red fire as they made the turn at a point across from Dunbar avenue and the effect was quite pretty.In the first line the "Ass" drew the "Perceval," the boat of Vice Commodore William B. Adams, the "Rivadavia," owned by C. A. Smith, and the "Nemo," owned by Eli Brooks.
At the head of the second line was Eugene Dunbar's "Wagon," in the bow of which the band was seated.
Likewise Joe Haggerty, who favored occasionally with tin whistle solos.
Other boats towed were the "Maria," owned by B. Hill, the "Alice," the property of William Mooney, and the "Sparrows," owned by William Mitchell.Collins and Page's "Pussycat" headed the third line and the boats drawn by her were the "Idlewild," owned by Wallace Shanahan, and the "Echo," owned by A. Upton. "Zip," Ed Jones' patrol boat, brought up the rear with Fred Holmes' big flyer in tow. There were a few unattached boats flitting back and forth. They did not interfere in any way with the parade, however, and their presence added to the gaiety of the scene.After the parade was over refreshments were served to all invited guests and friends. The officers of the club, in charge, were as follows: Commodore
James H. Walker, vice commodore, W.
B. Adams, secretary, F. C. Nichols, treasurer, C. A. Smith, and custodian, L. C. Prouty.

FIVE MILE RACE

At a meeting of the republican city committee held last night at their rooms on Central street it was decided to make the five mile race at the outing at Bunting park on Saturday, July 10, an open event, so that runners from the surrounding cities and towns could compete. George Emsey will receive all entries and blanks can be had at any time at the Bunting Cricket club.
All runners must be amateurs and members of the A. A. U. The C. M.
A. C. will be the opponents of the Kimball System ball team and as there is considerable rivalry between the two teams a hot game can be expected.Charles A. Wotton of ward three was appointed chief marshal of the parade. He invites all republicans who have automobiles to join in the parade with the republican city committee. Automobiles will take the members of the city committee to grounds preceded by a band of music, and each ward will carry with them a banner designating the ward they represent. Valuable prizes will be given to the winners of the five mile race, baseball game and wrestling tournament.

EX-PRES. TAFT'S PEACE PLANS

There is nothing inconsistent in the fact that in the midst of the greatest war in history, some of the most notable men in this nation, headed by ex-President Taft, are banded together in what is meant to be a practical plan for permanent peace. The great war is in fact the reason for the proposal to end wars, and even though many do not believe that the effort of the peace propagandists will succeed, all who have realized in any degree the terrible struggle of the present will approve of their principles.

It is noteworthy that the new league of peace which has been born in Independence hall, Philadelphia, concerns itself with future wars without directly striving to end the world war of today. Evidently the wise statesmen, scholars and thinkers who are responsible for the movement have no hope that the present misunderstandings of nations will be settled by any other agency except that of war. They hope to extend the operations of universal law to the nations as to individuals, but they do not expect any law to settle the national quarrels of today except the law of force or of might. Probably the skeptic may say that as it is today, so it will be always, but so far as it is possible to prepare for a different epoch, the new peace league has anticipated every eventuality.

The aim of the new body, officially known as the "League to Enforce Peace, American Branch," is to make it impossible, for any individual nation to be otherwise than peaceful in dealing with another nation. This would be brought about, in the view of Mr. Taft and his supporters, by the formation of a league among the nations or a "working union of sovereign nations to establish peace among themselves and to guarantee it by all known and available sanctions at their command, to the end that civilization may be conserved and the progress of mankind in comfort, enlightenment and happiness may continue."

The league has not been content with the uttering of some general peace platitudes such as recently emanated from high places, but has gone ahead in framing definite rules. It is proposed that all nations joining this new league of peace—and whatever governments may think, the people of all nations will be ready for such a world policy when the war is ended—to submit any questions of dispute to an international tribunal with judicial powers. Any question not settled by negotiation is to be settled before an international council of conciliation. Should every effort to avoid war fail, all the nations of the league should band themselves together to "jointly use forthwith, both their economic and military forces against any one of their number that goes to war or commits acts of hostility against another of the signatories before any question arising shall be submitted as provided in the foregoing." It is also intended that conferences between the signatory powers should be held from time to time to formulate and codify rules of international law.

In many ways this seems a workable international scheme which would make future wars impossible, but can it be effective at this age? Undoubtedly if all of the great powers joined such a league, and did so sincerely, there would be hope for an era of international law to follow an era of barbarism. Yet, how recently the world saw treaties disregarded and laws thrown to the winds. Diplomacy is a selfish game, and even the most ideal of nations in the present war has some deeply sordid motive behind it. Face to face with such facts, one cannot get up any great enthusiasm over the splendid peace plans of ex-President Taft, President Lowell, Congressman Lewis, Professor John Bassett Moore, Victor C. Berger, John Wamaker, and the rest. The world may brand "all such peace plans as idle dreams, but none will mock them, for all who believe in the future development of man as a rational being must hope and believe that some day the moral force of law will take the place of the brutal force of battle.

What though the peace propaganda may fail, is it not better that our leading men should be striving to heal the wounds of the world than that they should be spurring us on to join in the inferno? The men most prominent in the new peace league are also the foremost in declaring for an efficient army and navy. Their dream of a United States of the world is patterned after the United States of America.

A WAR OF SHELLS

Whatever the war set out to be and whatever the plans formulated in the war offices of the respective governments, it has developed into a war of munitions. This week saw the anniversary of Waterloo, and not so far from Waterloo engagements are being fought that in nowise resemble the engagements of the mighty Napoleon. War has changed entirely, and now victory is with those who have the best and greatest number of aeroplanes, the largest supply of rifles, cartridges and shells. Where, formerly, every strategic move was preceded by the sending of a few score shells over the enemy's lines, today shells are sent in a continuous screaming rain, by the thousands and hundreds of thousands.

This is the story of all recent engagements, and it will be still more the story of the morrow. Give either side shells enough, and they will win. This accounts for the frantic appeals which Lloyd George and other English leaders have been making to the workers of England, and for the attempts Germany has made and is making to stop the shipment of munitions of war from here to the allies. To break the deadlock in the west or to gain a decided advantage in the east, steel will have to fall like hail, and wherever an attempt is made to pierce the enemy's lines or get hold of a trench, the shells, shrapnel and every species of ammunition are showered on the doomed ranks of the enemy. Of late the story of partial success never varies, whether on one side or the other. The aim is made after the ground is ploughed by ammunition. In a slight attack near Neuville a day or so ago, the French fired 300,000 shells, and the aim of the Germans against the Russians in Galicia was due to a torrent of shells such as warfare has not hitherto known. It was recently stated in the English papers that in one very unimportant engagement, the English forces used more ammunition than was used through the entire Boer war.

In the matter of ammunition, the many had the initial advantage, but England is now ready for Germany. The fall of Constantinople would believe Russia, which suffers most for lack of shells. The allies are ready to exert all efforts, and the next few months will see a use of ammunition which the imagination cannot grasp.

STAMP OUT ROWDYISM

During the June 17th parade,

Charlestown saw an exhibition of downright rowdism for which any community well might blush. As the carriage conveying Governor Walsh, Mayor Curley, Adjutant-General Cole and other officials passed, some toughs on the roof of a three-flat house raised a disturbance by hisses and jeers and then to cap the climax threw a whiskey bottle, a glass and several handfuls of gravel at the dignitaries below. Three young men arrested for the outrage are aged respectively 17, 21 and 24. They cannot, therefore, be excused on the ground of youth, or on any ground, and one can only wonder why all our cities are so infested of late years with the ruffian hoodlums who make life so uncomfortable for decent citizens.

One who comes in touch with many phases of juvenile delinquency and common hoodlums cannot but admit that a great deal of crime is committed today merely for the sake of committing it. One can understand why our children are robbed, why storekeepers are held up and why lead pipe is stolen from empty tenements, but it is hard to understand the crime that gives no satisfaction to the criminal, only the unadmitted gratification of having done something wrong. Lowell, luckily, does not suffer from such things to the same extent as other centres, but from time to time park and other public property bears the marks of wanton destruction. In Lowell, organized bands of hoodlums deliberately set out a short time ago to destroy groves of young trees, tennis courts and other playgrounds and beauty spots, merely because they do not like their land should be against every man.

Every incident such as that reported from Charlestown this week, or the police officials of New York and of other cities, and the malicious boys, who play pranks and pull the tails about the city, are by our best working paper, without danger of being or injury at the hands of hoodlums and mischief-makers, and the police are ever vigilant to watch the movement of the children gangs so that they may be prosecuted from future lawlessness and the juvenile license of the age.

ENGLAND AND THE UNIONS

The labor unions have England by the throat. While Lloyd George, commissioner of munitions, is appealing and begging for continuous work to turn out munitions sufficient to meet the needs of the army and navy, the unions are continually making trouble by demands for increased pay, by threatening strikes and by protecting men who remain idle a good part of the time.

So acute has this trouble become in England that it is the opinion of her statesmen and the conviction of outsiders that unless the difficulty be overcome, she cannot triumph in the war. Were the labor men of Germany to interfere with the work of the army to such an extent, they would be shot by the score. But England has not yet adopted the militarist regime of Germany, yet if she does not do something to overcome present obstructions, the prospect is that she will be "beaten to a frazzle."

Even the most extreme socialists and agitators of France and Germany sank their differences and came out loyally in support of their nation's policy when put to the test. The English worker, or more properly the members of some English unions, were not openly inimical, but so unsatisfactory was their attitude that for a time the government considered conscription and compulsory service.

Recent London despatches state that after a conference with the leaders of the labor unions, Lloyd George has decided on a bill, to be introduced in the house next week, which will give the government power to prohibit strikes and lockouts and which will prevent the operation of the union schedules in government factories for a period of six months. This may do as a temporary expedient, but when the war is over there will be an issue between the English government and some branches of English labor which must be settled once for all, unless the nation is to invite serious danger from within.

STILL NEUTRAL

Lost there should be any doubt that this government is honestly neutral in its policies during the war, one should turn occasionally to the comments made on the American attitude in all belligerent circles. We are told that many of the leading French papers are disappointed at the tone of President Wilson's notes to Germany, and England too is finding fault with our insistence on the rights of international law regarding neutral commerce. Germany we know to be anything but pleased, so on the whole we must decide that we are not playing the game of any nation. Even the spectacular retirement of Mr. Bryan from the political arena did not change the American attitude, which is the attitude of a vigilant and intelligent neutrality. Americans individually may incline one way or the other, the American press may have a preference, but the American government is sincerely neutral.

ADMIRAL HOWARD

An American squadron, under the command of Admiral Howard, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, has been ordered to Mexico at once. Another "peaceful invasion" of Mexican territory by a force of 200 United States marines and an equal number of bluejackets is promised if the renegade Yaqui Indians now ramping over the Sierras and threatening death to American colonists in the Yaqui valley do not retire at once and cease their hostile demonstration. The American colony occupies the Yaqui valley beyond the town of Tepic, Tabasco, where it is planned to land an expeditionary force, should Governor Maytorena and the Villista government fail to protect the colonists, is south of Guaymas. Entire discretion has been given Admiral Howard in the handling of the situation. His instructions from Washington provide for every eventuality.

SUMMER BATHING MISTAKES

At no season of the year is the a dip in the ocean. Continued bathing custom abused as in summer, the fresh sponge, is very bad for the skin.
In summer a warm, not hot, bath at night is most cooling and the bath in the morning should be only after warm weather sets in. Why she imagines she has greater endurance and can take greater chances in summer than in winter no physician or health specialist has ever been able to understand.
Bathe with reason in summer as well as in winter. Do not drop your warm baths and indulge only in cold plunges. You will be more comfortable for an occasional warm bath. And remember that a very cold bath, either in the ocean, still water or the tub, can bring on cramps of the stomach and serious intestinal troubles if taken too soon after a hearty meal.
Another folly which most women indulge in when at the shore is to think that after a sea bath she is physically clean. Sea bathing is merely a sport and the body should be cleaned with fresh water after

MR. CATES' COMPLAINT

He Says Park Dept. Does Him Great Injustice in Refusing to Remove an Old Tree

Alfred Cates, who is known very well throughout the city on account of having built many new and remodelled many old houses, is now building three additional houses on his land at 581 Middlesex street.

When he purchased the land, there was one old house numbered 584. He has rebuilt that and made it better than new and it is now owned by his daughter. The frontage is 45 feet. On a lot of equal frontage he built a new house and sold it to a family named Lambert. The remaining 24 feet 3 in. he had laid out for a street leading to three houses he is building in the rear of his lot. The width of each of these three rear lots is 38 feet and the length 130.80 feet. He has planned a very neat single dwelling on each of these lots and has one of them completed.

The new street he has laid out and named Maud street after his daughter, Mrs. Heaps.

On the sidewalk in front of the new street is a large elm tree not in any too good condition as the roots have risen above the sidewalk and some decaying boughs had to be cut down about six months ago. He petitioned the park department to remove the tree and although a majority of the board expressed themselves in favor of its removal, the tree committee, it is believed, through a complete misunderstanding refused to sanction the removal of the tree. This stand, if persisted in, will injure the property by several thousand dollars. Mr. Cates is increasing the taxable property on the street and he considers it a great injustice to be prevented from using his new street for a public way to the three new houses he is building in the rear. He says he has been opposed by people, mostly women who think Middlesex street should remain in the same condition it was in fifty years ago, but the park board should not be misled by such unprogressive people. By his individual efforts, he claims to have added ten times as much to the taxable property of the city as did the whole list of people who signed the petition against the removal of the tree, yet the park board that is howling for money stands in the way of more revenue by refusing to grant a request that has been readily granted to others on that and many other streets throughout the city.

LOG SCHOOL HOUSES

In a certain school district of Montana, the trustees decided that they would build a log school house, and this is the way the specifications read, says a recent issue of the Improvement Bulletin.

One log house, 20x30 ft. inside (the logs are on the ground). Height from floor to ceiling, 10 ft. the logs must be hewn on the inside, cement foundation 12 in. thick, 2x8 joists, 18 in. apart, double bridged; double floor, rough lumber with building paper between, with hard yellow pine matched floor, wainscoting 4 ft. high from floor, 6 windows, 3 on each side, size of window glass, 14x 30. One door in end of room, 2 ft. 8 in. by 6 ft. 3 in., 2 in. thick, with 12 in. transom. Ceiling, joists 2x6 inches, 2 ft. apart. Shiplap must be put on ceiling, with beaver board on top and walls must be beaver board to meet wainscoting. Rafters, 2x6 in., 2 ft. apart; sheathing solid with building paper between sheathing and shingles. Shingles must be laid 4 in. to weather; gable ends shingled with building paper between. One brick chimney, height 4 ft. from top of roof. Put in middle of room. Shutters on outside of windows. One shed or entrance, 8 ft. long and 10 ft. wide, to be put in main building; walls from floor, 10 ft. high. Roof must be same height as main building, with paper and shingles; also gable end must be same as main building. Rough lumber on wall with paper and siding on outside. One window, 12x24 glass. Belfry put on top for school bell. One door, 2 ft. 8 in. by 6 ft. 3 in., 2 in. thick, with mortised lock.

THATCHED ROOFS

More or less comment is appearing in the foreign building and architectural journals regarding thatched roofs and a correspondent in a London paper expresses great regret that on many rural cottages and farm houses thatched roofs have been replaced by corrugated iron; that is to say, "One of the most beautiful of roof coverings has substituted for it the most hideous." Continuing he says:

"Perhaps those who live in towns are more susceptible to the beauty of thatch than are those who, living in rural surroundings, are more accustomed to it, for to us the picturesque would lose half its charm and individuality if the thatched roof were to disappear. There are few, if any, lovelier artificial things than a thatched English cottage or farmstead, and none that have become more completely a part of the tradition and the spirit of English landscape, and of that rural scenery which has for centuries inspired the work of the greatest hands in poetry and art. To those and it is to be hoped they are many—by whom the unsupplied charm of the country is regarded as a real and valued inheritance, the loss of so time-honored a rural grace must be a matter of serious concern."

"Not only on the ground of beauty may the use of thatch be advocated, it is also a very good non-conductor of heat, consequently it is warm in winter and cool in summer. A well-thatched roof should remain snug and weatherproof with but little repair for from twenty to thirty years, and need can be placed on rafters which would be too light for other materials."

"Again looking at the subject from the farmer's or breeder's point of view, experts tell us that stock never do so well as when brought up under the thatch roof. In most places there are still good thatchers, and an increased demand would doubtless cause more men to learn the work."

"Apart from the question of cost, there are two objections generally raised against the employment of thatch: first, that it harbors vermin, and secondly that it is inflammable. As regards vermin, a dressing of corrosive sublimate is stated on high authority to be a protection against fleas, etc."

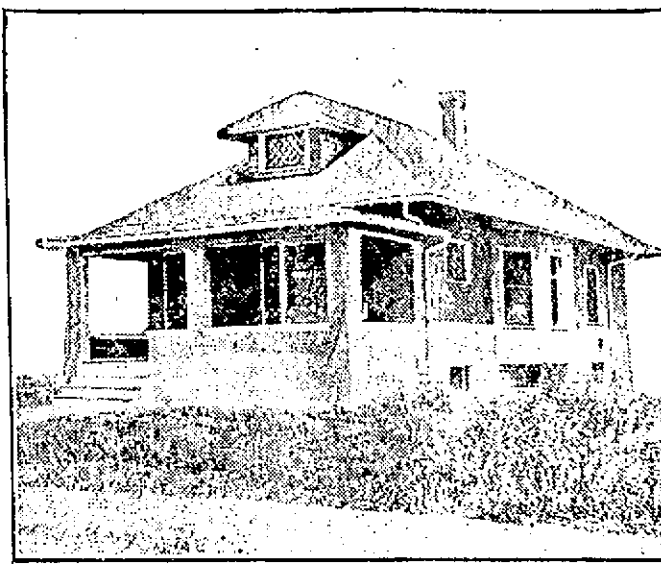

"There are several effective methods of fireproofing thatch, one of which consists of sulphate ammonia, 25 lb. carbonate ammonia, 14 lb. borax, 7 lb. water, acid 7 lb. alum, 14 lb. water, 500 lb. The reeds may be dipped into this or sprayed, or it can be put on with a garden hose after the reeds are fixed."

NATIONAL FOREST RULES

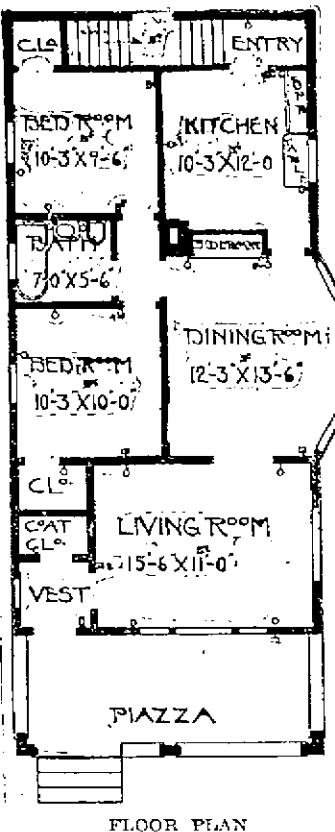

The secretary of agriculture has promulgated a set of regulations for administering the new law which provides that national forest land may be leased for summer home sites and other recreational purposes in tracts of five acres or less for periods not to exceed thirty years. This law supplements the revocable permit system under which recreational use of the forests already had developed considerably. Many users have been unwilling to make substantial improvements because of the uncertainty of tenure involved in the old form of permit, which, however, is still expected to meet the requirements of persons who are not likely to occupy the land for more than a few years, or to make elaborate improvements.

The primary object of the "term permits," as the leases are called, is not to obtain revenue, but to promote the use of national forest land for recreational purposes, said the regulations. At the same time, since permittees receive special benefits, it is regarded as only fair that they should reimburse the government for

This bungalow plan has been built in a number of places and has proved very popular, being well arranged and economical to build. There is a full basement under entire house. First story is 9 feet high. The dormer on the exterior is for ventilation of the attic and may be opened during hot summer weather. Finish throughout first story is of red oak or birch, with birch or maple floors. Size, 22 feet wide by 42 feet deep. Can be built, exclusive of heating and plumbing, for $2,250.

Construction Co., Boston. After the forms had been used four times there were hardly enough keys and wedges left for the fifth. We trust to save them by putting a man with a ball at the special task of picking them up as soon as they were removed, but had to buy more. The bonding together and wedging of panels is something which will have to be studied out by the makers, so that the keys will stay with the plates and not be lost by falling to the ground.

One of the most pestilent and noxious little weeds that mar the beauty of life's garden is gossip.

Wherever civilized man is found, there it thrives. It grows rankest in the least cultivated nooks of the human mind, from where its gnarled roots spread out and absorb the sustenance of kindlier growths.

No soil is too sterile, or too rich for its successful incubation.

The most blighting effect of the poison this uncanny growth emits is in warping the natural innocence of the child-thought. The little one, though apparently absorbed in his own affairs, when he hears his parents speak slightly of a neighbor, makes a mental note of the unguarded utterance, and thenceforth the person maligned, or ridiculed, looms in that plastic little mind as a brand of unworthiness that lowers the child's respect for not only that individual but to a greater or less extent for everybody outside of his immediate family circle.

The gossip habit in the home robs childhood of that sweet confidence in man's honor and rightness that halows innocent youth. If the gos-

THE AURORA BOREALIS

IT IS SAID TO HAVE AFFECTED THE TELEGRAPH SERVICE IN PAST FEW DAYS

There were electrical disturbances on Thursday of this week caused by the aurora borealis and it had a serious effect on cable and telegraph lines in this and other cities in this section. For a half hour or more during the early afternoon or about noon The Sun's Associated Press operator had to sit back and take it easy. There was nothing doing on the wires that were under the spell of the aurora borealis. The disturbance was not unprecedented, the telegraph officials said, but nothing so severe has occurred in eleven years. For several hours during the early morning communication via the Newfoundland cables of the Western Union was all but paralyzed. A peculiar feature noted was that only east and west wires were affected. Interruption in land line service was frequent, the electric current being apparently subject to an induction influence of wave like effect that acts upon its intensity or that in plain terms draws it off intermittently so that the current changes from full force to a feebleness that is insufficient to operate the ticker. It is a strange phenomenon that scientists have not yet fully explained.

Some valuable mill property was endangered last evening when a spectacular two-alarm fire occurred in a brick building at the blind end of Howe street, owned by John A. Simpson, son of 47 Mathen street and occupied by T. J. Chase & Son, dealers in paper. It was estimated this forenoon that the loss to both building and contents would exceed $7000, mostly covered by insurance.

Handicapped by the difficult location of the property, the firemen found the blaze one of the hardest to get under control that they have battled with for several years. The building is a large brick structure situated at the further end of Howe street in a very dark spot and surrounded by factories and tenement property.

The first alarm was sounded by Officer John Sullivan at 8.30 o'clock from box 81, corner of Andover and Fayette streets, several hundred yards away from the scene of the fire. This fast brought the department out of the way and by the time the apparatus had turned around and made a trip through East Merrimack and Howe streets, the fire had gained a good headway and was raging furiously.

Realizing the danger of a serious conflagration, Chief Saunders immediately ordered another alarm sounded from box 8, Howe and East Merrimack streets. The fire worked upward quite rapidly and soon broke through the roof, making a spectacular blaze. For some time the fire-fighters played several streams onto the top or over the building, but the blaze continued to eat its way along the roof and sides and it was not until the roof was reduced to a skeleton that the fire was brought under control. After the roof was laid open tons of water were poured into the building from either side and the flames were checked, though the fire smoldered in the building until after 2 o'clock this morning, when the "all out" signal was sounded.

The dense smoke which arose from the fire and circled round the building made the work of fighting the fire much harder. The large quantity of thick, heavy smoke was due to the contents of the building, mostly heavy baled paper, which smoldered and burned slowly.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Chief Saunders advised that the danger of a more serious fire was over and ordered part of the apparatus to return to its quarters.

The damaged building was valued at about $6000 and was partly insured. Arthur A. Chase of the Chase & Sons Co. states that although he estimates the value of the contents from $3000 to $5000, it would be impossible to estimate the loss until after an inventory had been taken.

During the height of the fire a gas explosion occurred in the cellar of the building, making a loud report. There were no flames near the section at the time, however, and fortunately no one was injured.

Frank C. Church carried insurance on the building and contents burned on Howe street last night.

Gov. Slaton Continues His Exhaustive Study of Evidence

ATLANTA, Ga., June 19.—Gov. Slaton, at his summer home, continuing his exhaustive study of the case of Leo M. Frank, under sentence to be hanged next Tuesday for the murder of Mary Phagan, said today he probably would not be prepared to announce his decision on Frank's application for commutation of his sentence until Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning.

Gov. Slaton said positively there would be no respite but that by Tuesday he will decide either to commute the sentence or to decline to interfere.

FIREMEN WERE OVERCOME

TWO ALARMS SOUNDED FOR $30,000 FIRE IN CONGRESS ST., BOSTON

BOSTON, June 19.—Seven firemen were overcome by smoke about 10 o'clock last night while fighting a fire which started on the fourth floor of the building at 224-226 Congress street, in the business district, occupied by Kenney Brothers & Wolkins, school supplies, and caused a damage of between $25,000 and $30,000. Two alarms were sounded for the fire.

Acting Deputy Chief Stephen J. Ryder, Acting District Chief Allen MacDonald, Edward J. Coveney, John P. Hardy, Michael J. Griffin and Arthur L. Johnson, all members of Engine 25, quartered in Fort Hill square, were overcome by smoke.

After receiving first aid treatment at the scene from Dr. John A. Foley of the Relief station, the firemen were taken to that institution, the automobiles of the fire department being pressed into service. All will be discharged from the hospital today. Griffin was also treated for a cut on his right hand, caused by falling glass.

TO SUBDUCE THE YACQUIS

GOV. MAYTORENA HAS REFUSED OFFER MADE BY GENERAL URBALEJO

DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 19.—Gov. Jose Maytorena, Villa commander of Sonora, has refused an offer of his services made by Gen. Urbalejo, a Yaqui chief commanding the Villa forces encamped 14 miles west of Agua Prieta, to subdue the Yaquis now on the warpath in the southern part of the state, according to a statement made here today by A. G. Aguaya, Villa consul. Aguaya said Gov. Maytorena had declined the offer on the ground that he had plenty of soldiers in that part of the state to cope with the Indians.

Despatches received at Agua Prieta from the south say the Carranza garrison at Bavispe, after a conquest of San Miguel, a neighboring town because the residents declared for the Villa, have marched against the Villa towns of Bacadehuachi and Nacori, with the intention of forcing the inhabitants to embrace the Carranza cause.

PROLONG THE WAR

BERLIN, June 19, via London, 12.20 p. m.—The Morgen Post, commenting on a despatch from Washington to the Cologne Gazette, setting forth that the question of peace is being discussed, says that Americans know full well that the self-constituted peace-maker never is welcome; consequently, he is not likely to force his advice where it is not wanted.

Dr. Ignaz Jastrow, professor of political economy in the University of Berlin, discusses in the Tagblatt the impossibility of accepting the United States as an arbitrator so long as Americans deliver weapons to the opponents of Germany. "In as much as every state can forbid the export of arms," the doctor says, "we wonder how Americans can fail to see that this is prolonging the war, and how they can pretend it is possible for them to act as peace mediators."

DROWNED IN CANAL

CHILD ROLLED DOWN EMBANKMENT INTO THE WATER—HELP ARRIVED TOO LATE

Peter Kulaga, aged eight years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kulaga of 3 Garnet street, was drowned last evening in the canal near the railroad tracks on Jackson street. His body was recovered a short time afterward and though everything possible was done to save him, life was extinct.

The lad was playing near the canal bank, when he rolled down the side into the water. Two youngsters, William and George Lowe of 31 King street, discovered his little fellow in the water and after a struggle brought him to shore. Special Officer Clark and Patrolman Cullen were called and they sent for City Physician Tighe and the palmist. In the meantime applying first aid. For nearly an hour the doctor worked over the boy but to no avail. The body was removed to the rooms of Undertaker McDonough.

TAFT CAUSES OVERFLOW

CLIMBED INTO HOTEL BATH TUB AND THE WATER OVERFLOWED AND TRICKLED DOWN ON GUESTS

CAPE MAY, N. J., June 19.—Former President Taft came here as the guest of the Pennsylvania Bankers association, and among other things took a bath in his apartment in the palatial Hotel Cape May. He failed properly to consider the size of the average size of the hotel bathtub, however, with the result that when he climbed into the tub the water flowed and trickled down upon the heads of the guests in the dining room. The entire resort, including Mr. Taft, is laughing at the incident.

The former president arrived Thursday afternoon coming to address the bankers' banquet in the evening. He was completely fagged out after attending the sessions of the Peace league in Philadelphia and immediately went to his room which the hotel manager had chosen especially for him on account of the general bathtub, to rest and take a bath. The bankers association assembled in the dining room waited patiently for Mr. Taft to appear, and they began to grow restive when a half hour passed. Suddenly their attention was attracted to a little round spot in the ceiling, which gradually grew and grew until water came trickling down on their heads. The management was called upon to ascertain the cause of the leak and stop it, and the hotel plumber, who led the investigation, went straight to Mr. Taft's room. There it was found that the poorly ex-president had got into the tub without realizing the consequence of the sudden rise in the tide and stepped out again without noticing the resulting deluge on the floor. He was anxious when the plumber knocked at his door.

As Mr. Taft boarded his train he glanced at the ocean and said "I'll get a piece of that fence in some day and then when I venture there won't be any overflow."

Some of the songs by the Glee club were very fine. The following by Schumann was applauded:

Ab, sweet, art thou the star that draws my soul afar?

The voice the silver tide on which I float to islands rare and rich?

HERBERT H. BINBY

Ab, then, as higher rise the melting strains,
Ab, then, I seem to mount thro' roseate skies,
Thro' clouds adrift and golden gleam,
Sing on! This spirit falls,
The stars grow dim, the light pales,
The depths are roused, and oh! the heart that wakes, the hopes that glow, Play on!

And this from Del Riego:
O dry those tears
And calm those fears
Life is not made for sorrow;
'Twill come, alas!
But soon will pass,
Clouds will be sunshine tomorrow,
O lift thine eyes
To the blue skies
See how the clouds do borrow
Brightness, each one,
Straight from the sun;
So is it ever with sorrow.

POLICE COURT CASES

Mohammed Ali, the man arrested in the local court room yesterday afternoon by Sergt. Petrie for having in his possession of a concealed weapon, was fined $50 by Judge Enright in police court this forenoon. He was represented by Daniel J. Donahue.

The implement alleged to have been carried by the defendant, a vicious looking set of brass knuckles with sharp points, was shown to His Honor by Sergt. Petrie, the only witness for the government. He told of All interfering with the court room yesterday afternoon. All was placed in the dock at the request of the court and later was seen by Sergt. Petrie putting something in his trousers' pocket. The police officer searched him and extracted the brass knuckles. It is claimed that All told the police that someone had attempted to break into his house and he carried the weapon for protection.

Testifying in his own defence, All said that he found the knuckles near the entrance to the Court mills early last Thursday morning and carried them until the time of his arrest. He claimed that he did not know for what purpose the weapon was used. Relative to the incident in the court room yesterday, defendant said he wanted something about a witness who was testifying. He denied that he ever told a witness for the defence in the larceny case that he intended to use the instrument. His Honor found the man guilty of the offence and imposed the minimum fine.

CHAUFFEUR'S LICENSE

Wilfred P. Vayo was accosted by a patrolman on Middlesex street for driving his machine at an exceedingly fast speed, it was charged. When questioned he could not display his operator's license and was summoned into court today. His attorney, Geo. F. Toye, explained to the court that Vayo recently applied to the Mass. Highway commission for a chauffeur's license and was returned a permit to drive until the license arrived. By mistake he left the permit at home yesterday and hence his appearance in court. At the recommendation of Lawyer Toye, the case was placed on file.

Charles R. Frost, accused of a statutory offence, waived examination in the local court and was held in the sum of $5000 for the superior court, probable cause being found. He was represented by D. J. Donahue.

The case of Tony Silva, charged with drunkenness, was continued until next Tuesday. Deputy Downey stating that the government wanted time to prefer another charge against the defendant. There were a few intoxication cases disposed of by fines.

SPLIT IN TEXTILE UNIONS

Big Fight That May Wreck John Golden's Organizations of Textile Workers of America

At the coming convention of the New England Loomfixers Alliance, at which the Lowell union will be represented by delegates, a proposition is to be brought up which if adopted will be a fatal blow to the United Textile Workers of America. Coming close after the withdrawal of the Fall River loomfixers from the mother organization, it will seriously weaken, if not entirely destroy, John Golden's outfit, whose strongholds are the fixers unions in this city, New Bedford, Pawtucket, R. I. and Taunton.

The proposition is that the New England Loomfixers Alliance change its constitution so that it will admit fixers unions which are not affiliated with the United Textile Workers, and that it take on its shoulders all authority in the matter of sanctioning strikes of the fixers unions belonging to it. The significance of this proposition is seen when it is realized that up to the present the alliance has held itself subordinate to the United Textile Workers in every respect and has abided by the decisions of John Golden and his leaders in every instance. In accordance with the rules of the United Textile Workers, the alliance has not allowed independent unions to join with it, and it has not supported strikes unless they were sanctioned by the United Textile Workers first.

President Golden and the other leaders of the United Textile Workers have always taken the position that no union in the U. T. W. should affiliate itself with any independent union, textile or any other central labor body, until the independent union joined the United Textile Workers. Now the New England Loomfixers' Alliance and the delegates to the coming convention from this city and other cities must decide whether it will exclude the Fall River fixers because they are not in the U. T. W., or openly admit to its membership. Any other union which does not pledge allegiance to the head organization.

Although few labor men realize it, this issue has been forced fairly and squarely on the alliance by the withdrawal of the Fall River fixers from the United Textile Workers, for the Fall River fixers have placed themselves in a position whereby United Textile Workers unions are forbidden to join with them in any organization. It will be interesting to learn how the delegates from the Lowell fixers' union, which is the strongest textile organization in the city vote on the question.

LETTER FROM KAISER

QUOTED AS WRITING "PEACE MAY BE CONCLUDED SOONER THAN THOUGHT"

PARIS, June 19, 4:25 p. m.—Extracts from a letter said to have been sent by Emperor William to a personage connected with the Bavarian court and published in Spain are reproduced by the Matin. The emperor is quoted as saying, in part:

"Our only object is a peace profitable for the German states. This peace may be concluded sooner than thought. If it gave for the time being only an incomplete result, it would at least serve as a preparation for the future. It could be signed tomorrow if I wished."

"When my august grandfather placed the empire on its present basis he did not pretend to have realized a completed work. The empire always is susceptible of growth. What cannot be achieved today will be achieved later."

AN TO STRIKES

The question of authority in strikes is equally important, and here is where the local union's delegates will be given a chance to display their headwork. Hitherto the United Textile Workers, as the central organization of textile unions, has had absolute authority in sanctioning strikes, and without such sanction, local unions could not appeal to the various unions allied with United Textile Workers for aid. Of late the mother organization has had hard sledding, particularly in its method of conducting strikes, and it is said that the delegates from the various fixers' unions will vote to take away this authority, so far as loomfixers' strikes are concerned. If they do this they will have final control over all loomfixers' strikes and the United Textile Workers will possess no power.

Not since the National Loomfixers' and the National Weavers' Federations broke away from the Textile Workers has John Golden's big textile labor organization been so seriously threatened with loss of power and influence. The secession of the Fall River fixers' union was a hard blow, for it was one of the strongest and best financed unions in the organization. Again the loomfixers' union have always been the strongholds of the organization and have dragged the smaller unions of textile workers along for a great while, and it is said the loomfixers are becoming tired of it.

The fixers got their power in the head organization when the spinning mules were gradually eliminated in the mills and ring frames were substituted. Before this time the mule

CALLS ON BECKER

Lawyer Manton Visited Condemned Man at Sing Sing

OSSINING, N. Y., June 19.—Charles Becker, sentenced to die next month for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was visited today in his cell in Sing Sing's death house by his counsel, Martin T. Manton of New York. Mr. Manton remained with Becker half an hour discussing, it was inferred, the plan to appeal for clemency to Gov. Whitman. This, it is believed, is Becker's only hope of escaping the electric chair, since the court of appeals decided yesterday to grant a re-argument on the appeal from his second conviction.

"Nothing to say now; perhaps later," was all Mr. Manton would say after the interview with his client.

PLEA TO GOV. WHITMAN

NEW YORK, June 19.—Charles Becker's plea to Gov. Whitman for executive clemency will be made some time soon, probably the latter part of next week, and will contain a statement which Martin T. Manton, his counsel, said today ought not only to save his life but set him free. Becker, a lieutenant of police and head of the "vice squad," was sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week of July 12 for inciting the murder of Herman Rosenthal, a gambler.

GERMAN REPLY

Answer to Second U. S. Note Will be Ready in Two Weeks

BERLIN, via London, June 19, 11:40 a. m.—Dr. Anton Meyer-Gerhard, where long report to Foreign Minister von Jagow, Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, under-secretary of foreign affairs, and Count Montegolas, head of the American section of the foreign office, acquainted these officials fully with the status of public opinion in the United States, will be given an opportunity to make a similar report direct to Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg before the actual work is commenced of preparing the German reply to the second United States note regarding submarine warfare.

Whether Dr. Meyer-Gerhard, who was sent to Germany by Count von Bernstorff, ambassador to the United States, will visit headquarters and present his facts to Emperor William in person has not been decided. In any case the German reply probably will not be ready for delivery in less than ten days or two weeks.

Extended conferences between representatives of the various departments concerned will be required to unify the views of the foreign office, the ministry of marine and the naval general staff for presentation to the Emperor.

These conferences and deliberations have not yet begun, and there is nothing to show what direction the current of German policy ultimately will take. It still is an open question whether the reply will be another ad interim communication or a definite rejoinder.

It may be stated regarding Dr. Meyer-Gerhard's report that the information brought by him contained little that was absolutely new to the foreign office, and its chief value lay in presenting a report of the strength of the various currents of public opinion in the United States and the attitude of President Wilson and his adviser in a more positive and convincing form than would have been possible in a written communication. It is understood to have made it clear there is no doubt that the American people are standing solidly behind the president in his insistence upon guarantees against a repetition of such an incident as the sinking of the Lusitania, and equally little doubt that no important section of the American people favor war if it can be avoided honorably.

AN ITALIAN RAID

Sea Plane and Dirigibles Attack Austrians on Isonzo Front

ROME, June 18, via Paris, June 19, 4:15 a. m.—A combined raid by an Italian naval sea plane and dirigibles upon Austrian positions on the Isonzo front is described in an official statement issued tonight at the war offices. Serious damage is said to have been done to railroad stations and to Austrian entrenchments. All the machines returned safely to their bases. The Italians are reported to have gained further successes in the important struggle which is developing around Piava.

The communication follows: "During the day and night of the 17th the enemy tried by long range artillery fire and small attacks to reduce some of our most advanced positions in the Tyrol-Trentino region and Cadore. He was repulsed and vigorously shelled by our artillery.

"In Carnia we continued methodically to demolish the fortress of Malborghetto with our artillery. On the afternoon of the 18th the guns of the fortress tried to reply to our fire but were reduced to silence.

"Further details continue to come in concerning the action in the environs of Monte Nero, mentioned in previous statements. These reports show that our mountain troops performed most praiseworthy exploits. When military action no longer prevent a full account being given, the country will learn that not only the mountain troops, but other corps have won on several occasions the right to its full and grateful gratitude.

"On the Isonzo front the struggle around Piava is assuming larger proportions and the importance of the success we have gained there becomes more and more evident. A naval battery shelled enemy batteries near Duino (on the Gulf of Trieste, between Monfalcone and Trieste) with considerable effect.

"On the night of the 17th while a naval seaplane was engaged in destroying the railroad station at Divaca (junction of the Istria railway), our dirigibles made an incursion over the enemy's territory, bombarding with great effect, it appears, positions at Monte Santo and entrenchments facing Gradisca. Extensive damage also was done the Ovcladea station, on the railroad from Gorizia to Dornberg. All the machines returned unscathed."

AIRMEN KILLED IN FALL

Biplane Plunged to Ground—G. H. Hersey Lived But 5 Minutes, W. D. Ely Died in Ambulance

BOSTON, June 19.—A biplane driven by Harry M. Jones, the aviator who made the recent flight over Boston, and carrying two students of aeronautics, collapsed while flying 125 feet over the Lotia Crabtree estate at Squantum yesterday afternoon and dived sideways to earth, killing the two passengers. They were H. Hersey, Jr., 21 years of age, of 3 Waumbuck street, Squantum, and William D. Ely, Jr., 19 years of age, of Providence.

Jones was cut and bruised and received concussion of the brain. He was taken to the Quincy hospital, where late last night it was said that he would recover.

What caused the accident is a matter of conjecture, as Jones, the only survivor, was too dazed last night to give an explanation. It is believed, however, that the motor backfired and destroyed the equilibrium. The machine tilted to the left, and under the strain of the weight of three passengers, the struts broke and the left wing crumpled.

The machine turned to a vertical position, and shot to earth dead weight, striking with such force that the stays on the left side were driven some distance into the soft loam on the field. The three men were tangled in the debris and piled on one another. All were living when first aid reached them, but Hersey, who lay on his back, died in the ambulance on the way to the Quincy City hospital.

Flew Over Quincy Bay

The three men ascended from the Squantum aviation field at 5:50, and after soaring to some height, dived over Quincy bay. There Jones circled a few times and took a westerly course toward the aviation field. The altitude was reduced somewhat on the return trip, and when over Miss Crabtree's estate on Ocean street, Jones attempted to soar that a knot might be passed over safely. He started circling, but his motor suddenly went dead. Spectators heard a loud report, and then saw the machine tip over to the left, crumple and dive to earth.

Harry G. Pope and Edward Landry, employees on the Crabtree estate, rushed to where the machine fell, about 60 yards in front of the mansion, and Mrs. John Jefferson, who lives nearby, called the police on the telephone.

In the meantime Dr. George H. Place of the Boston City hospital, Dr. A. C. Ripley of Brighton and Dr. D. A. Brown of Quincy, who were motoring in the vicinity and saw the machine fall, hurried to give the assistance that they would be needed. The police also called. Dr. George E. Conant and Dr. W. A. Bartlett.

Landry and Pope found the three men frightfully mangled and unconscious in the mass of wreckage. Hersey, lying at the bottom, was caught under the machine and the form of Ely.

Jones was partly supported by the remnants of the left wing and was clutching a tangled wire.

The rescuers took the men from the debris and placed them on the grass before the first of the physicians reached.

Only a glance was necessary to tell the doctors that Hersey's neck was broken, and that his chest was severely crushed. It was evident that he was beyond all hope, and they gave him attention to Ely, whom they found suffering from a fracture of the skull and a fracture of the right leg.

Hersey lived but five minutes, and passed away before the arrival of the police ambulance with Acting Chief McKay and Patrolman Hollingsworth. Ely during this time sank rapidly, and was breathing with difficulty. Little hope was held for him, as he was lifted into the ambulance. Stimulants were given to him before the start of the trip to the hospital, but he was so far gone that they produced little effect, and he died before the institution was reached.

Jones was bleeding from several cuts on the face, caused by striking against wires as the machine hit the earth. His head was severely bruised and concussion of the brain was so severe that he returned only to semi-consciousness. He was taken to the hospital in a physician's automobile.

Jones a Daring Flyer

Jones is 25 years of age, and a native of Providence. He first came into public notice as an aviator on Jan. 2, 1913, when he flew from the old Saugus race track and veerplanned to Boston common, a feat that Grahame White, Atwood and other leading aviators of that time had declared too hazardous to attempt. The machine remained on the common for a day or so, until it was taken back to Saugus.
